Geo. C. Moore, Jr. Shot His Wife

NIGHT EDITION

SHOT YOUNG WIFE

George C. Moore, Jr., Thought That She Was a Burglar

Sad Affair That Excited the Quiet Village of No. Chelmsford Last Night and Today

Dreaming that the house was being burglarized and mistaking his wife for the burglar, George C. Moore, Jr., shot his young wife in their home in Princeton street, North Chelmsford, about 10.30 o'clock last night. Fortunately the shot did not prove fatal and Mrs. Moore is resting comfortably. The bullet entered the lower part of the abdomen and came out through the fleshy part of the thigh. The bullet did not touch a vital part and the only thing to be feared is blood poisoning.

Mrs. Moore came to Lowell last night to attend a party in honor of one of her girl friends about to be married. Her husband did not accompany her. He was tired and preferred to remain at home. He retired early and because of the fact that it was necessary for him to leave the front door open for his wife he placed an automatic 33 calibre revolver under his pillow.

Mr. and Mrs. Moore slept directly over the office where is transacted all the business of the George C. Moore mills. George C. Moore, Jr., is superintendent of the Brookside mills at Brookfield. Because of the fact that his room was directly over the office where is located the company's safe, Mr. Moore kept a revolver in his room and as an extra precaution because of the door being left open to admit his wife, he put the revolver under his pillow last night.

Mrs. Moore returned to No. Chelmsford with Mr. and Mrs. George Sweet, neighbors of the Moores. When they left the car at North Chelmsford Mr. and Mrs. Sweet escorted Mrs. Moore to her home. She opened door, "good night," was said and she tripped lightly up the stairs.

The only noise was the banging of the door and that was the noise that awakened her husband. He had been dreaming of burglars and the bang of the door came at the moment in his dream when the burglar had entered. More asleep than awake he grabbed the dangerous weapon, the automatic revolver, and at that very instant his wife opened the door to his room. He could not see her face and was filled only with the thought that a burglar was upon him.

Bang! his finger had connected with the sensitive trigger and the bullet from his revolver passed through the body of his wife. She did not fall or faint and was not sure that it was her husband who fired. She ran downstairs to the street and called to Mr. and Mrs. Sweet.

Mr. Sweet ran to her assistance. She had fallen on the lawn and he carried her to her room. The horror of the near fatal tragedy had dawned upon the young husband and so great was his grief that the revolver had to be taken from him lest he would do himself harm. He was beside himself with grief.

Doctors were summoned by telephone and they responded hurriedly. Drs. Varney and Gage of North Chelmsford were at the Moore residence in a very few minutes and Medical Examiner Meigs arrived there in less than 40 minutes after the shooting. It was discovered that the bullet had not touched a vital part and that assurance came as the very soul of relief to the sorrowing husband.

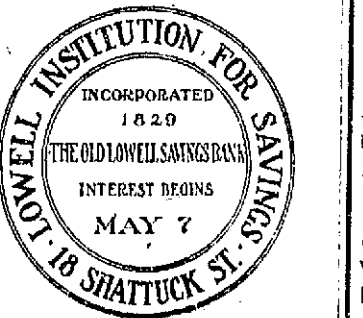

Mr. and Mrs. Moore were married one year ago last Christmas eve. She was Miss Sophie Blackwell of this city. The accident has cast a gloom upon the village where the name of Moore is a name to conjure by.

KING EDWARD

Is Reported to be in a Critical Condition Today

LONDON, May 6.—An atmosphere of great depression surrounded Buckingham palace today. The bulletin describing the king's condition and which five eminent physicians now in attendance issued shortly before noon while vague enough inspired profound gloom throughout the city. It was generally construed to mean that the outlook is not at all favorable. The suddenness of the transition from yesterday morning when the king was receiving politicians to the present when it is believed he is critically ill has shocked the country. For the moment business and politics are at a standstill.

The Prince of Wales arrived at the palace at 10 a. m. and entered almost unobserved. In addition to the three physicians who were in attendance throughout the night and are now spending the day at the palace, Sir Francis Laking, Sir James Reed and Sir Richard Douglas Powell, the specialist there, were summoned this morning. Dr. Bertrand Dawson and Dr. St. Clair Thomson. All of the medical party remained within call of the sick chamber.

The first official news given out early today indicated an improvement, those with the king having been deceived by the fact that he had rested quietly through the night. The news was received with cheers by anxious crowds gathered throughout the city. This bulletin stated that his majesty's condition remained much the same. The subsequent examination developed that the patient's bronchial tubes, instead of being in better condition, were more seriously affected after the night's sleep than they were yesterday. Thereupon a bulletin was issued, saying:

"The king passed a comparatively quiet night, but the symptoms have not improved and his majesty's condition gives rise to great anxiety."

The doctors announced that the next bulletin would be issued at 6.30 o'clock this evening.

The day was bright and sunny and before noon a great crowd was loitering in front of the palace in the vicinity of the new memorial Victoria building and many carriages gathered in St. James park. From early morning when workmen on the way to the scene of their labors stopped to enquire the king's condition from the police at the palace gate, the throngs increased steadily until the police were ity of the new memorial Victoria building and many carriages gathered in St. James park. From early morning when workmen on the way to the scene of their labors stopped to enquire the king's condition from the police at the palace gate, the throngs increased steadily until the police were compelled to keep the crowds moving. Only officials were admitted to the palace precincts. So absorbed were the people in His Majesty's illness that the arrival of the Prince of Wales attracted practically no attention. Early in the afternoon the members of the diplomatic corps called and signed the visitors' book, as did many other prominent personages. All left the palace betraying by their expressions the fears entertained.

"Very bad," said the archbishop of Canterbury with a solemn shake of his head as he emerged from the palace gate and was questioned regarding his Majesty's condition. The king's age and corpulence and the well known weakness of the heart which has resulted in several attacks resembling vertigo during the past two or three years and which were attributed chiefly to the constant smoking of strong cigars all have served to weaken his power of resistance to disease. The prospect of the death or long illness of the sovereign confronts the country at the worst possible time in years.

From a political and other points of view such an outcome would be particularly disastrous. The greatest constitutional crisis in generations hangs over Great Britain. King Edward is familiar with all features of the situation which would be particularly trying to his successor who, upon the threshold of his reign, would be called upon to deal with the question of employing the authority of the crown to curb the powers of the peers.

From a social and business standpoint the monarch's demise would be equally unfortunate. The social season when families are flocking from the country to London and the merchants counting upon a big business is just beginning and was expected this year to be the most brilliant of many seasons.

The king's death would throw the court and country into mourning and end the social activities. Incidentally Mr. Roosevelt's visit which all England has anticipated as a unique event might be cancelled or at least be made extremely quiet. Consols which to a great extent are a barometer of the business feeling dropped from $1 1/6 when the market closed yesterday to $1 at noon today. Leading financiers, when interviewed, expressed the opinion that the monarch's illness or death would have only a temporary effect upon securities generally and that the decline already recorded represents the marking down of quotations by brokers in anticipation of the selling which usually follows any startling news.

Stock Market Gossip

The market was very quiet today, due no doubt to the reported serious illness of King Edward of England.

While this may have been responsible in a way for the dullness, still the market's early week sessions had not given any promise of the shade of inactivity breaking in the latter week, and not much heed was given to the reports from England. The London market suffered somewhat through the illness of the king and the sales of this mart in the early hours showed severe declines. While our own market was not profitable as far as sales recorded to the noon hour showed, still it managed to keep moving and unless the season moves in sympathy with his sister mart in the late hours, nothing detrimental to the present market should appear.

A good bank statement may be expected tomorrow, according to despatches received this morning and the foundation of the report was laid on the continued high rates of money, combined with the failure to export any gold. The only thing which could alter the present condition of the statement between today and tomorrow noon would be a severe shift in the items of loans and deposits.

The bonds negotiated through the foreign markets on Wednesday did much in bettering the condition of the market and the influencing effect which they had is being felt and should be the means of bringing some life in the sessions of next week. The contemplated issue of short term bonds to the amount of $40,000,000 by the Baltimore Ohio road will also assist the market once it is consummated.

ASCENSION DAY

Observed by Mt. Calvary Chapter, Masons

The feast of the Ascension was observed with the beautiful ritualistic ceremony of the Rose Croix, Scottish rite, at the Masonic Temple by Mt. Calvary chapter, in this city last night.

Dignity was added to the event by the presence of illustrious Leon M. Abbott, 33 degrees, deputy of the rite in Massachusetts, and illustrious Geo. W. Currier, who holds a like position for New Hampshire. There was another active member of the supreme council, illustrious Charles T. Gallagher, in attendance, besides many honorary members of that body. A large delegation was present from Boston and vicinity.

At 6:30 Chas. W. Taylor, 32 degrees, M. W. M., of the chapter, greeted Deputy Abbott and suite, which comprised Chas. T. Gallagher and Geo. W. Currier, 33 degrees, actives of the supreme council; Everett C. Benton, 23 degrees, P. C. of Massachusetts consistory; Geo. E. Dunforth, 32 degrees, commander-in-chief of N. H. consistory; Rev. S. H. Robin and Addison L. Osborne, 33 degrees, P. W. M., of Mt. Olivet chapter of Rose Croix; John L. Bates, 33 degrees; John B. Pierce, 33 degrees, P. S. P. of Giles F. Yates council, P. of I.; Rev. A. St. John Chambré, 33 degrees; Moses C. Plummer, 33 degrees, M. of C. council of deliberation; Edward O. Fifield, 32 degrees, S. P. of Oriental council, P. of J. Nashua, and Harold A. Osborne, 32 degrees, of N. H. consistory.

The presentation was by Arthur G. Pollard, 33 degrees, chairman of the reception committee, and Deputy Abbott, in reply to the welcome, extended the felicitations of the most illustrious sovereign grand commander, illustrious Samuel C. Lawrence.

There were nearly 200 at the banquet. The chief table was in the form of a cross, and at the head was seated Most Wise Master Taylor, with the guests and committee extending down and along the two arms. The illuminated words, "Faith, Hope and Charity," were conspicuous at the three points.

At intervals during the addresses the most wise master called for the three sentiments. The junior warden, Herbert E. Fletcher, 32 degrees, said that in the south was "Faith," the one from the west, as given by the senior warden, Harry R. Dow, 32 degrees, was "Hope," and the same officer gave that from the east as "Charity," the response being an appropriate verse sung by the Water quartet referring to each sentiment. The other vocal numbers bore with special significance upon the day commemorated.

Deputy Abbott received the heartiest of receptions and in his remarks referred to the very cordial support and kindness extended to him by the Scottish rite Masons since he had taken upon himself his new duties. Advertising to the feast of the ascension, he said it was especially fitting that it should be celebrated by the Rose Croix, and trusted that they would depart with the idea of endeavoring to make the world richer, happier and better by their example.

Ex-Gov. Bates called to mind that first ascension day nearly 10 centuries ago and said that faith and hope had triumphed because of a belief in that ascension and also for the reason that deeds of charity made the world more desirable in which to live.

Master of Ceremonies Plummer spoke briefly in acknowledging the invitation to attend; Past Commander Benton, introduced as having built up Massachusetts consistory to its present great position, paid a warm tribute to Sovereign Grand Commander Lawrence and others who had built up the consistory. Past Wise Master Osborne, Past Sovereign Prince Pierce, Past Wise Master Roblin, Sovereign Prince Fifield, Commander-in-Chief Dunforth, and Deputy Currier were also speakers and were cordially received.

The quartet sang "The Lord Is My Shepherd" and after an invocation by Dr. Roblin, the quartet contributed "Hosanna" as the closing feature of the ceremonies.

There were regrets expressed at the absence of Rev. Dr. Hamilton, 33 degrees, the heads of the four Scottish rite bodies that meet in Boston and other representative Scottish rite Masons in New Hampshire, including Henry B. Quimby and John McLane, 33 degrees.

The reception committee for Mt. Calvary chapter comprised: Arthur G. Pollard, Charles C. Hutchinson, Josiah L. Seward, William E. Livingston, Charles F. Young, Solon W. Stevens, Charles A. Stott, Frank K. Stearns and Thomas Revington, 33 degrees; Le Dolt E. Kimball, Edward T. Goward, Frank L. Weaver and Charles R. Goward, 32 degrees.

Of those who have been at the head of the three bodies in Lowell there were present: From Mt. Calvary chapter, Solon W. Stevens and F. K. Stearns, 33 degrees, with G. F. Martin, 32 degrees; Princes of Jerusalem, Charles F. Young and Thomas Revington, 33 degrees, with Henry H. Harris and L. E. Kimball, 32 degrees; lodge of Perfection, Arnold M. Webster, Joseph Miller, Harry G. Pollard and E. T. Goward, 32 degrees, and Frederick W. Farnham, 18 degrees.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

One of the best comedy shows of the season came to the Opera House yesterday with the semi-weekly change of bill at that house and a splendid program was offered. The comedy element predominates throughout the programme and the large audience present was in continuous roars of laughter during the entire performance. Heading the vaudeville part of the bill are Lila, Harry and Gibson in a laughable concert titled "A Night at the Club" which affords an opportunity of introducing some excellent work on the piano by one of the trio and some singing and laughable comedy contributed by the other members of the team, repeated scenes of the several numbers being demanded. Another big comedy hit was that of Marlow and Plunkett, in a comedy skit called "The Dead Student," that kept the audience in roars of laughter. W. J. Holmes, billed as the Denman Thompson of vaudeville, proved to be another laugh producer of the first water and his offering was as big a hit as anything on the program.

Burns and Clifton proved to be exceptionally clever dancers who wear several changes of handsome wardrobe and completed one of the best vaudeville programs so far seen at the Opera House this year. The pictures shown were all new and seen in Lowell for the first time and included the latest biograph as well as several other good subjects. The current bill will be seen at the Opera House today and Saturday, afternoon and evening, and a big new program will be given Sunday afternoon and evening. Prices at the Opera House are five and ten cents.

THE MILK STRIKE

Each Side Claims it Will Win

BOSTON, May 6.—The striking milk producers today declared that if the warm weather experienced today continued the milk contractors who refuse to pay the prices during the summer asked for by the farmers would be unable to store their milk any length of time and would of necessity have to give up the city. On the other hand the contractors stated that they were receiving a full supply of milk daily and it will not be affected by the weather in the least. Their stored milk, said the contractors, they keep only a few days and they have plenty of ice for that.

Efforts to have the milk supply being shipped to Boston from outside states shut off were continued today by the producers.

MOTOR TRUCKS

FOR THE KANSAS CITY FIRE DEPARTMENT

KANSAS CITY, Kan., May 6.—No more horse-drawn fire fighting apparatus will be bought for Kansas City, Kan. The city commission has decided that in the future they will buy only the most improved motor trucks, fire engines and hose wagons. As a result of the new policy W. A. Harris, an architect who has prepared plans for the new fire station to be built at Fourteenth street and Reynolds avenue, was instructed to draw a new set of plans for a building suitable for the accommodation of motor instead of horse-drawn apparatus.

DIPLOMATS ALARMED

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Central American diplomats were thrown into a consternation last night over the news of the destruction of Carligo, At the Costa Rican legation here, Minister Calvo received word that the city practically had been destroyed, 500 persons were dead and many hundreds injured as a result of the disturbance. Further, the minister was informed by the department for foreign affairs, the shocks have now ceased and the damage and loss of life is confined to Carligo.

"BUCKETSHOP"

Dept. of Justice Wants to Suppress it

WASHINGTON, May 6.—The complete suppression of the "bucketshop" business throughout the United States is sought by the department of justice. Prosecutions already started are to be continued with unrelenting vigilance.

"We have a plan to put all the bucketshops out of business and that, too, without additional legislation by congress," said an official of the department today.

The cleaning up work in the east already has been systematically begun and a number of indictments have been returned. More have been promised as the result of investigations by the local grand jury the past few days. After the department is through in the east operations will be begun at Chicago and working from that center it expects to conduct proceedings in such a manner as to break up any business radiating from that place.

That feature of the traffic which includes the sending out of alluring literature is one which probably will receive the serious attention of the prosecuting officials in which case the postal laws will be invoked.

TRADES AND LABOR

At a meeting of the Lowell Trades and Labor council held last night it was stated that Lowell is practically free from strikes at the present time and business is generally good in those lines employing men affiliated with the council. WOMAN ESCAPES OPERATION

Was Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Elwood, Ind. — "Your remedies have cured me and I have only taken six bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was sick three months and could not walk. I suffered all the time. The doctors said I could not get well without an operation, for I could hardly stand the pains in my sides, especially my right one, and down my right leg. I began to feel better when I had taken only one bottle of Compound, but kept on as I was afraid to stop too soon." — Mrs. SADIE MULLEN, 2728 N. B. St., Elwood, Ind.

Why will women take chances with an operation or drag out a sickly half-hearted existence, missing three-fourths of the joy of living, when they can find health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has cured thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion, and nervous prostration.

No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine, made exclusively from roots and herbs.

SPRING SIGNS ON THE SKIN

Pimples, Itching Sores, Eruptions, Blisters, Fever Blisters.

The little blotches, itching spots, discharges, pimples, fever blisters, etc., which appear on the skin at this time of the year, indicate that the pores are overtaxed in their work of helping to renovate the system. A little poslam applied as soon as these troubles show will cause them to quickly disappear, leaving the skin in perfect condition to perform its duties.

In skin troubles of every form affecting both infants and adults, poslam produces beneficial results from first applications, stopping all itching at once. Eczema, acne, herpes, tetter and similar diseases yield to it readily. Poslam is non-oily, non-greasy, flesh-colored and cannot be detected at day-time. When used for scaly scalp, dandruff, boils, sores, chafing, hives, etc., it drives away soreness and cures rapidly.

Poslam is on sale for 50 cents at Carter & Sherburne's, Falls & Burkhins and the Riker-Jaynes drug co., as well as all drug stores. But a supply sufficient for most minor troubles, to clear the complexion overnight and rid the face of pimples, will be sent free of charge to any one who will write to the Emergency Laboratories, 32 West Twenty-fifth street, New York City.

FOREIGN COMMERCE

MANUFACTURES FORM FOUR-FIFTHS OF IT

WASHINGTON, May 6.—Manufactures and manufacturers' materials now form practically four-fifths of the entire foreign commerce of the United States, their aggregate importation and exportation in the nine months ending with March, 1910, having been $1,967 million dollars, or 78 per cent of the total of $2,515 million representing the imports and domestic exports of the country.

Of this $1,967 million dollars' worth of commerce transacted by or on behalf of the manufacturing industries, imports supplied $938 million and exports $1,029 million. Of the imports, 439 million dollars represented the value of the raw materials, 217 imported manufactures for further use in manufacturing, and 283 million manufactures ready for consumption. Of the exports 467 million dollars was the value of raw materials of domestic production applied for manufacturing industries in foreign countries, 200 million partly manufactured domestic materials, and 361 million domestic manufactures exported in finished form. The foregoing figures are the result of an analysis of the latest figures of foreign commerce recently made by the bureau of statistics of the department of commerce and labor.

A study of commercial movements, both at home and abroad, through the medium of the official statistics of the leading nations, discloses a rapid development of the world's manufacturing industries, evidenced not only by enlarged importations of manufacturers' materials but also by greatly increased exportations of manufactured articles. In this growth the United States is shown by the bureau of statistics figures to have participated in a steadily increasing degree. The United Kingdom, Germany, France and the United States are the world's greatest manufacturing nations. A comparison of their exports of manufactures in the period from 1880 to 1908 shows, for the United Kingdom, a growth from 958 million dollars to 1,394 million, an increase of 436 million or 45.1 per cent; for Germany, a growth from 356 million to 995 million, an increase of 640 million, or 180 per cent; for France, a growth from 329 million to 486 million, an increase of 157 million, or 48 per cent, and for the United States, a growth from 122 million to 750 million, an increase of 628 million, or 515 per cent.

The rapid growth in exports of manufactures from the United States—a growth more rapid than that of any of the other great industrial nations—justifies a more detailed analysis of commercial conditions affecting the manufacturing industry. In the fiscal year 1870, the importation of raw materials for use in domestic manufacturing was but 56 million dollars; by 1909 it had grown to 171 million; by 1900, to 276 million; and in the first nine months of the current fiscal year was 438 million. Of partly manufactured articles for further use in manufacturing the importation increased from 56 million dollars in 1870 to 117 million in 1890, 134 million in 1900, and 277 million in nine months of the fiscal year 1910. Thus the requirement of American factories for imported materials, including those crude and in the partly manufactured condition, has increased from 112 million dollars in 1870 to 410 million in 1900 and 656 million in the nine months of the current fiscal year for which statistics are available. Meantime importations of manufactures ready for consumption, which in 1870 aggregated 174 million dollars, were, in 1890, 231 million; in 1900, 293 million; and in the first nine months of 1910, 283 million. During the same period exports of crude materials for use in manufacturing increased from 213 million dollars in 1870 to 805 million in 1890, 326 million in 1900, and 467 million in nine months of 1910; exports of manufactures in the partly finished state, from 14 million dollars in 1870 to 47 million in 1890, 153 million in 1900, and 200 million in nine months of 1910; and exports of manufactures ready for consumption, from 26 million dollars in 1870 to 133 million in 1890, 222 million in 1900, and 261 million in the nine months of the fiscal year 1910 ending with March. The nine months' figures already at hand seem to indicate for the complete fiscal year 1910 a total importation of manufactures ready for consumption of approximately 330 million dollars; of manufactures in the partly finished state, 267 million, and of manufactures ready for consumption, about 480 million.

Manufactures form a decreasing proportion of the total imports and an increasing proportion of the total domestic exports of the United States. The share which manufactures (including both those ready for consumption and those in the partly finished state) form of the total imports has decreased from 53 per cent in 1870 to 44 per cent in 1890, and 42 per cent in the first nine months of the fiscal year 1910. Meantime the share which manufactures of all classes form of the domestic exports has increased from 39 per cent in 1870 to 21 per cent in 1890, 35 per cent in 1900, and 42 per cent in the first nine months of the current fiscal year. Considering only manufactures ready for consumption, those imported have decreased from 40 per cent of the total imports in 1870 to 24 per cent in 1910, while those exported have increased from 16 per cent of the total domestic exports in 1870 to 27 per cent in 1910. In other words, imports of finished manufactures in 1870 were

174 million dollars and exports of finished manufactures 66 millions, the excess of imports over exports of this class of products being 118 million dollars. In 1910, as shown by nine months' figures, imports of finished manufactures were 233 million dollars and exports of manufactures 361 million, an excess of exports over imports of this class of products amounting to 78 million dollars.

THE POLICE BOARD

Heard Complaints Against Two Police Officers Today

The board of police met in special session this morning for the purpose of hearing complaints which had been preferred against two patrolmen and also to hear the remonstrance against the granting of a pawnbroker's license to Thomas H. Kelley. Two of the hearings proved to be rather long drawn out and it was 12:30 o'clock before they were concluded.

The first matter taken up was the charge of breach of discipline preferred against Patrolman John J. Donovan, lawyer James E. O'Donnell appeared for the respondent and inasmuch as neither Mr. Donovan nor any witnesses were called upon the matter was disposed of in quick order, the board taking the matter under advisement.

The Kelley Affair
The next matter taken up was the hearing on the petition of Thomas H. Kelley that he be granted a pawnbroker's license. Dr. Stephen Johnson was the first witness called and in answer to questions asked by Lawyer D. J. Donahue who appeared for the remonstrants, said that he wanted the board to understand that he was appearing as a citizen. He then told of bills which had been given to Mr. Kelley to collect and testified that Mr. Kelley collected the money but turned only a portion of it over to him. Annie McGuinness, of 7 Main street, was the next witness called by Mr.

Donahue and she said that her husband has at different times sold his pay to Mr. Kelley.

John Doherty, a boarding house keeper at 93 John street, testified that several of his boarders had jumped their board bill and when he went to the Board mills to attempt to collect what money there was kept back he had found that the pay had been purchased by Mr. Kelley. He cited an instance where one of his boarders said that he could not pay and it is alleged an investigation showed that the man had sold his pay, which amounted to $15, to Mr. Kelley for $4.

Testifying in his own defense Mr. Kelley referring to the bills which he had to collect for Dr. Johnson said that some of them were so old that they could not be collected, while on others which were what he called uncollectible he charged 50 per cent for his services. He told of a telephone conversation which he had had with Dr. Johnson when the latter said "The getting to be a shoeing of a business," and his answer to that was: "Well, are you not wise enough to look on both sides of the ledger and see that you are ahead of the game?"

Lawyer Donahue put the respondent through a rapid cross-examination. He asked the following question, "Is all your property in your wife's name?" Mr. Kelley refused to answer the question, saying: "That is none of your business."

"Do you own any property?"
"I am a citizen of Lowell."

"As a citizen of Lowell do you own any property?"

"I am not here to answer your questions, Mr. Donahue."

Later Mr. Kelley stated to the board that his real estate is in his wife's name. He also admitted that he had personal property in his own name and that it was assessed to him.

Mr. Donahue made a strong argument against the granting of the application of the license and the board took the matter under consideration.

The Cook Hearing
The next matter taken up was the complaint against Patrolman Alfred C. Cook, who was charged in three complaints with "continued and persistent neglect to pay just debts," which is a violation of Rule 12 of the police manual.

John P. Curley, the John street provision dealer, testified that when Mr. Cook was running the restaurant at the corner of Bridge and Faigle streets, he ran up a bill of about $200. He said that Cook told him that he had lost between $1500 and $1700 in the restaurant during the short time he had been there.

Thomas A. McCann, who keeps a provision store in Gorham street, said that Cook owed him $138.48, $108.48 being due for meats and groceries, while

The remaining $30 was due on a note on which he went for Mr. Cook.

Andrew E. Barrett, who entered a complaint, claimed that Mr. Cook owed him about $100, but in order to be liberal and give the respondent the benefit of every doubt he would make his bill $80.

Commissioner Boulger said that the reason why he voted to reinstate Mr. Cook in the department was on the condition that he would pay the bill he owed. Commissioner Hanson said that he should never have voted for the fact that he was given to understand that the man intended paying his bill.

At the conclusion of the hearing the matter was taken under consideration.

Continued

WAS THROWN INTO CONSTERNATION LAST NIGHT

LONDON, May 6.—The kingdom was thrown into consternation last night by the sudden and totally unexpected announcement that King Edward was suffering from bronchitis in a form which caused some anxiety to his physicians, two of whom slept in Buckingham palace last night in order to be on hand in case of need. The first intimation that anything was amiss was the failure of the king to meet the queen who returned from the continent last evening. It has been the king's invariable rule to be present on the queen's arrival from any out of town journey, and his absence last evening was made the subject of general comment immediately it was noted.

The queen hurried to the palace and soon afterwards the public learned by an official announcement that the king had been ill for several days. The fact that his illness had been thus concealed from public notice increased the alarm when once it became generally known. The king suffered from a similar attack at Biarritz, owing to the inclement weather and cold winds, but it was supposed that he had completely recovered, especially as he had been at the opera at Covent Garden within three hours of his arrival in London from Biarritz last Wednesday.

On Thursday the king had a busy day. He gave an audience to Field Marshal Lord Kitchener, and Premier Asquith, and visited the Royal academy. On Friday also he gave several audiences and entertained Mr. and Mrs. Herbert J. Gladstone, at a farewell luncheon on their departure for South Africa, and visited the theatre in the evening.

The social activity tended to reassure the public mind, but it was noticed that while his majesty was viewing the pictures at the Royal academy, he looked pale and fatigued and lacked his customary zest and sprightliness, and the members of his entourage feared that this might betoken a return of the throat and chest trouble. The king spent the week-end at Sandringham with the object of combating the threatened attack and returned apparently better, but the sudden changes in the weather this week were very trying to his majesty and finally compelled him to keep indoors. He still attended to state business, however, and granted audiences, including among others on Tuesday an audience to Whitelaw Reid, the American ambassador and Lord Roberts. On Wednesday he entertained Grand Duke Michael at luncheon. In fact it was only yesterday that his physicians were able to induce the king with great reluctance to keep to his bed room and take a complete rest.

The bulletin issued at 7:30 o'clock last evening showed that the eminent specialist, Dr. Richard Douglas Powell had been called in. He, with the king's physicians, Sir Francis Lakin, and Sir James Reid, signed the bulletin, which read:

"The king is suffering from an attack of bronchitis and has been confined to his room for two days. His majesty's condition causes some anxiety."

The king is in good spirits despite his illness, and in addition to long visits from members of the royal family, he received in audience yesterday morning, Lord Bellingham, the newly appointed commander-in-chief of New

JOHN J. KEEFE

Well Known Citizen Died This Morning

The many friends of John J. Keefe, the well known provision dealer of the firm of Keefe Bros. and a former member of the board of overseers of the poor, will be deeply pained to learn of his death which occurred this morning at his home, 60 Claire street. The deceased had been ailing for some time and had undergone operations but of late showed an improvement and was able to be about again and his friends hoped that he would be spared for a long time. But very recently complications set in with the inevitable result this morning. Mr. Keefe was a native of Lowell and a life long resident of St. Patrick's parish, his family being among the pioneers of that section. Few men could ever boast of more general popularity for he was possessed of all the attributes of manliness. Honest, straightforward and progressive in business he was a most amiable character personally, kindly, of even temperament and generous to a fault and made friends of all with whom he came in contact. He bore his long and trying illness with true Christian fortitude and passed away happily and well prepared. He leaves to mourn his loss a widow, Mrs. Louise Campbell-Keefe; one son, James; two brothers, Dennis and Andrew; and one sister, Miss Minnie Keefe. The deceased was a popular member of the Knights of Columbus, which organization will have charge of the funeral, and funeral arrangements will be made at the communion breakfast of the council at the Sacred Heart church Sunday, the service being offered for the soul of the deceased.

CHILDREN DROWNED

Lives Sacrificed in the Canals of Lowell

Harry W. J. Howe of the board of charities has addressed a communication to Mayor Meehan, calling attention to the many drownings in Lowell canals, and asking that something be done to avoid such accidents. The letter is as follows:

May 5, 1910.

Hon. John F. Meehan,
Mayor of Lowell:

Dear Sir: The appalling loss of life in our improperly protected waterways continues. It is impossible to ascertain the comparative number of drowning accidents in these canals since their construction, but averaging the loss of life in these canals for the past few years, it is not an exaggeration to place the figure upwards of 1000.

A thousand human lives—mostly little children—blotted out, which in almost every instance could have been averted had the canals which are the cause of our trouble been properly fenced. We take up our papers constantly and read "Lost life in the canal. The unfortunate occurrence" took place in this or that section of the city. We read the above headlines with a little concern toward any attempt to prevent a repetition, as we do in nothing else, the advancing prices of commodities, acquiescing to the things which so regularly occur because we have become accustomed to them, and with no apparent effort to remedy unsatisfactory conditions.

The children of our city are permitted to trespass upon the banks of our canals which are unfenced; they enter too near the edge and succumb to a watery grave. There are other places where a fence on some of our main thoroughfares is but an apology. I will mention but one, and this is adjacent to the Pawtucket bridge on School street where three narrow rails have for years constituted a fence, protecting the passersby from accidentally falling into the surging waters below.

I have personally driven many children from this particular spot when passing, whom I have found leaning through the rails, attracted by the fascination of the water as it passes from the river in such volume through the gates and arches under the street and into the canal, or reaching down in an effort to pluck some flowers growing from the crevices between the stone embankment.

There are over 60 children residing in Pawtucketville alone attending the Bartlett school besides scores of others obliged to pass this dangerous spot several times daily, and parents sending their children across the Pawtucket bridge are constantly kept in a state of anxiety because of this open death-trap.

No further argument, I am sure, is necessary to convince the mayor of the city of Lowell of the importance of some action in this matter, when the lives of scores of children of the city are being not only continually jeopardized, but swallowed up, blotted out and sacrificed, homes are brought to grief simply because some one responsible has not taken interest and seen to it that the banks of our waterways were properly fenced.

I have, upon several occasions, called this important matter to the attention of former members of the city government, but have found an attitude of political indifference and don't care policy manifest.

I am sending this open letter, hoping that an aroused public sentiment may be awakened, and that you, as their official representative, may be instrumental in bringing about a proper remedy, which will protect many lives in the future from an untimely death.

Very respectfully,
Harry W. J. Howe.

Delegates to Musicians' Convention

Stephen F. Monahan, the well known clarinetist of the Lowell Cadet band, leaves tomorrow for Cincinnati, Ohio, where he will attend as a delegate from the local musicians union, the 15th annual national convention of musicians. He will be accompanied by Mr. Charles A. Delarondo as second delegate, and delegates at Boston and proceed to the scene of the convention in a special Pullman car.

In electing Mr. Monahan to represent them, the musicians union made a fine selection. Mr. Monahan is a valued employee of the Lowell Gas Light company and was a candidate for representative in the 17th district last fall. He is an able speaker and is well versed in parliamentary lore, and can be depended upon to give a good account of himself in the convention.

GIFT OF WATCH

John P. Hall Surprised by Friends

A number of the friends of Mr. John P. Hall, the well known member of the Lowell Cadet band who has recently engaged in business on his own account in Lakeview avenue, assembled at his establishment last evening and presented him with a beautiful gold watch with their best wishes for his future success. The presentation was made by Mr. Joseph S. Furlong, while Mr. Hall, who was completely surprised, responded gracefully.

GIRL KIDNAPPED

Three Persons Are Under Arrest

PROVIDENCE, R. I., May 6.—Mrs. Jessie Sawyer, 42, Mrs. Edith M. Robinson, 21, daughter of Mrs. Sawyer, and Napoleon M. Ayot, 28, all of Worcester, were locked up by police headquarters here last night, charged with kidnapping Helen, the seven year old daughter of John Jackless of 156 Charles street. The prisoners were located in Worcester Wednesday, the women having the child in their charge at the time. The party were brought here last night by Inspector W. E. McGinn of police headquarters. Up to a week ago Mrs. Sawyer was housekeeper for Jackless. Before leaving she requested the father to let her take Helen to Worcester with her. The father sold her repeatedly refused, but after she had repeatedly refused, he granted the women and Ayot claim he granted permission last Saturday. The child was taken that afternoon. The law covering kidnapping is a new one and conviction carries a severe penalty, the minimum sentence being five years in prison, while the guilty parties may be given a life sentence.

CHARITY BOARD

MET WITH THE NEW MEMBER IN ATTENDANCE

The board of charities met last night and passed upon a list of routine bills. No reference, however, was made to the $400 bill sent in by the Massachusetts Home for Feeble Minded Children for which a special appropriation has been asked. The board declined to aid several applicants. Join F. Burns, the new member, was present.

THE "INSURGENTS"

WILL NOT CHANGE POSITION ON RAILROAD BILL

WASHINGTON, May 6.—Insurgent senators say they do not intend to be swayed from their course on the railroad bill, no matter what tactics are pursued by the conservative republicans. Announcement of this unyielding attitude was made at the conclusion of an insurgent conference last night, by Senator Cummins of Iowa. It was uttered in the presence of several of his progressive associates.

For three days the insurgents have been in session for a thorough consideration of the railroad and legislation situation, the conference continuing throughout the daylight hours when the senate has not been meeting.

THE STRIKE SITUATION

The Crisis May be Reached in Providence Today

PROVIDENCE, R. I., May 6.—The crisis in the strike situation in this city where 100 members of the building laborers' union are out is expected today for at an early hour the committee of six representatives of all the crafts affiliated with the American Federation of Labor in which was last night vested the power to either call out 8000 union employees in a general sympathy strike or to settle the strike of the building laborers started out to confer with all the contractors with whom the striking foreigners are now at odds. Included in the committee who will today decide whether the sympathetic strike will be called is Felice D'Alessandro, the organizer of the building laborers' union.

For all of the fact that 36 of their number have been arrested during the last 48 hours for rioting and have been heavily fined the Italian strikers assembled the same as usual today and started their rounds of the buildings where the laborers are supposed to be at work. As has been customary the last two days' trouble was reported during the early hours but the authorities fearing that further attacks would be made upon the laborers by the strikers later in the day had assembled at the various police stations every available special officer while the regular policemen are in many cases guarding the laborers working on buildings or in ditches.

CHARLIE WHITE

May Referee the Big Fight

SAN FRANCISCO, May 6.—San Francisco is still buzzing with rumors about the referee for the big fight. Outsiders seem to be pretty well agreed that the third man in the ring will not be a Californian and they are looking to the east for available candidates for the job of presiding over the destinies of the Jeffries-Johnson encounter.

Among the easterners given prominent consideration is Charlie White of New York, and the fact that his name was not mentioned at Wednesday's conference is declared to be significant and has given rise to the suspicion that he is being groomed as a dark horse by both factions.

No other pronouncement regarding the referee matter has come from either camp since the meeting, but it is reported that Johnson is holding out for the men he has named and thinks Jeffries will agree to one of them. Jeffries does not appear to be concerning himself over the vexed problem and has passed it up to Berger. Johnson continues to sidestep his gymnasium on the beach and is devoting himself to walking and to spins in his automobile. There is one active man in his camp however, Joe Thomas, the California middleweight, who is training hard for his fight with Bill Papke here next week.

JEFFRIES LOOKS GOOD

BEN LOMOND, Cal., May 6.—The ease with which Jim Jeffries toyed and trifled with Joe Chynski in their first bout yesterday has made a remarkable impression on the latter and he is still singing the praises of the big man with whom he fought a twenty round draw in San Francisco 13 years ago.

"His return to form," said Joe, "is nothing short of marvelous. Jeffries' footwork, his wonderful speed and his idea of distance is perfect. I will stake my judgment that Jeffries could be in shape for his fight with Johnson inside of a week. Few people realize the splendid condition he is in at the present time."

Bill Papke here chimed in and made Joe's song of praise a duet.

"Jeff is the king of boxers," he said. "I have been in training here and consider my wind good, yet I came out of my round with Jeff blowing as if I had not trained a minute. He is so fast that he is bewildering."

Papke searched the landscape for a metaphor. "A big man beside a sand heap—that is the way I would compare him to any man I have ever seen in action."

JAS. B. HAMMOND

Gives $1,000,000 to Factory Employees

NEW YORK, May 6.—James B. Hammond, the millionaire typewriter inventor, gave $1,000,000 to the employees of his factory one day, and now he is sorry. He wants his money back. The employees don't want to give it up, which is not overstrange. To settle the question, Mr. Hammond has filed suit in the supreme court, and the case will come for trial within the next two weeks. The suit promises to be a unique one in court circles. At the trial will be told how Mr. Hammond, desiring to reward faithful old employees for building up the typewriter business, turned over to five of them as trustees 520 shares of the capital stock of the Hammond Typewriter company. Mr. Hammond alleges his intention was to retain control of the stock until his death, when the trustees were to apportion it to those employees who had served five years or more. This plan, Mr. Hammond says, was not carried out but instead of waiting until his death the trustees assumed control of the business and sought to put him aside. Mr. Hammond has named as defendants John W. Bancroft, secretary of the company and superintendent of the factory, and four other executive employees. All five trustees have been associated with the founder of the typewriter company since its inception.

(JAMES B. HAMMOND)

The document bequeaths $50,000 each to the Home for Aged Women of Minneapolis, to the Home for the Little Sisters of the Poor, Minneapolis, and for a memorial library at Corinna, Minn.

The rest of the estate, which is estimated at $6,000,000, is divided among relatives and friends living in Maine, Massachusetts and San Francisco.

BROTHERHOOD OF ST. ANDREW

WORCESTER, May 6.—Following the communion in the four Episcopal churches in this city, addresses of welcome were read to the delegates of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew at the opening session of the 22nd annual New England assembly of the order at St. Matthew's parish house today.

Bishop A. H. Vinton of Springfield, Episcopal bishop of western Massachusetts and Rev. Henry Hague, rector of St. Matthew's church were the speakers.

A business meeting was then held after which there was a conference of the Junior brotherhood.

The assembly held other sessions in the afternoon and will meet again tomorrow and Sunday.

Lowell
OnlyFOR SPOT CASH*I Buy Out Brockton's Highest Priced Tailor

JOHN T. MURPHY a little over three months ago opened one of the handsomest tailor shops in Brockton at 174 MAIN STREET. Catering to high class trade, his elaborately fitted store contained only the finest foreign and domestic wools. His stock was noted for its extreme taste and conservatism, every yard of which reflects credit on his judgment. But increase of living in a town like Brockton made it impossible for him to do business with $30, $35 and $40 suits and this is the reason he takes a loss of $5000 on his complete stock, and Mitchell's customers get the benefit. I have made this purchase at a time when I am already overstocked with wools and it is my intention not to carry over a yard of stock. These goods are in my open doorway today that you may be able to judge and verify all that I have said for them. See them and handle them in the open air without solicitation and when you make a selection, call one of my cutters and be measured. The price for suit to order will be $12, with a $5 Pant Free.

THE BIG FIGHTThe Governor Will Not Interfere
With It

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 6.—In response to scores of letters received at the governor's office since the death of Tommy Mulcahey, after his fight with Owen Moran in San Francisco last Friday night, urging Gov. Gillett to stop the Jeffries-Johnson fight on July 4, E. Forest Bitchell, executive secretary to the governor, sent out answers yesterday, saying that the governor was powerless to interfere.

The statement, which officially outlines the governor's attitude, follows: "This office is in receipt of your letter inclosing reasons by the Ministerial union relative to suppressing the Jeffries and Johnson prize fight, or contest, July 4, 1910.

"Gov. Gillett is enroute to Washington and probably will not return to Sacramento for a month. Lieutenant and Acting Governor Porter will not be in his office for a week or ten days. "Replying to your letter in their absence, permit me to say the governor is not in favor of prize fights, that he has never attended one in his life, and says he never will. However, under the laws of California I believe he is helpless to prevent or suppress this so-called boxing contest, because the law allows such contests. If the necessary permit has been granted by the local authorities. In this instance, I understand, this permit has been granted.

"I would suggest you file your complaint with the district attorney of Alameda county, and, if this is a prize fight, and not a boxing contest, he has the right to put a stay to it. In all probability, however, the local authorities will be seriously handicapped until such time as the law is amended by the state legislature so that the distinction is clearly shown between a prize fight and a so-called boxing contest."

AT JEFFRIES' CAMP

BEN LOMOND, Cal., May 6.—Joe Choyinski had his first tryout with James J. Jeffries yesterday, and, at the close of the three round bout he said that while he was in excellent shape himself, he was a mere baby in Jeffries' hands.

Jeffries gave Choyinski, who has assumed charge of the boxing end of the training camp, every chance to make a good showing in the opening exercises, and while Joe displayed much of his old-time cleverness, Jeffries was much faster and showed progress. Only a handful of Jeffries' trainers and four newspapermen witnessed the bout yesterday afternoon. No visitors were permitted in the enclosure, for both Choyinski and Papke were to be taken on for the first time. Jeffries has always been averse to the prying eyes of strangers on such occasions.

Papke donned the gloves first, Jeffries being as gentle with the middle-weight as possible. In the second round he gave Papke a rather stiff right over the eye. This severely shook the boy from Kewanee, Ill., and raised a big lump.

"Better not use that on me again," Papke whispered as they fiddled, and thereafter Jeffries used his left entirely. After the set-to with Jeffries, Papke said:

"I wish I had boxed with Jeffries all the time. Not once did he hit me hard intentionally, and I can learn a lot from him. I am pretty strong myself, but I was a mere baby in his hands."

Then came the bout with Choyinski. The two faced each other for the first time since the 20-round draw in San Francisco, in 1907. Like Papke, Choyinski looked like a pigmy alongside the former champion. Choyinski evidently is in better shape than any of the other boxers in Jeffries' camp. He displayed much of his old-time agility and prowess and came out of the contest without distress. They went at it with a will, Jeffries favoring Choyinski throughout. He was even more gentle with him than he was with Papke.

Choyinski declared that after a few more days of sparring he would show his better advantage. In his work with Choyinski, Jeffries delighted his trainers by displaying a lot of the old-time ginger. He romped around the ring like a boy who loved the game. After the boxing he went through a couple of handball games at topspeed and indulged in rope skipping, boxing, punching and shadow boxing.

Papke will leave for training quarters near San Francisco on Sunday. He would have liked to have completed his training for Joe Thomas here, but said Promoter Coffroth insisted on his being nearer the scene of his coming bout.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., May 6.—Jack Johnson is training in leisure. Since he has been in San Francisco he has divided his time between spells of business and pleasure, mostly pleasure. He objects to the mention of any sort of work and objects to any disturbance of his tranquil existence. His gymnasium is ready for him, but he passes it by without even peeping in, finding more benefit in the sun-bathed, wind-swept beach.

All that he cares for by way of diversion from his simple life is his automobile. When he is not sleeping or walking he is at the steering wheel of his touring car.

His big racing car arrived Wednesday and sent a thrill through the apprehensive managers of the big fight.

Manager George Little said yesterday that Monday had been chosen for beginning the conditioning season. Johnson will be put on a routine schedule and from then until the day of the fight he will be carefully watched and handled by his trainers.

JOHN D. AITKENHad a Wonderful Escape From Death

ATLANTA, Ga., May 6.—John D. Aitken during the automobile race meet here had a wonderful escape on the back stretch of the Atlanta speedway yesterday when his National-40, making 70 miles an hour, dashed into the inside fence and over the embankment. The front of the car was smashed but Aitken and his mechanic, Wilson, escaped with scratches.

The accident happened in the 49th mile of the race of the day, the 200 mile stock chassis, 301 to 450 cubic inches, when Aitken was about two miles in the lead of his nearest competitor and giving promise of lowering the track record for the distance. The race was won by Harroun in a Marmon car, in 3 hours, 2 minutes, 31.25 seconds.

Lewis Strang who was forty miles behind Harroun at the finish of the race received second money, $300. Harroun got the $5000 Atlanta speedway trophy and $500.

One Atlanta track record was broken in yesterday's racing. Ralph de Palma clipping 20.28 seconds off the 20 mile record for cars of 451-600 cubic inches piston displacement, made by Robertson in a P. L. A. T. last year.

ANNUAL MEETINGPRESIDENT FOR MERRIMACK RIVER SAVINGS BANK

Adams was an honorary president of the institution.

Franklin E. Johnson, for many years cashier of the bank, was chosen to the place of treasurer, made casual by the promotion of Mr. Lamson. The board of trustees chosen is the same as last year, as follows: Charles Runkin, Percy P. Perkins, Walter H. Howe, Charles C. Young, O. B. Randall, N. G. Lamson, Harry K. Hayes, Charles E. SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

Mrs. Lou Stuart Wadsworth was the principal speaker Thursday morning at the memorial service held by the Grand Temple of Pythian Sisters in the Ford building, Boston. The service was according to the ritual of the order and Mrs. George W. Panniman, wife of the retiring grand chancellor or the Knight of Pythias, sang.

Following the memorial service the convention went into business session, and Mrs. Margaret Bill of Whitman was elected a trustee. Grand Chief Mrs. Jenny W. Dolliver presided at the business session, which considered routine matters until noon. The afternoon session began at 2 o'clock and included the presentation of jewels to the retiring officers of last year and the installation of the new officials.

Mrs. Emma L. I. Jacobs of Brighton yesterday afternoon was elected grand chief of the Grand Temple.

The feature of the convention of the grand lodge of the Knights of Pythias in Ford hall during the afternoon was the victory of George S. Harrington of Taunton, who was elected grand outer guard in the only contest of the convention. George E. Cleaves of Malden was elected grand chancellor.

The grand lodge refused to separate the order and its insurance department. A committee of five was appointed to consider the project of erecting a Pythian temple in Boston.

The officers elected by the Pythian Sisters, other than grand chief, Mrs. Jacobs, were: Grand senior, Mrs. Mary A. McCain, Boston; grand junior, Mrs. Elva L. Wolworth, Whitman; grand manager, Mrs. May Hall, Somerville; grand keeper of records, Mrs. Annie J. Harvey, Taunton; grand mistress of finance, Mrs. A. Cora Stiles, Lowell; grand protector, Mrs. Anna Hubbard, Lowell; grand guard, Mrs. Lucy Day, Lynn.

NEW YORK

SENT OUT OF TOWN

Englishman is Alleged to be a Swindler

BOSTON, May 6.—Charles Harcourt, an Englishman, whose picture is in the rogues' gallery in New York, was sent out of town by Deputy Supt. Watts yesterday as a swindler whose presence in this city was not desirable. He was arrested by Sergeant Murphy and Special Officer Mitchell of station 4.

It is stated by the police that a business man, whose name is withheld, met Harcourt in New York a week ago. They became acquainted, and after a while Harcourt is alleged to have made a proposition to him by which he declared the race tracks in New York could be beaten by means of wire tapping.

The Boston man apparently felt to the deal, and when he came back to Boston he told a friend of the affair. The friend said it was a bunco game, and he said that he had better have the police on hand when the deal was made. The Boston man met Harcourt in a hotel in the downtown district and the two officers were on hand. They arrested Harcourt and he was locked up in station 4 for the night. Yesterday morning he was taken to police headquarters.

Harcourt was indignant at his arrest. He declared that he led an honest life and denied that he had over-been arrested before. But Edward Sherlock, who is in charge of the rogues' gallery, looked through his pictures and soon found one which caused Harcourt to lapse into silence.

Deputy Watts then spoke a few plain words to Harcourt. He told him that Boston was no place for swindlers. As the police had no strong case against the man, Deputy Watts decided to get rid of him by giving him a chance to leave town.

Harcourt did as the deputy suggested and left for New York by the first train.

A LIVELY BLAZE

Fire in Ingham Block in Church Street

A lively blaze broke out in the office of the William A. Ingham Co. at 44 Church street this morning and but for the prompt arrival of the fire department and the work of the members of the fire would have proved to be a very disastrous one, for the flames had made considerable headway before being discovered.

It was about 5:40 o'clock when a passerby noticed the fire in the office and rushing to the old Boston & Maine depot pulled in an alarm from box 58. When the department arrived on the scene the interior of the office was ablaze and the fire had made its way to the room above.

Chief Hosmer is of the opinion that the fire started in a rat's nest which was in the partition and after burning across the floor went up the partition and then to the floor above.

Fred C. Church had the insurance on the building.

SHOTS FIRED

At Chas. J. Glidden
and His Party

EAST HADDAM, Conn., May 6.—Upon landing here early today from an aeronautical journey for the purpose of making astronomical observations, particularly of Halley's comet, the occupants of the balloon Massachusetts stated that they were fired upon by some unknown person about three miles north of Manchester just before sunrise. The person used a rifle and while the bullet did not strike the balloon or its passengers it whistled uncomfortably close to their ears.

Prof. David Todd of the Amherst college observatory, who with Mrs. Todd and Charles J. Glidden, accompanied the party, reported that his observations of Halley's comet, as well as the planet Venus, the moon and the sun were very successful and that he had gathered much information. The balloon which arose from Pittsfield, Mass., at 2:15 this morning, landed at 4:10 in a Russian settlement five miles from Long Island sound and seven miles from Colchester, an airline distance of eighty miles. The time of the voyage was four hours, 10 minutes and the highest elevation reached was seven thousand feet. After landing the aeronauts loaded their balloon into the only means of transportation available, a rickety Russian cart, and rode seven miles to Colchester, where they boarded a train for Springfield. Prof. Todd was too fatigued to speak of his observations but said he would have some very interesting information to divulge when he reached Springfield.

THE HEINZE CASE

NEW YORK, May 6.—John P. Fernier, the expert accountant, was again on the witness stand today when, in the United States circuit court the trial of P. Augustus Heinze resumed. Yesterday Fernier described methods by which United Copper company dividends had been paid, largely, he claimed, by means of loans taken out to be repaid when the "insiders" turned back their dividend money to the Heinze estate. The witness today described the manner in which, as alleged, the company has financed itself for the payment of the dividends.

On Jan. 26, 1907, he said, when the United Copper company had a quarterly dividend falling due that company had a balance of less than $50,000. Here Max Schultz of Otto Heinze & Co. stepped in and borrowed $600,000 from the Mercantile National bank, adding to this a check of $120,000 from A. P. Heinze, making a total of $720,000 available for dividend payments.

Then began a system of exchange of checks through the subsidiary concerns of the United Copper company.

These checks of the $720,000, Mr. Fernier traced until the sum was brought home to Max H. Schultz's account in the Mercantile National bank. This method, he testified, resulted in giving the subsidiary bank credits and enabled the United Copper company to pay $1,025,000 in dividends. Of the dividend payments but $155,000 went to the holders of United Copper outside of the Heinze family. The Heinzes and their dummy holders, clerks in the employ of the Heinzes, according to Fernier, on receiving the dividend checks endorsed them back to Schultz, who deposited them in the Mercantile National bank to his account. Then Schultz discharged the $600,000 loan.

TWO GREAT CUE ARTISTS WHO ARE TO PLAY FOR WORLD'S BILLIARD TITLE

Huerton and Alfred De Oro for the three cushion billiard championship of the world to be played here May 16, 17 and 18. As the men have been meeting all comers for the past few weeks and are in excellent shape, new record runs are looked forward to. Huerton and De Oro are two of the greatest cue wielders in the world today and have held both the pool and three cushion titles of the world several times. Early in January De Oro lost the three cushion title to Fred Eames of Denver, and shortly after the latter relinquished the honors to Huerton, who now holds the emblem. Last fall Huerton won the pool championship of the world from Johnny Kling and in turn lost it to Jerome Keogh of Buffalo. De Oro also held the pool title and for many years was regarded as invincible.

NEW YORK, May 6.—As it is the last big cue match of the present season, widespread interest is being taken in the coming contests between Tommy

GANLEY A STAR Lowell Player Making a Hit in Newark

Who says "Bob" Ganley has gone back? Listen to what the Newark papers have to say about him.

Where are the fans who were roasting Bob Ganley? He has been in three entire games and batted for a teammate in another game. That time he didn't try. In the others, he did, and he won or helped to win all of them. He prevented a double play in the first full game in which he took part by knocking the ball out of Natross's hand. He got away with it. Had the double play been completed Montreal would have won. Victory No. 1. In another game he laid down a bunt, beat out the ball to first, and the winning run came in. Victory No. 2. In yesterday's game he batted out a single in the tenth inning, bringing in the necessary tally. Victory No. 3. Newark has won seven games. Ganley has been a big factor in three of them. Pretty valuable player, is he not?

Ganley gave the Royals a run in the fourth when he dropped Madden's hit, after two runs down. Smith scoring. I can't remember a time that my club lost any game where I made a costly error," said Bob. "Generally in some manner or other the club managed to get tallies enough to win out as the Indians did Thursday." Ganley controlled his chair. He scored two runs, batted out a double and won the game with a perfect bunt. That squares accounts for the error.

Ganley is plainly an experienced player and an all around clever performer. His fielding cannot be criticized and his work on the base-paths is high class. He stole second and third, in order yesterday. In getting to the midway bag he got a big lead on Krause, and Ira Thomas, in spite of a perfect throw, had no chance to get him.

The bunt laid down by Bob Ganley in the ninth, with the sacks craved, and two out, was a clever piece of work. The former Philadelphia player got the infielders laying out when he pulled off the trick and sent the winning run over the plate.

Guess it's a pretty hard job to pick between the two. Ganley's batting is playing phenomenal ball and neither can be spared from the game. It's easier to keep others on the hard boards.

Bob Ganley is figuring in the games a whole lot for Newark. His bingles have won two contests for the Indians in as many days.

BOXING GOSSIP

Quite a number of local sports will go to Manchester tonight to witness the bout between Jimmy Morley of this city and Billy Rolfe of Boston. A special electric car will leave Merrimack square at 5.45 and connections will be made so that the Lowell men may return to this city tonight after the show. Morley is in fine condition and promises to give a good account of himself.

Young Boyle of this city is out to meet any 118 pound man in New England.

FOR APPENDICITIS

AMBROSE McCONNELL WILL UNDERGO OPERATION

BOSTON, May 6.—It was announced last night that Ambrose J. McConnell, second baseman of the Boston American league baseball team, is to be operated upon today for appendicitis. McConnell has complained for some time of pains in the right side, but it is only within a few days that his trouble was found to be appendicitis.

Louis Leroy, the Indian pitcher, who has been with the Boston team this season up to the present time, has been returned to the St. Paul club of the American association from which he was purchased. Leroy has at different times played with the New York Americans and other major league clubs.

HIGHEST BOWLING SCORE

DOVES WON OUT

In Opening Game at Brooklyn Yesterday

BROOKLYN, May 6.—Although out-batted, Boston took the opening game of the series here yesterday, 1 to 6. Mattern kept the hits well scattered and was favored by excellent support at critical points. A remarkable one-handed catch by Sweeney, which he turned into a double play, saved the game in the sixth. Barger was equally effective except in the fifth. The score:

DIAMOND NOTES

Nobody lost on New England league pools yesterday. Rain alone scored.

We're still tied for third place.

Wolfgang remained behind in town over Wednesday, but left for New Bedford last night. We should split even with the Whalers.

Tom McDermott, formerly manager of the Fall River team in the New England league and at one time a resident of Brookton, has been appointed an umpire in the Wisconsin-Illinois league by President Elliott. Mr. McDermott, who is now living at Havenhill, will be the only eastern umpire, President Elliott claiming he wants some eastern ideas brought in to the league. Tom has had considerable umpiring since he quit the management of the Fall River team.

Ulrich was the happiest man in town yesterday. And the reason—because he is to again don a New Bedford uniform. Ulrich went south with Brooklyn by which club he was drafted last fall, and has been with the big leaguers ever since. Veterans in Brooklyn's line-up made the necessity for Ulrich at this time not so urgent and Dowd did the rest—New Bedford exchange.

Pitcher Tyler is the talk of Lowell. The manifest improvement which he is showing over last season indicates that he devoted the winter to faithful practice and has the stuff in him to reach big company. He has practical control of the ball, which is something of which every left-handed pitcher cannot boast. He finds his position beautifully, and has batting ability.—Lynn Evening News.

AMATEUR BASEBALL

Last night at the Y. M. C. A. rooms the final meeting before the opening of the Lowell & Suburban league season was held and considerable business transacted. The manager of the Buntings having withdrawn his team from the league it was necessary to substitute a team, and from three teams that applied for admission the Mysteries of Centralville were chosen. The schedule for the season were then distributed to each manager and the rules were again discussed.

The scheduled games for the opening of the season the coming Saturday are as follows: Y. M. C. A. and Dixwells at Allen street grounds; Cadets and Grimsoms at Braut Centre; Brookside and Mysteries at Lakewood avenue; and Dixwells and J. P. S. at the North common.

The most successful season in the history of the league is assured this year as all of the best amateur-players in the city are represented in the league, and fast baseball is looked for in the opening games.

MISS MARY HARRIMAN, C. C. RUMSEY, R. H. GOELET AND THE HARRIMAN HOME

THE HARRIMAN HOME AT ARDEN WHICH MAY BE MOTHER'S PRESENT TO BRIDE

ROBERT W. GOELET

MISS MARY HARRIMAN

NEW YORK, May 6.—Miss Mary Harriman, eldest of the children of the late E. H. Harriman, is engaged to be married to Charles Cary Rumsey, son of Lawrence D. Rumsey of Buffalo. The engagement is the result of a romance between the capable daughter of the great financier and a young sculptor of promise. Mr. Rumsey is the son of a successful business man, but has given all his attention to art. He has for some years spent most of his time in this city working at sculpture and has been seen little even by his friends at the Harvard club. Nearly all his time in this city was spent in a little studio at the top of an old fashioned building at 45 East Fifty-ninth street, between Park and Madison avenues. He first met Miss Harriman four years ago at the Meadowbrook club races. Later he undertook some work at Mr. Harriman's new house at Arden. Miss Harriman was her father's confidant in many of his business affairs and was trained especially to understand the management of the estate at Arden. Mr. Harriman's confidence in her judgment was so great that he made her one of the executors of his great estate. She has been in active charge of the Arden farm's dairy and the 45,000 acres of the Harriman Orange county farms. Mr. Rumsey is thirty years old and was graduated from Harvard in 1902. He spent several years in the study of art in Boston and Paris and afterwards settled down in this city. He is known in art circles, although he has not exhibited very much of his work. He had a bronze statue of an Indian at the Pan-American exhibition at Buffalo and later held an exhibition of his work there. He is a good polo player and has hunted with the Genesee valley pack. In his love for horses he follows his uncle, Geward Cary, who for a number of years drove the Red Jacket coach between Buffalo and Niagara Falls. Society has been confident that Miss Harriman would marry Robert W. Goelet. Young Goelet was the choice of Mr. Harriman, according to reports, as the king of the railroad world always took him on his tours throughout the country.

A BIG SENSATION

A Well Known Boston Accountant Arrested

BOSTON, May 6.—George Duthie Strachan, the well-known accountant, was arrested at 2.04 yesterday afternoon on the Chicago-St. Louis train before it drew out from the Trinity place station in the Back Bay.

He was arrested by Serg. George E. Stitt and Serg. F. Allen Rutherford of the Brooklyn police on a warrant charging him with adultery. When arrested, Mr. Strachan was on his way to Nashville, Tenn. He was placed in an automobile and taken to the Brooklyn police station, from which he was later released on bail.

The arrest was the sequel to a somewhat sensational story and was a step in further legal proceedings through a suit for separate support and maintenance entered at the Dedham court for a woman who arrived only yesterday morning on the steamer Ivernia from Scotland and the mother of his five children, one of whom, Metchen Strachan, 18 years old, she brought with her on the steamer.

Thought Wife Was in Scotland

Relations of Strachan and the Scotch wife some time ago determined to inform Mrs. Strachan in Aberdeen, Scotland, of the life her husband was living in Boston. They secured counsel for her and the case against Strachan was worked up with her knowledge, and she was induced to come to America to prosecute him.

The whole thing was evidently a great surprise to Mr. Strachan, who opposed his wife was in Scotland. But there is little in his life that hasn't been turned up by detectives.

Counsel, detectives and officers had to do some strenuous work to catch Mr. Strachan before the Chicago-St. Louis train left Boston. They had to get the woman and child off the Ivernia and through the immigration office, where considerable red tape had to be gone through. Then a warrant for the arrest had to be secured in Brooklyn.

It was just 1.50 when the Brooklyn officers and two detectives jumped into an automobile and rushed for the Trinity place station of the Boston & Albany, where they arrived just as the train drew in from the South station, which it had left a few minutes before. The conductor was shown the warrant and asked to hold the train a moment. Strachan was found in a Pullman and taken from the train.

This done, another automobile rushed to the Dedham court, where a civil suit was entered for the separate support and maintenance of the woman who arrived with one of her children on the Ivernia earlier in the day. A little later the property of Mr. Strachan, including a new automobile, was attached to satisfy the suit.

Only a few of those 75c tension shears left and will be sold on Saturday only at 39c. Dows, druggist.

AUTO CARNIVAL

To Be Held in This City in September

There will be a grand automobile carnival in this city during the middle of September despite rumors to the contrary. It is expected that the event will be of two days' duration and during those two days the people of this city will be given an opportunity to see better racing than was witnessed at the carnival held last year.

On the first day there will be held a light car race over a distance of about 200 miles, while on the following day the big car race of about 250 miles will be pulled off.

As to the number of cars which will be entered, it is hard to determine at the present time, but it is assured that there will be more cars entered in the two proposed races than was in the four races held during the two days of the carnival last year.

The people of Lowell are enthusiastic over automobile racing and after witnessing the races held during the past two years they will not stand for the omission of a year's racing.

The race will be known as the New England Stock Car Road Race and will be sanctioned by the A. A. A. and undoubtedly will attract hundreds of thousands of people to this city.

The Lowell business men and public at large will not be asked to contribute to any fund in support of the race, but the public will have to pay to witness the events.

The manufacturers of automobiles are so delighted with the Merrimack Valley course that they have deemed it a detriment to the city to allow a year to elapse without the holding of a contest, and the manufacturers have promised their moral as well as financial support towards the conducting of the proposed race.

While the plan for the two days' race is still in its infancy, there is every indication that the affair will be a grand success.

It has suffered frequently from earthquakes, and was partially or in greater part destroyed in 1725, 1803, 1825, 1841, 1861 and 1884. On April 13 last a series of earthquakes, varying in intensity, swept over Costa Rica, doing considerable material damage, but practically without loss of life. San Jose suffered most severely while both Cartago and Fort Limon felt the force of the disturbances.

LARCENY CASES

Occupied Judge Hadley's Time Today

The stuffy little room that is substituting for a real court room while the real court room is being renovated, reached the limit of stuffiness this morning, when it was crowded to the doors with a large gathering in the corridors.

Emma Parent was particularly unfortunate for she was hauled in for drunkenness twice within 72 hours and she was sent to jail for three months. Frank O'Brien, a parole man from the state farm, was given a second term.

Cornelius Kellher was fined $16 for evading a board bill due one John Riley. It seems that Kellher was brought in before and was placed on probation so that he might have an opportunity to make good to Riley. He slipped up and was taken in on a capias and fined.

Case Continued
William F. Higgins was again continued; the case being put off until tomorrow and the charge will remain hazy instead of breaking and entering. Higgins was rooming at the home of one Mary Smith of Central street and it is alleged that he purchased a watch from an instrument company, paying $1 down. He sold the watch to the Smith woman for $10. Later he was forced to vacate his lodgings, it is alleged, but retaining his key went back in the absence of the Smith woman and took away not only the watch but told her but another and two rings. He pleaded not guilty.

McKenna vs. Kane
When the case of Charles J. McKenna and Patrick J. Kane for breaking and entering and larceny from the barber shop of Anthony Homan, two razors and two clippers, was called it was found that McKenna was on the verge of nervous collapse and his appearance was positively distressing to those who saw him. He wanted the case to proceed, however, stating that he was nervous as the result of drink, but that he was all right mentally, but the court decided that he was not in proper condition to conduct a defense and ordered his case continued until next Monday. The case against Kane was heard and probable cause being found he was held in $500 for the grand jury.

The case of Dr. George Demopoulos for practicing without being registered was discontinued as the doctor has since become registered in compliance with the law.

Bought Barber Shop
Most of the time of the court was taken up this morning by Frank Ladd, the well known legislative agent, and James E. O'Donnell, the equally well known attorney, who appeared for Yadan Maridigan, a barber, who until recently conducted a shop in property owned by Mr. Ladd in Paige st. Mr. Ladd was the principal witness and he gave his testimony in characteristically breezy manner occasionally referring to Lawyer O'Donnell as "Jim" while Lawyer O'Donnell becoming intensely interested came back with "Frank," the court allowing the familiarities.

It seems that the defendant bought out a barber shop in Mr. Ladd's building formerly owned by a cousin of his and the mortgage stood in his name and fixtures. The purchaser took that to mean everything but the walls. When he came to pass that Mr. Ladd was about to make improvements on the building and ordered the tenant out. The latter became somewhat vexed and in moving out started to take the "stake and fixtures," which, according to his way of thinking included most everything that was portable. When he started to take a screen door and some screens and when he took an axe and started to remove a boiler such as is used by barbers for getting hot water, Mr. Ladd protested on the ground that those things were put in by him and should not be removed, but the defendant removed them nevertheless.

Lawyer O'Donnell stoutly maintained that the defendant thought that he had bought everything in sight, and his cousin, who sold out to him and when asked where the cousin was he sadly replied, "Gone to the old country." Mr. Ladd then volunteered this information:

"Your honor, I think the truth of this matter is that this man's cousin 'killed' him and then cleared for Constantinople. I told him that the things were mine and with reward to the green door and the window screens he brought them back when I objected but later in my absence he took them away again." The defendant admitted that he was trying to rip out the sink when stopped by Mr. Ladd, whereupon the court remarked: "You didn't take the walls of the building, but most everything else."

Lawyer O'Donnell argued strongly on the fact that the bill of sale said "stock and fixtures" and that the defendant believed that that included everything and had no criminal intent. The court decided not that the defendant was guilty outright, but that "there was a certain measure of criminal responsibility" and continued the case one week to allow the defendant to make restitution satisfactory to the owner of the property.

Larceny Charge
"Are you ready for trial?" asked Judge Hadley of Frank E. Jefferson, charged with larceny of a number of articles from a club house in Billerica street owned by William E. Rigg. "Sure," responded Jefferson, in a loud voice.

"What do you mean by 'sure'?" demanded the court, "do you mean that you are?" "Yes," said Jefferson, and the case went up.

Mr. Rigg and his son testified that several articles had been taken from the club house adjoining his property, the club house being the one building that escaped the recent fire at the Rigg household. There was no trace of the articles since their disappearance and of all the witnesses but two could connect Jefferson with the theft, and they saw him with a level and a cannon in his hand in the vicinity of the club house. Before they met him they noticed that a rear window was boarded up; afterward they noticed that the boards had been removed from the window. Jefferson said that he was fishing in the vicinity of the Rigg estate and went over to look at the ruins of the recent fire. While there he saw a level and a cannon in the ruins of the fire and picked them up and looked at them, after which he laid them in the road nearby and went away without taking them with him. Mr. Rigg recalled, stated that the articles mentioned by the defendant were never in the ruins, but were in the club house, the level being in a drawer. Furthermore, they claimed that if the defendant had laid them in the road he would have found them by this time. Jefferson was placed in charge of the probation officer.

BODY OF MAN

Was Identified by His Brother

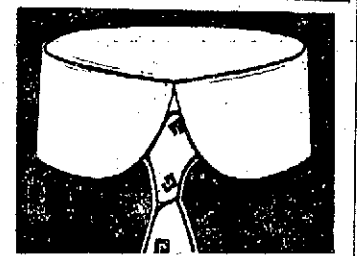

NEW YORK, May 6.—Hugh K. Toler, a broker, yesterday identified at the morgue the body of a man found Wednesday night in the East river as that of his brother, Henry Pennington Toler. The latter was an inmate of the Manhattan state hospital for the insane on Blackwell's island and disappeared Feb. 1, it being thought then that he jumped into the river.

Henry P. Toler was a wealthy broker, who several years ago gave up his Wall street connections and became a devotee of faith healing. His mind gave way and he was committed to the Blackwell's island institution.

When the body was found, a letter, dated Boston, July, 1908, was discovered in the pocket of the man's trousers. It was signed Adam H. Dickey, secretary to Mrs. Eddy, and read as follows:

"Dear Mr. Toler—Your letter to Mrs. Eddy has been received by me. I assure you, in our leader's loving belief, there is nothing treasured up against you by reason of anything you have ever done or said.

"You do not know me personally, but my heart goes out to you in your present condition, and I will surely do all in my power to help you regain your health and strength. It is now your place to do everything well instead of worrying about the past. Remember that evil is not power and you are already free from any supposed power it may claim to have over you, because it is powerless—nothing."

The following statement was given out last night by Alfred Farlow, secretary of the Christian Science publication committee:

"Mr. Toler has been mentally afflicted for a number of years. His trouble seems to date from the time when he was wrestling to work out his scheme to recover that portion of New York city which was formerly called the City of Hamlet. He claimed to be one of the heirs of that property. I have been told that he spent a fortune in this scheme and that the matter weighed heavily upon him.

"I had a long talk with Mr. Toler about two years ago and I found that he had entirely departed from the teachings of Christian Science and was in great confusion, but I was not able to reason with him nor convince him of the error of his hallucinations."

BLOOD POISONING

CAUSED THE DEATH OF ENGINEER NEEDHAM

BOSTON, May 6.—Blood poisoning, which developed from a slight cut on the hand received at his fire station, caused the death of Engineer Charles T. Needham of engine 16, Temple street, Dorchester, Lower Mills, who had been a member of the fire department for nearly 40 years, at the City hospital at 12.30 yesterday afternoon.

The engineer was setting a light of glass in a door when he cut his hand. He had the wound dressed and thought nothing more of the incident until his arm commenced to swell. He entered the City hospital and heroic efforts were made to save his life.

ACCIDENTS IN PICTURE THEATRES.

In New York last week there was a serious accident in one of the picture theatres in which several people were injured. Since the introduction of the new regulations for the management of picture theatres in this state, there have been few accidents. The state police show great vigilance in looking after the mechanical appliances used and in guarding against accidents. The regulations now in force seem to be very effective for that purpose.

STATES CAN PROTECT THEMSELVES AGAINST TRUSTS.

Two important decisions were handed down by the supreme court this week dealing with the matter of state rights and affirming in each case the sovereign right of the state to regulate commerce within its boundaries. Other states, notably Texas and Kansas, have passed rigid laws against the operation of trusts, and after all this is the most effective method of restraining combinations in restraint of trade.

Heretofore, the whole country, or at least a large portion of it, has looked to Washington for redress which more directly lies in the hands of state authorities. The state has absolute power to rid itself of the operation of trusts. All that is needed is to find the evidence, and where the trusts are really operative the finding of evidence should be an easy matter.

KING EDWARD AND POLITICS.

It is very seldom that King Edward sends out a personal note to the public. In this respect he is probably the most silent monarch on earth. His majesty, however, has recently caused a public announcement to be made that he does not want his name to be mixed up in political controversies. This is probably a result of the speculation as to what he will do in reference to Premier Asquith's request that the king should create enough liberal peers to carry the resolution annulling the veto power of the house of lords on measures passed by the commons. Should the king refuse to do this then Premier Asquith will appeal to the country, and if a verdict be returned in his favor, the lords will probably sign their own death warrant.

It is hoped the present alarming illness of the king will not have serious results.

THE BOSTON DEADLOCK.

Judging from the fact that the civil service commission has not confirmed any of Mayor Fitzgerald's appointments, it appears that the arrangement which gives the commission the power to hold up any or all of his appointments will not work, at least while the commission is constituted as at present. The appointments by Mayor Fitzgerald thus far, with one or two exceptions, have commanded very general approval and commendation, the civil service commission alone withholding its sanction. Thus we see a deadlock in operation to obstruct the transaction of public business in the city of Boston and to baffle the one official who has to bear all the responsibility. The arrangement is wrong, and unless the commission gives evidence of fair-mindedness towards the mayor of Boston, it must be changed in the interests of the people of Boston. It is wrong to hold the mayor responsible without giving him the power necessary to set things right.

THE SCHOOL FRATERNITIES.

The board of education at Bridgeport, Conn., has decided to abolish all the school fraternities. That is a step in the right direction. The school fraternities as conducted in high schools, serve only to demoralize the schools, to create class distinctions, to injure discipline and retard the progress of the members. In this respect what is true of a fraternity in Bridgeport is equally true of such fraternities in other cities.

So far as we have been able to judge, the fraternities unless directed by the teachers are detrimental rather than otherwise. A good debating society that would teach the members parliamentary procedure and enable them to express themselves clearly in debate, is very useful to any young man. The secret fraternity as conducted in most of the schools, however, does not answer this purpose. It would be well to have the debating society under the supervision of the teachers, take the place of the secret fraternities that have recently become so numerous and have almost without exception proved not only worthless but injurious to the members and to the schools in which they exist.

COUNTRY SCHOOLS VS. CITY SCHOOLS.

Editor Sun:

Will you please explain why it is as you can find to be the case, that children in country schools learn faster and make more progress than those who attend our best city schools? It has often seemed strange to me. My children go to one of the public schools of Lowell; my neighbor's children attend the schools of Dracut and are getting far ahead of mine in all the important branches, reading, writing, arithmetic, grammar and language. I can't understand it, can you explain it and oblige. Yours truly, Citizen.

The information set forth in this communication, although rather strange, is not new. Children in the country schools, as a rule, do make more rapid progress than those who attend the city schools. We are asked to state why.

We believe there are two reasons. First, because the curriculum in the town schools is not loaded with facts. The time of the children is not wasted on matters of little or no importance. Second, the pupils in the country school receive more individual attention from the teacher than in a city school where the instruction is imparted to pupils in the mass and where in consequence children often get confused ideas of the instruction given. These errors are corrected only by personal interrogation which is commonly used in the country school and but seldom, so far as each pupil is concerned, in the city school.

A fussy little bantam rooster has kidnapped the brood of a Plymouth Rock hen on George Hill's farm at Ladgewood, N. J. The bantam took it into his head that he could take care of a brood of chicks as well as any hen in the yard, so he led, or drove the Plymouth Rocks to another place and took charge of them.

The mother clucked excitedly for awhile and ran around after her stolen brood, but the pugnacious attitude of the little ones to abandon him blocked her efforts. She took to disconsolate clucking and scratching in a corner of the yard, while the victorious thief of a family got busy taking care of the chicks.

He found it hard to encompass the whole troupe at night when it came time to shelter them, but by stretching his legs and wings he just managed it. Now the bantam is utterly disdained by the other roosters. Even the hens show their contempt by pecking at him whenever he ventures within reach.

Miss Rhoda Taylor, of Lewiston, Pa., believed by all her friends to be a spinster, died several months ago. The administrator advertised to sell the farm, an old homestead, with stock and implements. On the day of the sale the auctioneer—snatched the black and announced that the sale had been indefinitely postponed. It has just looked out that on the morning of the sale in rummaging among her papers, Miss Taylor's will was found. In it she bequeathed all her property to her husband. Attached to the document was a marriage certificate showing that she had been married to Samuel Gilliland, a well known farmer of the valley, more than five years prior to her death.

HAVERHILL COS.

Granted Right to Transport Liquors

HAVERHILL, May 6.—The municipal council last night ended the wrangle that has been going on for two weeks over the applications of five local express companies for the right to transport intoxicating liquors into this city by granting permits to three companies, the American Express company, Marston's express and Carter Russell company.

Mayor Moulton and Alderman Harris voted for all five permits; Alderman Desmond voted for the three that were granted and Killam voted against all. Messrs. Moulton, Harris and Desmond took the stand that by the statutes they were obliged to grant one or more permits, while Alderman Killam and Bean argued that the people had voted no license and therefore should be given a dry city.

Besides acting on the express problem, the council re-elected Herbert F.

Taylor to a term of six years on the license commission. Alderman Bean voted for Frank E. Giles, but the remaining four members of the board perfected the election. Mr. Taylor was a member of the board against whom Rev. Frederick R. Greul preferred charges last fall.

How to Cure Pimples

It is truly remarkable how Cadum, the new skin remedy, causes pimples to disappear. The very worst cases are frequently cured in a week, and often in even less time. Cadum causes pimples to dry up and fall off, leaving the skin as soft and smooth as a baby's. Pimples are a disease of the skin, and are not caused by bad blood, as many people suppose. Cadum cures these annoying and disfiguring facial blemishes because it can be applied direct to the trouble, and its soothing, antiseptic and healing powers stop the itching at once. Cadum is just as efficacious in other skin troubles, such as blackheads, blotches, rash, eruptions, acne, eczema, etc. 10c and 25c; all druggists.

Where the Big Tennis Stars Will Play During the Season

By TOMMY CLARK.

THE lawn tennis season of 1910 has actually forged ahead in the zone of championship contests. The opening of the actual playing occurred earlier this year in most parts of the country than for many years past. Of course as far as the championship events are concerned the interscholastic tournaments were first scheduled, and several of them have already occurred. The matches at the universities throughout the country are always the first titular racket contests of each season.

The first really big tournament of national importance is the middle Atlantic states championship at the Bachelors' club in Washington. This series will be notable because of the announced intention of W. A. Larned, the five time national champion, to be on hand to play. If he is any way near form he should easily win the tourney.

Two features loom up large in the annual list of championship and open tournaments for the season issued recently. For the first time in the history of the game the all corners' national championship tournament on the casino courts at Newport, R. I., will begin on Monday instead of Tuesday, the designated date being Aug. 15. The meeting is to be the climax of the lawn tennis year, as is made evident by placing the clay court championship tournament of the United States, over which so much controversy has been waged, on Aug. 1 on the courts of the Omaha (Neb.) Field club.

The latter date is a change from the original intention, as the first week of September was asked by the western players. From the dates it is evident that the executive committee intends to allow nothing to overshadow Newport's time honored session on the courts. The women's national tournament, as usual, holds the courts of the Philadelphia Cricket club at Wissahickon heights the week of June 20.

As it stands the list of 119 tournaments is most representative and is larger than in any previous year.

The list of important tournaments follows:

May 21—Longwood Cricket club, Boston, New England interscholastic championship.

May 23—Bachelors' Lawn Tennis club, Washington, middle Atlantic states championship.

May 25—New York Lawn Tennis club, New York city, Manhattan doubles, open, singles.

May 25 to 30—Brae Burn Country club, West Newton, Mass., Massachusetts state championship, doubles.

May 30—Merion Cricket club, Philadelphia, women's championship of Pennsylvania and the eastern states.

June 6—Merion Cricket club, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania state championship for men.

June 11—Longwood Cricket club, Boston, Massachusetts state championship, singles.

June 14—Trenton Country club, Trenton, N. J., central New Jersey championship.

June 15—West Side Tennis club, New York city, metropolitan championship.

June 20—Philadelphia Cricket club, Wissahickon heights, Philadelphia, national championship for women's singles, doubles and mixed doubles.

June 27—Orange Lawn Tennis club, Orange, N. J., middle states championship.

July 2—Illinois state championship at the Aztec Tennis club, Chicago.

July 18—Northwestern championship at Lake Minnesota, Minn.

July 18—Longwood Cricket club, Boston, eastern doubles championship and nineteenth annual Longwood singles.

July 23—Onwentsia club, Chicago, western championship, doubles, western singles for men and women.

July 27—Crescent Athletic club, New York state championship, singles and doubles.

Aug. 1—Omaha Field club, Omaha, Neb., clay court championship of the United States.

Aug. 2—Onwentsia club, Chicago, preliminary national doubles.

Aug. 15—Newport Casino, Newport, R. I., United States National Lawn Tennis association's championships in singles, doubles and interscholastic singles.

Aug. 23—Niagara Lawn Tennis association, Niagara-on-Lake, Canada, international open tournament.

Sept. 7—E. Merion Cricket club, Philadelphia, interscholastic championship.

Sept. 12—Morristown Field club, Morristown, N. J., New Jersey state championship.

Sept. 12—Bachelors' Lawn Tennis club, Washington, District of Columbia championship.

Sept. 26—Longwood Cricket club, Boston, women's singles, doubles and mixed doubles.

Feb. 22, 1911—Seventh Regiment Tennis club, New York city, indoor championship for men.

March 11—Seventh Regiment Tennis club, New York city, indoor championship for women.

Davis Cup Plans.

England and America are already moving toward the deciding of the preliminary tie matches between the British Isles lawn tennis team and the Americans for the Davis international challenge cup either at Wimbledon, London or in New Zealand.

The Australasians cabled recently to the English association with a view to arranging the competitions, probably for the courts at Christchurch, N. Z. Secretary Newburn of the British association says that before replying to the Australasians he had offered the Americans through Dr. James Dwight, president of the United States association, the choice of playing either at Wimbledon or in New Zealand.

The English association stands ready to guarantee the same amount of expense money, about $2,000, that the Americans guaranteed to the English last season for the tie matches which were decided upon the courts of the Germantown Cricket club, Philadelphia. It is likely that this country will accept the proposition.

It is intimated that in any event no British team will visit this country for the international lawn tennis cup ties this season. Last year the Britons narrowly averted a split in their own association because of sending a team to this country. The situation was so fraught with tense feeling that two special meetings were held upon the subject, and only the diplomacy of the leaders saved the English team from withdrawing altogether.

From a reliable source it was learned that William A. Larned, the national champion, and the ex-champion, Beals C. Wright, would be the leaders of the American team that would invade England. In any case, according to the rules, the men need not be named before August and probably would not sail for London until after the national championship tournament at Newport had been decided.

Australian Tennis Team Coming.

The Australian Lawn Tennis association will send an invitational team to America the coming summer in hope of capturing the national championship and other titles. It is announced that this team will consist of the four greatest players in Australasia—Norman E. Brookes of Victoria, Anthony F. Wilding of New Zealand, A. Walter Dunlop of Victoria and Dr. Sharp of New South Wales. The team probably will sail for America the latter part of May and will be accompanied by a team of six golfers comprising the best golf talent in the island continent.

Both teams will make complete tours of the United States and will compete in all of the important tournaments.

The visit of the Australasian players will mark the first appearance in the United States of players from the Pacific continent. Chief interest, of course, will attach to the appearance of the great Brookes, who for the last three years has been regarded as the greatest exponent of lawn tennis in the world.

Wilding, his doubles partner, however, is almost as well known as Brookes and was responsible more than the latter for the victories of Australia over the two teams from America which invaded the British colony in 1908 and 1909 in quest of the Davis cup.

The other two members of the Australasian team, Dunlop and Dr. Sharp, are not so well known in this country, although Fred E. Alexander, holder with Hackett of the American doubles championship, regards the former as the greatest doubles player he ever has seen.

The actual plans of the Australasian team have not been made known, but it is regarded as a certainty that the quartet will appear in the western championships at Chicago this season.

Ryan to Help Train Nelson.

Evidently Oscar Battling Nelson, the former lightweight champion, intends to make as much of a fuss over himself in the coming battle with Ad Wolgast as Jim Jeffries is now doing for his matchup with Jack Johnson. Although the battle is a long way off, the Dane has already made arrangements with Tommy Ryan to help him out in the training and handling of the big go.

"Ryan knows more about fighting than any man that ever lived," said Nelson recently. "He made Jim Jeffries, Kid McCoy and a host of other pugilists. I am too old a bird to be taught many new ring tricks, and it would be the height of foolishness for me to attempt to change my style, but Ryan can adapt himself to the circumstances, and when he has studied me—and that will only take him one day—he can teach me to vary my work and my fighting so as to make both far more effective than they have ever been."

"Ryan has more knowledge of the ring than all the other fighters in the world put together. I don't care how much a man knows, Ryan can teach him more. He is absolute master of every detail, and his high order of intelligence and his consummate cunning enable him to make a fighter out of any reasonable timber. His advice alone in a corner would be worth all I am paying him. Believe me, if he would take Johnson in hand Jeffries' task of regaining the championship for the white race would be 100 per cent harder. I think the deal of signing him will make me a favorite in the betting over Wolgast—a very unusual thing as far as the opinion of the public is concerned."

"DOC" GESSLER, WASHINGTON'S STAR RIGHT FIELDER.

As has been the case many times before where a change of scene has made a good ball player out of an indifferent one, so has it been with Doc Gessler, guardian of the right garden for Washington. Listless playing marked Gessler's work for the Boston Americans last season, but now, with a seemingly weaker club, his playing surpasses any he did while with the Red Sox for the last couple of years. His fielding is perfect and his hitting timely and heavy.

SHERWOOD MAGEE, PHILLIES' STAR RIGHT FIELDER.

In Sherwood Magee the Philadelphia Nationals have one of the best outfielders in the game today. Besides being a crack handler of the pill, he is also a speedy base runner and one of the most timely batters in the country. This season he is duplicating his feats of previous years and adding his team greatly by his work. In the last few years Magee made more sensational catches in the outer garden than any other fielder.

Is "the Play" the Thing?

Southerner, Northerner, Frenchman and Manager's Representative Debate in Foyer and at the Lambs—Mabel Taliaferro's New Play—Nazimova's New Theater.

By FRANK H. BROOKS.

Southern Editor: People present, southern colonel, northern editor, Frenchman, manager's man. Time, after last curtain of "The Spendthrift" (by the author of "A Fool There Was"), in which Edmund Brees played the role of a husband to the wife portrayed by Miss Thais Magrane, whose extravagance had ruined the husband financially and whose infidelity had made him mentally distracted, after all of which he forgave her and took her back.

Northern Editor—When the husband found that he could not control his wife's extravagance and that she was dragging him to financial ruin, why didn't he divorce her? That's what a man in similar circumstances does in New England, no matter how much he loves his wife. Where's the moral in this play? If the playwright's idea is to set a gait, this ending is a warrant for any woman who has the disposition to go wrong.

Frenchman—Have you seen the play of Laurence Irving, "The Three Daughters of Monsieur Dupont"? That is the way among the bourgeois. The question of love does not occur in the making of the match. It is a commercial transaction—a marriage of convenience. The girl Julie is simply bartered off for the benefit of two families. After the marriage the husband, embittered because he doesn't get as much money with the girl as the bargain called for, quarrels with the wife. A regular rough and tumble fight is pulled off between them in which the garments of the wife are sadly disarranged. Then the two families get together, and husband and wife are reconciled. That is the way it comes out in the play.

Southern Colonel—No gentleman would engage in a scrimmage such as you describe with his wife. If that's permissible in a play I say it's the play. What's a play for? In comic opera it is different. But a play is supposed to be a mirror of everyday life.

Northern Editor—Our novels of the day end the same way. And I say hang them!

Frenchman—Ah, but in France, where the marriage is for convenience, and such things do occur there, everything is possible.

Manager's Man (bustling in)—Well, we are playing for money. If the play brings in the ducks, what's the odds how it ends?

Discussion is transferred to the Lambs club, and a bunch of playwrights listen and laugh.

A MAKEUP HIT.

Playgoers with a past will remember the Lone Fisherman in "Evangeline." Never spoke he a word, but he got more hands than any one in the cast. There are several plays in which some one has only an enter and exit part, but they are mere cogs in the works and pass without notice. Silence alone is without consequence. Makeup and action are telling points.

Soldon has there been seen on any stage in the parts referred to one who made such a favorable impression as Miss Louise Wolfe, who takes the character of the maid, Justine, in Laurence Irving's production of Brieux's "The Three Daughters of Monsieur Dupont" at the Comedy theater in New York. The few words spoken by the maid are almost inaudible in the back rows. And what she says scarcely makes a complete sentence.

The makeup would attract no attention in the street, but seen on the stage and taken in connection with the sullen action of the character it stands out as conspicuously as anything done by any of the other actors, who are admirably well balanced for the part which each portrays. If the most frayed theatrical expression may be pardoned "it is worth the price of admission" to see Miss Louise Wolfe in her striking makeup in one of the most interesting plays now on the boards.

STAGE CALL FOR CHILDREN.

According to two playwrights whose productions are now running in New York, if a wife can bear children for a child the course of her domestic life will run on as placidly as the brook that murmurs under the leafy boughs of June. He would be an unmitigated scoundrel who would doubt the blessings that follow childhood in a home. But it is something new for a playwright to drag in the question as it is dragged in and in the way in which the drag is done in the two plays in question. The matter is not hinted at in any delicate fashion, but is bluntly put. In one case a young man who is engaged to be married is asked by his guardian if he has asked the young woman if she would object to bearing a child. The playwright thinks he has taken the curse from the rather singular question when he puts in the words, "I do not think it would be proper to ask my fiancée such a question."

In the other play the awful rumpus between husband and wife, which ends in a fight literally all over the stage, grows out of the longing of the wife to be a mother. "Thank heaven there are such wives, but how often have you seen this sort of thing brought out in a play?"

AN INCIDENT AFTER THE PLAY.

It was the night after the production of Laurence Irving's play at the Comedy theater in New York. In one party waiting for the chauffeur was the attractive figure of Maxine Elliott. In another party stood the splendidly gowned Miss Nazimova. In the doorway lingered the tall form of Dan Frohman. Several well known authors stood near. Miss Elliott's escort endeavored to get her through the crush to her car. The same did the escort of Mme. Nazimova. A big car stopped at the outer edge of the sidewalk. Somebody in the crowd said, "Stand back!" and then a pretty young woman, modestly attired, on the arm of a young man, had the right of way. The pair entered the big limousine and was hurried away. One of the attractively gowned women in the crowd was heard to say, "Well, did you ever!"

Then another one, not a woman, said, "Great change in that young man. Not long ago he was sleeping on a park bench when he was routed out by a policeman."

The young man referred to was Eugene Walter, now a successful playwright. The pretty young woman on his arm was his wife, Charlotte Walker, who has just closed her engagement in her husband's play, "Just a Wife." The twain had seats in the back rows of the Comedy. The others mentioned had boxes. But in the street the playwright and his pretty little wife came first. By the way, you have heard before this that Miss Walker will in the future be under the direct management of her husband instead of that of Belasco. Walter believes that he will be able to manage as well as to write. It is a theory of some play people that when

Miss Mabel Taliaferro, Nazimova, Laurence Irving and Laura Guerite

Miss Mabel Taliaferro (Mrs. Frederic Thompson) has a new part in the pretty and old fashioned play "The Call of the Cricket." The play is the creation of Edward Peple. It is having a successful season at the Belasco theater, in New York city. In this play Miss Taliaferro impersonates a spirited Kentucky beauty who falls in love with a New York millionaire. The story is one that enters vitally into daily life. The production is artistically staged by Mr. Thompson. The leading man in the three act production is Everett Enterfield, who takes the part of Norman Marsh. Miss Taliaferro's part is Rosalie, the cricket. She has never before attempted such a part, and in it she shows that she can do something besides portraying emotion parts which are saccharine and simple.

Mme. Nazimova did the best she could with an impossible play at Nazimova's Thirty-ninth Street theater, in New York (it is hoped that the Messrs. Shubert will put the condenser on the title), which she christened April 18 in spite of weepy skies. The play was Ibsen's "Little Eyolf." Its first production in this country was by a company of Scandinavian amateurs in Chicago in 1905. It was a typical first night audience that greeted Mme.

Nazimova and a really good support. A typical first night audience in New York means all the critics, as many professionals as are not engaged elsewhere, authors and such society people as are on good terms with the management of the house. These audiences are usually brilliant in the way of attire. Such a turnout in a new and pretty playhouse made him bearable. The picture of the new theater is from a photograph taken while the building was receiving its finishing touches.

The picture of Mr. Laurence Irving shows him in the character of Monsieur Dupont in Brieux's modern play (translation), "The Three Daughters of Monsieur Dupont," recently produced at the Comedy theater, New York, in which Mr. Irving's wife, Mabel Hackett, is leading woman. Mr. and Mrs. Irving will spend a part of the summer at the home of M. Brieux in France and will there arrange for the translation and production of other Brieux plays. They will return to the United States in the opening of the autumn season and bring out at the Comedy

"Get Busy With Emily" is the rattling title of a new French farce that is on the eve of being brought out at the Broadway theater under the direction of A. H. Woods. The star who will twinkle it into existence is at metropolis is Miss Laura Guerite, who has fetching beauty and stage attraction. "Get Busy With Emily" is a star leaves the Belasco firmament it shines no more. Walter does not think so. Well, wait.

ABOUT MAUDE ADAMS.

Cynical critics assert that Maude Adams per se could not get where she is in her profession. The same thing is true of many others. Nevertheless she is there. Aside from her ability it must be admitted that few American actresses have her strong personality. This in spite of the fact that no actress possesses less for notice. One day she was at a hotel in the interior. There was dispute among the bell boys as to which should answer her calls. The head clerk said to the proprietor, "I will willingly take the place of any bellboy to look after the needs of Miss Adams." At the same time the clerk, who has seen many famous people, added: "No one has ever come to this house who was so reserved as Miss Adams. She is seldom seen in the corridors and has never troubled anybody here."

The real popularity of actors or actresses is measured by their standing with the employees of the theater. Whenever Miss Adams plays she is known to the helpers as the "little lady." Scrubwomen almost fight for the privilege of caring for her dressing room. The property man is alert to decorate it, the electrician is eager to see that the lights are all right, and the carpenter gives close attention to everything that no think will add to the comfort of the "little lady." Not long ago when Miss Adams was in Cincinnati she met the big German who looks after the properties. For some time he was so important in his bearing that the manager asked him what was the matter, and he replied, "I guess it is because Miss Adams shook hands with me the day she arrived at the theater."

STAGE AND FOYER WHISPERS.

"Beethoven" had its first production in this country at the New theater in New York, Monday, April 11, and closed the season at that house. It was given last winter in Paris and was considered one of the most artistic offerings in the French capital. While in the main it is a biography, it has considerable dramatic action.

When George Ade was a reporter in Chicago he asked Mrs. Pat Campbell whom she knew in that city. "I know George Armour. Do you know him?" asked Mrs. Campbell. "I regret," replied Ade, "that you should imagine that I know Armour. He is a mere tradesman. Good morning."

The original Little Eva (why say of "Uncle Tom's Cabin") is still living in Cambridge, Mass. She is Mrs. Cordelia McDonald. She was four years old when she first took the part. The play was produced in Troy, N. Y., where it had a run of 100 nights. It was staged by Little Eva's father, who played the part of St. Clair.

The society ladies in an up to date comic opera must be beautiful—at least on the stage. Although they may be before an audience only a few minutes, it is expected that their gowns and hats shall come from the same modistes and milliners who supply the real society women of private life. Few men in the audience would think of buying for their wives the confections used by the ladies of the comic opera.

"Loserale," a fine old play, credited to Tostad Wallack for a long time, was the work of Fitz James O'Brien, who received $100 to write it for Wallack. Mr. Harris' direction will be on tour.

It was dramatized from "Lady Lee's Widowhood," which appeared in Blackwoods Magazine, its first production was at Wallack's, New York, Sept. 20, 1863.

"Camille" in its present version was played in this country for the first time on any stage March 17, 1886, by Laura Keane, George Jordan taking the part of Armand.

The opera "The Huguenots" had its first performance in New York at the Astor Opera House, Oct. 9, 1867. You remember "East Lynne" Lucille Western bought the play from Clifton W. Taylors for $100.

Joseph Jefferson in his early days played Macscape—so spelled then—in a burlesque which at the time was called "The Flery, Untamed Rocking Horse."

The winner of the first prize in the scenario contest in New York was Mrs. Fletcher Bellinger, who lives in the metropolis. She is a graduate of Mount Holyoke college and is a free lance. She received $500, the highest prize in the contest. The scenario is entitled "A Woman's Sphere." Her husband, Franz Bellinger, is a musical director and teacher of singing. Mrs. Bellinger was born in Alstead, N. H.

Henry Miller, of "The Great Divide" and other well played productions, stopped before a billboard and read, "Young Men Wanted For the Army and Navy." After a moment's meditation he said, "I feel strongly impelled to add the postscript, 'And For the American Stage Also.'" Then in a reflective mood Mr. Miller recalled that quite a number of talented stage people had died within the past year and that no one had come forward to take their places.

POISON CASES

Occur in a Most Serious Form in Match Factories

WASHINGTON, May 6.—Phosphorus poisoning in the most serious form occurs in this country in match factories, according to a report by the bureau of labor of the department of commerce and labor, the conclusion being based upon a report made by Dr. John B. Andrews, secretary of the American Association for Labor Legislation of his investigation of the subject.

The manufacture of matches where white phosphorus is used as in all American factories, says the report, exposes all employees who come in contact with the phosphorus and most frequently attacks the jawbones and not infrequently necessitates the removal of an entire jaw by surgical operation. The danger cannot be eliminated, according to the report, but can be lessened by perfect ventilation. The report says that the United States is the only commercial country of importance which has not taken any steps to prevent the unrestricted use of white phosphorus in match manufacture.

THE RUSSELL CASE

Motion to Give an Early Hearing Was Denied

BOSTON, May 6.—The motion of lawyers Nason and Proctor, counsel for William C. Russell and Ferdinand B. Almy, respondents in the case of the petition of Daniel Blake Russell of North Dakota, for a speedy hearing of the appeal of the claimant from the decision of Judge Lawton of the Mid-dwest probate court, will not be heard by Judge Sheldon at the present sitting of the supreme court, which will come to a close tonight.

A hearing on Mr. Nason's motion had been postponed before because of the illness of Leslie A. Simpson, counsel for the petitioner, and was called up for the third time at yesterday's adjournment. The absence of Mr. Simpson being noted, his Boston associate in the case, Nelson L. Sheldon, informed the court that Mr. Simpson was still sick, and that, although he hoped he would be able to come to the office next week, he certainly would not be well enough to do any business for some time.

To a question from the court as to his attitude toward the motion, Mr. Sheldon said that he stood ready to oppose it, whereupon the judge announced that as the present sitting would practically end with today's proceedings, any further presentation of the matter by the contending counsel must be made de novo before the supreme court sitting in Suffolk county. This carries the nearest time possible for the hearing forward to the June term, and seems to preclude any trial of the main case—if the court should grant one—before the October term.

The persons present who are directly interested in the Russell case were the petitioner, who claims to be Daniel Blake Russell, of Dakota; William C. Russell and Ferdinand B. Almy, respondents; Messrs. Nason, Eugene C. Upton and Sheldon. As a spectator there were H. R. Stanley, partner of William Odlin, the Boston lawyer of the man from Fresno, Calif., who says he is the long lost brother.

Dakota Dan came early and took a seat well in the rear of the courtroom until the time for the hearing on the motion arrived, when he moved up to a position inside the bar with the others. It so happened that his seat was beside Mr. Almy and in alignment with the Mr. Russell of Melrose, but the latter studiously avoided any recognition of or even looking at the man who claims to be his brother.

The newspaper announcements of the hearing sufficed to bring in some 40 or 50 men and women from Melrose and elsewhere who are friends of the one they always call "Dan," and the moment the court proceedings were over they crowded around him to obtain a grasp of the hand and give their assurance of loyalty to his cause. While this demonstration was going on William C. Russell passed through the crowd on his way out of the courthouse but steadily maintained his stoical indifference without the slightest manifestation of interest or feeling.

JACKIE A SUICIDE

NEW YORK, May 6.—Richard E. Hawkins, a jackie on the battleship Nebraska, shot himself dead yesterday at Orange, N. J., on the doorstep of the girl he loved. He was found grasping in one hand the revolver and in the other a photograph of Lillian Koenig, a girl of 20, who had refused to marry him.

On the back of the card he had written:

"I leave you forever, darling, and go where pain and sorrow are not heard of. May God be with you for life and may He forgive me the sin I have done. Goodbye, my darling Lillian."

Hawkins had wooed Miss Koenig for six months, had repeatedly asked her to marry him and she steadily refused.

KING EDWARD DYING

EXTRA THE ROYAL FAMILY

Called to Bedside of the Dying King Edward

LONDON, May 6.—"Well, it is all over, but I think I have done my duty." These words fell from the lips of King Edward VII in a waking interval late this afternoon.

His majesty's condition is declared critical by the attending physicians. Gloom has settled over the city and provinces following the issuance of tonight's distressing bulletin.

The members of the royal family were summoned to the bedside this evening.

King Edward's first serious attack of bronchial trouble, accompanied with symptoms of asthma, was experienced a year ago. Since that time his majesty has suffered several recurrences of the malady, including one during his recent visit at Biarritz. Each attack proved worse than the preceding one and more difficult to conquer. The present illness came suddenly and without warning.

Callers at the palace today had their worst fears confirmed by the palace officials.

"I am very sorry to say," said one of the king's close entourage with the shake of the head, "that the papers have not exaggerated his majesty's condition. It is very grave."

There are unmistakable signs that all the members of the palace entourage are greatly alarmed. One government official, who in his official capacity attended upon the audience of the king on Wednesday and yesterday, said:

"The king looked very ill Wednesday and very much worse on Thursday. The chief outward symptom was extreme hoarseness. He was scarcely able to speak at times, but insisted upon continuing the audience."

Upon one occasion during the audience when the king's condition was the subject of remark, his majesty said:

"There is a return of what I had at Biarritz. I got clear of it then, but caught another cold in the theatre. However, I will be all right in a few days."

Ambassador Reid who visited the king at Buckingham palace on Wednesday said today:

"I went to the palace upon the king's request to talk over some future engagements. The king then looked well and was in good spirits. He was, however, coughing a great deal and complained that his cough was distressing and very thing. However, I thought at the time that he hardly realized how ill he was."

Even the announcement that no more official bulletins would be issued before evening failed to diminish the number of anxious ones who waited for further news as the day wore on. It was learned here, that although some of the attending physicians remained close by, their presence had not been required in the sick chamber some time previously. This indicated at least that there had been no relapse. What the physicians fear is that they will find some growth on the bronchial tubes necessitating an operation.

It is also known that when the king's throat had been affected previously he was subjected to spasmodic contractions of the vocal cords which were rather alarming. In his majesty's present condition the sudden strain of such spasms on the blood vessels will probably require instantaneous relief. Hence the constant presence of Dr. Thomson, the throat specialist, who was called into the case this morning.

The rate of insurance offered by Lloyd's against loss in the event of the king's death was raised sharply following the issuance of this morning's more alarming bulletin. Sixty guineas per cent is demanded to insure against losses in event of death within a month. The early morning rate had been fifty guineas per cent.

The archbishop of Canterbury telegraphed to all the bishops of England and Wales this morning as follows:

"Prayers for the church and people of England are desired on behalf of His Majesty, King Edward, in his grave illness."

The evening bulletin issued at 6.15 o'clock was the first given out since just before noon today. The message announced that his majesty's symptoms had become worse during the day and that the king's condition at the present hour was critical.

The Prince and Princess of Wales, who spent the day at the palace, left late in the afternoon. The prince lifted his hat as they drove through the great throng which received them in respectful silence. The princess held her handkerchief to her eyes. With the two was their son, Prince John Charles Francis.

During the afternoon the Archbishop of Canterbury spent a half hour with Queen Alexandra. Noteworthy callers at the palace were Lord Kitchener, Lord Roberts and a number of dukes.

Premier Asquith is expected to return to London from his trip in the Mediterranean on Monday. According to one report, important political developments will follow the arrival of the premier and no matter what may be the issue of the king's illness the next session of parliament, the house of commons with the consent of the unionists passing a non-contentious budget for the current year. Parliament, according to this plan, would be prorogued about the middle of July.

Queen Alexandra, replying to a message of sympathy from the lord mayor of London, telegraphed: "I am most grateful for your telegram. Please convey to the citizens of London my heartfelt thanks."

This evening's bulletin bearing the fatal word "critical" in describing the king's condition was a staggering blow to the waiting multitude of all classes around the palace. Hope of the ultimate recovery of the nation's head was all but abandoned and the announcement of a fatal issue at any time would cause no surprise to the crowds congregated in Fleet street.

It was officially announced that no further bulletins would be issued tonight.

Premier Asquith, who has been in Spain, and the other ministers scattered over the continent, are returning to London in haste.

HIS MAJESTY, KING EDWARD VII OF ENGLAND.

GREAT DEPRESSION SURROUNDED BUCKINGHAM PALACE TODAY

LONDON, May 6.—An atmosphere of great depression surrounded Buckingham palace today. The bulletin describing the king's condition and which five eminent physicians now in attendance issued shortly before noon while vague enough inspired profound gloom throughout the city. It was generally construed to mean that the outlook is not at all favorable. The suddenness of the transition from yesterday morning when the king was receiving politicians to the present when it is believed he is critically ill has shocked the country. For the moment business and politics are at a standstill.

The Prince of Wales arrived at the palace at 10 a. m. and entered almost unobserved. In addition to the three physicians who were in attendance throughout the night and are now spending the day at the palace, Sir Francis Laking, Sir James Reid and Sir Richard Douglas Powell, the specialist there, were summoned this morning Dr. Bertrand Dawson and Dr. St. Clair Thomson. All of the medical party remained within call of the sick chamber.

The first official news given out early today indicated an improvement. These with the king having been deceived by the fact that he had rested quietly through the night. The news was received with cheers by anxious crowds gathered throughout the city. This bulletin stated that his majesty's condition remained much the same. The subsequent examination developed that the patient's bronchial tubes, instead of being in better condition, were more seriously affected after the night's sleep than they were yesterday. Thereupon a bulletin was issued, saying:

"The king passed a comparatively quiet night, but the symptoms had not improved and his majesty's condition gives rise to great anxiety."

The doctors announced that the next bulletin would be issued at 6.30 o'clock this evening.

The day was bright and sunny and before noon a great crowd gathered in front of the palace in the vicinity of the new memorial Victoria building and many carriages gathered in St. James park. From early morning when their labors stopped to ensure the king's condition from the palace at the palace gate, the throngs increased steadily until the police were compelled to keep the crowds moving. Officials were admitted to the palace grounds. So absorbed were the people in His Majesty's illness that the arrival of the Prince of Wales attracted practically no attention. Early in the afternoon the members of the diplomatic corps called and signed the visitors' book, as did many other prominent persons. All left the palace hastening by their expressions the fears entertained.

"Very bad," said the archbishop of Canterbury with a solemn shake of his head as he emerged from the palace gate and was questioned regarding his majesty's condition. "The king's condition is very grave. The well known weakness of the heart which has resulted in several attacks resembling vertigo during the past two or three years and which were attributed chief-

SHOT YOUNG WIFE

George C. Moore, Jr., Thought That She Was a Burglar

Sad Affair That Excited the Quiet Village of No. Chelmsford Last Night and Today

Dreaming that the house was being burglarized and mistaking his wife for the burglar, George C. Moore, Jr., shot his young wife in their home in Princeton street, North Chelmsford, about 10.30 o'clock last night. Fortunately the shot did not prove fatal and Mrs. Moore is resting comfortably. The bullet entered the lower part of the abdomen and came out through the fleshy part of the thigh. The bullet did not touch a vital part and the only thing to be feared is blood poisoning.

Mrs. Moore came to Lowell last night to attend a shower party in honor of one of her girl friends about to be married. Her husband did not accompany her. He was tired and preferred to remain at home. He retired early and because of the fact that it was necessary for him to leave the front door open for his wife he placed an automatic 32 calibre revolver under his pillow.

Mr. and Mrs. Moore slept directly over the office where is transacted all the business of the George C. Moore mill. George C. Moore, Jr., is superintendent of the Brookside mill at Brookside. Because of the fact that his room was directly over the office where is located the company's safe, Mr. Moore kept a revolver in his room and as an extra precaution because of the door being left open to admit his wife, he put the revolver under his pillow last night.

Mrs. Moore returned to No. Chelmsford with Mr. and Mrs. George Sweet, neighbors of the Moores. When they left the car at North Chelmsford, Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Sweet escorted Mrs. Moore to her home. She opened the door, "good night," was said and she tripped lightly up the stairs.

The only noise was the banging of the door and that was the noise that awakened her husband. He had been dreaming of burglars and the bang of the door came at the moment in his dream when the burglar had entered. More asleep than awake he grabbed the dangerous weapon, the automatic revolver, and at that very instant his wife opened the door to his room. He could not see her face and was filled only with the thought that a burglar was upon him.

Bang! his finger had connected with the sensitive trigger and the bullet from his revolver passed through the body of his wife. She did not fall or faint and was not sure that it was her husband who fired. She ran downstairs to the street and called to Mr. and Mrs. Sweet.

She had fallen on the lawn and she carried her to her room. The horror of the near fatal tragedy had dawned upon the young husband and so great was his grief that the revolver had to be taken from him lest he would do himself harm. He was beside himself with grief.

Doctors were summoned by telephone and they responded hurriedly. Drs. Varney and Gage of North Chelmsford were at the Moore residence in a very few minutes and Medical Examiner Meigs arrived there in about 15 minutes after the shooting. It was discovered that the bullet had not touched a vital part and that assurance came as the very son of relief to the sorrowing husband.

Mr. and Mrs. Moore were married

THE MILK STRIKE

Recognized By the State Board

BOSTON, May 6.—The official recognition of the milk strike by the state board of agriculture, the appointment of a special legislative committee to investigate the situation and the continued complexity and confidence with which the leaders of both the producers and contractors view the situation were the principal features of the Boston milk contest today.

The attitude of the board of agriculture was made known to the farmers by a circular letter issued by Secretary J. Lewis Ellsworth in which the producers are assured that their demands are fair and just, that they have the sympathy of the consumers and that if brother farmers are loyal producers side will win.

The circular was also sent to the secretary of the New York board of agriculture and it is claimed that the principal supply is now being obtained from that state.

A joint legislative committee was appointed by both presiding officers today, and will probably begin its investigation on Monday. This committee has the power to go into the question fully and will probably include in its inquiries the attitude of the railroads toward both sides as well as the rates and methods of transportation. This phase of the situation has frequently been referred to by individual investigators and several governors have urged legislative action in the matter but as yet very little has been accomplished.

The contractors claimed today that they had more than a sufficient supply of milk, in fact that the surplus was being turned into butter. On the other hand, the producers were very positive that the milk received in Boston was of old and of inferior quality from being brought long distances and that a warm spell of weather would soon show its inferiority. The producers were very much pleased today at the prospect of having their side placed before the public through legislative channels.

The Best 25c Dinner

In Lowell at the

PARK HOTEL

It has been stated that the tide is about to turn. The growers have planted the largest acreage ever known in the history of cotton growing and it is said that the south is cotton raising crazy. A Lowell mill man who has covered the ground says that the statement is correct. He says that all through the cotton belt, evidence was at hand that hundreds of thousands of acres of land not planted with cotton last year or the year before, were growing cotton and being worked with unusual interest and energy in the belief that a field of cotton was as good as a gold mine. There will be a bumper crop of cotton this fall.

ASCENSION DAY

Observed by Mt. Calvary Chapter, Masons

The feast of the Ascension was observed with the beautiful ritualistic ceremony of the Rose Croix, Scottish Rite, at the Masonic Temple by Mt. Calvary chapter, in this city last night.

Dignity was added to the event by the presence of illustrious Leon M. Abbott, 33 degrees, deputy of the rite in Massachusetts, and illustrious Geo. W. Currier, who holds a like position for New Hampshire. There was another active member of the supreme council, illustrious Charles T. Gallagher, in attendance, besides many honorary members of that body. A large delegation was present from Boston and vicinity.

At 6.30 Chas. W. Taylor, 32 degrees, M. W. M., of the chapter, greeted Deputy Abbott and suite, which comprised Chas. T. Gallagher and Geo. W. Currier, 33 degrees, active of the supreme council; Everett C. Benton, 33 degrees, P. C. of Massachusetts, consistory; Geo. E. Danforth, 32 degrees, commander-in-chief of N. H. consistory; Rev. S. B. Robin and Addison L. Osborne, 33 degrees, P. W. M., of Mt. Olivet chapter of Rose Croix; John L. Bates, 33 degrees; John B. Pierce, 33 degrees, P. S. P., of Giles F. Yates council, P. of J. J. Rev. A. St. John Chambré, 33 degrees; Moses C. Plummer, 33 degrees, M. of C. council of deliberation; Edward O. Fifield, 32 degrees, S. P., of Oriental council, P. of J. Nashua, and Harold A. Osborne, 22 degrees, of N. H. consistory.

The presentation was by Arthur G. Pollard, 33 degrees, chairman of the reception committee, and Deputy Abbott, in reply to the welcome, extended the felicitations of the most illustrious sovereign grand commander, illustrious Samuel C. Lawrence.

There were nearly 200 at the banquet. The chief table was in the form of a cross, and at the head was seated Most Wise Master Taylor, with the guests and committee extending down and along the two arms. The illuminated words, "Faith, Hope and Charity," were conspicuous at the three points.

At intervals during the address the most wise master called for the three sentiments. The junior warden, Herbert B. Fletcher, 32 degrees, said that in the south was "Faith"; the one from the west, as given by the senior warden, Harry R. Dow, 32 degrees, was "Hope"; and the same officer gave that from the east as "Charity," the response being an appropriate verse sung by the Weber quartet referring to each sentiment. The other vocal numbers bore with special significance upon the day commemorated.

Deputy Abbott received the heartiest of receptions and in his remarks referred to the very cordial support and kindness extended to him by the Scottish Rite Masons since he had taken upon himself his new duties. Advertising to the feast of the ascension, he said it was especially fitting that it should be celebrated by the Rose Croix and trusted that they would depart with the idea of endeavoring to make the world richer, happier and better by their example.

Ex-Gov. Bates called to mind that first ascension day nearly 19 centuries ago and said that faith and hope had triumphed because of a belief in that ascension and also for the reason that deeds of charity made the world more desirable in which to live.

Master of Ceremonies Plummer spoke briefly in acknowledging the invitation to attend; Past Commander Benton, introduced as having built up Massachusetts consistory to its present great position, paid a warm tribute to Sovereign Grand Commander Lawrence and others who had built up the rite; Past Wise Master Osborne; Past Sovereign Prince Pierce, Past Wise Master Robbin, Sovereign Prince Fifield, Commander-in-Chief Danforth, and Deputy Currier were also speakers and were cordially received.

The quartet sang "The Lord is My Shepherd," and after an invocation by Dr. Robbin, the quartet contributed "Hosanna," as the closing feature of the ceremonies.

There were regrets expressed at the absence of Rev. Dr. Hamilton, 33 degrees; the heads of the four Scottish Rite bodies that meet in Boston and other representative Scottish Rite Masons in New Hampshire, including Henry R. Quimby and John McLane, 33 degrees.

The reception committee for Mt. Calvary chapter comprised: Arthur G. Pollard, Charles C. Hutchinson, Josiah L. Seward, William B. Livingston, Charles F. Young, Solon W. Stevens, Charles A. Stott, Frank K. Stearns and Thomas Bevington, 33 degrees; J. C. Stearns, 33 degrees, with G. E. Martin, 33 degrees; Princes of Jerusalem, Charles F. Young and Thomas Bevington, 33 degrees, with Henry H. Harris and L. E. Kimball, 32 degrees; lodge officers, Perfecton, Harry G. Pollard and E. T. Goward, 32 degrees, and Frederick W. Farnham, 18 degrees.

Of those who have been at the head of the three bodies in Lowell there were present: From Mt. Calvary chapter, Solon W. Stevens and P. C. Stearns, 33 degrees, with G. E. Martin, 33 degrees; Princes of Jerusalem, Charles F. Young and Thomas Bevington, 33 degrees, with Henry H. Harris and L. E. Kimball, 32 degrees; lodge officers, Perfecton, Harry G. Pollard and E. T. Goward, 32 degrees, and Frederick W. Farnham, 18 degrees.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

One of the best comedy shows of the season came to the Opera House yesterday with the semi-weekly change of bill at that house and a splendid program was offered. The comedy element predominates throughout the programme and the large audience that was in evidence during the performance, reading the vaudeville part of the bill are Little, Barry and Gibson in a laughable conceit entitled "A Night at the Club" which affords an opportunity of introducing some excellent work on the piano by one of the trio and some singing and laughable comedy contributed by the other members of the team, repeated encores of the several numbers being demanded. Another big comedy hit was that of Marlow and Plunkett, in a comedy skit called "The Dent Student," that kept the audience in roars of laughter. W. J. Holmes, billed as the Denman Thompson of vaudeville, proved to be another laugh producer of the first water and his offering was as big a hit as anything on the program.

Burns and Clifton proved to be exceptionally clever dancers who wear several changes of handsome wardrobe and completed one of the best vaudeville programs so far seen at the Opera House this year. The pictures shown were all new and seen in Lowell for the first time and included the latest biograph as well as several other good subjects. The current bill will be seen at the Opera House today and Saturday, afternoon and evening, and a big new program will be given Sunday afternoon and evening. Prices at the Opera House are five and ten cents.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

Nelson and Millidge are making a big hit with the patrons of the Academy this week with their latest comedy sketch "Glass Put In." It is one scream after another all the time their act is on.

Francis Wood is one of the top-notchers in the hoop rolling line.

A fine list of pictures and the biograph "Gold Seekers," make up a program that cannot help but please everybody who sees it. Admission 5 and 10 cents.

THEATRE VOYONS

The new bill yesterday at the Theatre Voyons was pleasing to everyone; one of the features, "The Penitent of Florence," is a charming and well staged story picture and in addition several novel vocal and instrumental features are introduced. The biograph, "The Gold Seekers," is a fine dramatic subject full of snap and dash and just the picture to set the blood tingling. The comedy is a real laugh and the scenic an interesting subject. Sunday the concert will be the usual high class one, with a program of the best pictures shown in the past few days and the most pleasing songs sung best.

STAR THEATRE

A classic Indian picture, historically correct, is "The Uprising of the Utes." It is thrilling throughout. There is also a beautiful biograph production. The illustrated songs are "Has Anybody Here Seen Kelly" and "The Trust My Husband Anywhere But Like to Stick Around." The show is "The biggest and best in Lowell" and the admission of five cents includes a seat. The theatre is always thoroughly clean and well ventilated. Women and children are tendered special attention.

EMPIRE THEATRE

The Winkley Kross trio made a real hit at the Empire last night when they kept the capacity houses right up to the highest tension, first performing the wonder and then the clown performing some of the best of the show into a roar of laughter.

Whitney and Young in their black face comedy sketch with Whitney full of fun, takes the house. Their songs are clever and their jokes new and clean. Mlle. Vellica has a neat dancing act, full of grace and beauty. The pictures are good, pleasing the whole audience, especially the women and children. They show the interesting Western life and the work of the skilled mechanic. And yet the comedy pictures are not lacking. Even the man who works all day finds something light to occupy his mind here.

THE MILK STRIKE

Each Side Claims it Will Win

BOSTON, May 6.—The striking milk producers today declared that if the warm weather experienced today continued the milk contractors who refuse to pay the prices during the summer asked for by the farmers would be unable to store their milk any length of time and would of necessity have to give up the fight. On the other hand the contractors stated that they were receiving a full supply of milk daily and it will not be affected by the weather in the least. Their stored milk, said the contractors, they keep only a few days and they have plenty of ice for that.

Efforts to have the milk supply being shipped to Boston from outside states shut off were continued today by the producers.

MOTOR TRUCKS

FOR THE KANSAS CITY FIRE DEPARTMENT

KANSAS CITY, Kan., May 6.—No more horse-drawn fire fighting apparatus will be bought for Kansas City, Kan. The city commissioners have decided that in the future they will buy only the most improved motor trucks, fire engines and hose wagons. As a result of the new policy W. A. Harris, an architect who has prepared plans for the new fire station to be built at Fourteenth street and Reynolds avenue, was instructed to draw a new set of plans for a building suitable for the accommodation of motor instead of horse-drawn apparatus.

DIPLOMATS ALARMED

WASHINGTON, May 6.—Central American diplomats were thrown into a consternation last night over the news of the destruction of Carthage. At the Costa Rican legation here, Minister Calvo received word that the city practically had been destroyed, 400 persons were dead and many hundred injured as a result of the disturbance. Further, the minister was informed by the department for foreign affairs, that the shocks have now ceased and the damage and loss of life is confined to Carthage.

"BUCKETSHOP"

Dept. of Justice Wants to Suppress It

WASHINGTON, May 6.—The complete suppression of the "bucketshop" business throughout the United States is sought by the department of justice. Prosecutions already started are to be continued with unremitting vigilance.

"We have a plan to put all the bucketshops out of business and that, too, without additional legislation by congress," said an official of the department today.

The cleaning up work in the east already has been systematically begun and a number of indictments have been returned. More have been promised as the result of investigations by the local grand jury the past few days. After the department is through in the east operations will be begun at Chicago and working from that center it expects to conduct proceedings in such a manner as to break up any business radiating from that place.

That feature of the traffic which includes the sending out of alluring literature is one which probably will receive the serious attention of the prosecuting officials in which case the postal laws will be invoked.

TRADES AND LABOR

MEETING OF THE COUNCIL HELD LAST NIGHT

At a meeting of the Lowell Trades and Labor council held last night it was stated that Lowell is practically free from strikes at the present time and business is generally good in those lines employing men affiliated with the council. There were 45 delegates present and it was the sense of the meeting that the change of meeting nights from Sunday to Thursday was the proper one.

WOMAN ESCAPES OPERATION

Was Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Elwood, Ind. — "Your remedies have cured me and I have only taken six bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was sick three months and could not walk. I suffered all the time. The doctors said I could not get well without an operation, for I could hardly stand the pains in my sides, especially my right one, and down my right leg. I began to feel better when I had taken only one bottle of Compound, but kept on as I was afraid to stop too soon." — Mrs. SADIE MULLEN, 2728 N. B. St., Elwood, Ind.

Why will women take chances with an operation or drag out a sickly half-hearted existence, missing three-fourths of the joy of living, when they can find health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has cured thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion, and nervous prostration.

No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine, made exclusively from roots and herbs.

FOREIGN COMMERCE

MANUFACTURES FORM FOUR-FIFTHS OF IT

WASHINGTON, May 6.—Manufactures and manufacturers' materials now form practically four-fifths of the entire foreign commerce of the United States, their aggregate importation and exportation in the nine months ending with March, 1910, having been 1967 million dollars, or 78 per cent of the total of 2515 million representing the imports and domestic exports of the country.

Of this 1967 million dollars' worth of commerce transacted by or on behalf of the manufacturing industries, imports supplied 939 million and exports 1028 million. Of the imports, 489 million dollars represented the value of the raw materials, 217 million dollars for further use in manufacturing, and 283 million manufactures ready for consumption. Of the exports 467 million dollars was the value of raw materials of domestic production supplied for manufacturing industries in foreign countries, 200 million partly manufactured domestic materials, and 361 million domestic manufactures exported in finished form. The foregoing figures are the result of an analysis of the latest figures of foreign commerce recently made by the bureau of statistics of the department of commerce and labor.

A study of commercial movements, both at home and abroad, through the medium of the official statistics of the leading nations, discloses a rapid development of the world's manufacturing industries, evidenced not only by enlarged importations of manufacturers' materials but also by greatly increased exportations of manufactured articles. In this growth the United States is shown by the bureau of statistics figures to have participated in a steadily increasing degree. The United Kingdom, Germany, France and the United States are the world's greatest manufacturing nations. A comparison of their exports of manufactures in the period from 1880 to 1908 shows, for the United Kingdom, a growth from 355 million dollars to 1394 million, an increase of 486 million or 45.1-2 per cent; for Germany, a growth from 355 million to 926 million, an increase of 640 million, or 180 per cent; for France, a growth from 328 million to 488 million, an increase of 147 million, or 45 per cent, and for the United States, a growth from 122 million to 750 million, an increase of 628 million, or 515 per cent.

The rapid growth in exports of manufactures from the United States—a growth more rapid than that of any of the other great industrial nations—justifies a more detailed analysis of commercial conditions affecting the manufacturing industry. In the fiscal year 1870, the importation of raw materials for use in domestic manufacturing was but 56 million dollars; by 1890 it had grown to 171 million, by 1900, to 276 million, and in the first nine months of the current fiscal year was 439 million. Of partly manufactured articles for further use in manufacturing the importation increased from 56 million dollars in 1870 to 117 million in 1890, 184 million in 1900, and 217 million in the nine months of the fiscal year 1910. Thus the requirement of American factories for imported materials, including those crude and in the partly manufactured condition, has increased from 112 million dollars in 1870 to 410 million in 1900 and 656 million in the nine months of the current fiscal year for which statistics are available. Meantime importations of manufactures ready for consumption, which in 1870 aggregated 174 million dollars, were, in 1890, 231 million; in 1900, 208 million; and in the first nine months of 1910, 283 million. During the same period exports of crude materials for use in manufacturing increased from 218 million dollars in 1870 to 308 million, in 1890, 326 million in 1900, and 467 million in nine months of 1910; exports of manufactures in the partly finished state, from 14 million dollars in 1870 to 47 million in 1890, 153 million in 1900, and 200 million in nine months of 1910; and exports of manufactures ready for consumption, from 58 million dollars in 1870 to 123 million in 1890, 352 million in 1900, and 561 million in the nine months of the fiscal year 1910 ending with March. The nine months' figures already at hand seem to indicate for the complete fiscal year 1910 a total importation of manufacturers' raw materials of approximately 630 million dollars; of partly manufactured materials, about 300 million, and of manufactures ready for consumption, about 385 million; and a total exportation of raw materials for use in manufacturing of approximately 590 million dollars; of manufactures in the partly finished state, 267 million, and of manufactures ready for consumption, about 480 million.

Manufactures form a decreasing proportion of the total imports and an increasing proportion of the total domestic exports of the United States. The share which manufactures (including both those ready for consumption and those in the partly finished state) form of the total imports has decreased from 53 per cent in 1870 to 44 per cent in 1890, and 42 per cent in the first nine months of the fiscal year 1910. Meantime the share which manufactures of all classes form of the domestic exports has increased from 19 per cent in 1870 to 31 per cent in 1890, 35 per cent in 1900, and 42 per cent in the first nine months of the current fiscal year. Considering only manufactures ready for consumption, those imports have decreased from 40 per cent of the total imports in 1870 to 24 per cent in 1910, while those exports have increased from 16 per cent of the total domestic exports in 1870 to 27 per cent in 1910. In other words, imports of finished manufactures in 1870 were

174 million dollars and exports of finished manufactures 56 million, the excess of imports over exports of this class of products being 118 million dollars. In 1910, as shown by nine months' figures, imports of finished manufactures were 283 million dollars and exports of manufactures 561 million, an excess of exports over imports of this class of products amounting to 278 million dollars.

THE POLICE BOARD

Heard Complaints Against Two Police Officers Today

The board of police met in special session this morning for the purpose of hearing complaints which had been preferred against two patrolmen and also to hear the remonstrance against the granting of a pawnbroker's license to Thomas H. Kelley. Two of the hearings proved to be rather long drawn out and it was 12:30 o'clock before they were concluded.

The first matter taken up was the charge of breach of discipline preferred against Patrolman John J. Donovan. Lawyer James E. O'Donnell appeared for the respondent and inasmuch as neither Mr. Donovan nor any witness was called upon the matter was disposed of in quick order, the board taking the matter under advisement.

The Kelley Affair

The next matter taken up was the hearing on the petition of Thomas H. Kelley that he be granted a pawnbroker's license. Dr. Stephen Johnson was the first witness called and in answer to questions asked by Lawyer D. J. Donahue who appeared for the remonstrants, said that he wanted the board to understand that he was appearing as a citizen. He then told of bills which had been given to Mr. Kelley to collect and testified that Mr. Kelley collected the money but turned only a portion of it over to him.

Annie McGinness, of 7 Main street, was the next witness called by Mr.

Donahue and she said that her husband has at different times sold his pay to Mr. Kelley.

John Doherty, a boarding house keeper at 22 John street, testified that several of his boarders had jumped their board bill and when he went to the Board mills to attempt to collect what money there was kept back he had found that the pay had been purchased by Mr. Kelley. He cited an instance where one of his boarders said that he could not pay and it is alleged, an investigation showed that the man had sold his pay, which amounted to $15, to Mr. Kelley for $4.

Testifying in his own defense Mr. Kelley referring to the bills which he had to collect for Dr. Johnson said that some of them were so old that they could not be collected, while on others which were what he called uncollectible he charged 50 per cent. for his services. He told of a telephone conversation which he had had with Dr. Johnson when the latter said, "This is getting to be a shoeing of a business," and his answer to that was, "Well, are you not wise enough to look on both sides of the ledger and see that you are ahead of the game?"

Lawyer Donahue put the respondent through a rigid cross-examination. He asked the following question, "Is all your property in your wife's name?" Mr. Kelley refused to answer the question, saying, "That is none of your business."

"Do you own any property?"

"I am a citizen of Lowell."

"As a citizen of Lowell do you own any property?"

"I am not here to answer your questions, Mr. Donahue."

Later Mr. Kelley stated to the board that his real estate is in his wife's name. He also admitted that he had personal property in his own name and that it was assessed to him.

Mr. Donahue made a strong argument against the granting of the application of the license and the board took the matter under consideration.

The Cook Hearing

The next matter taken up was the complaint against Patrolman Alfred C. Cook, who was charged in three complaints with "continued and persistent neglect to pay just debts," which is a violation of Rule 19 of the police manual.

John P. Corley, the John street provision dealer, testified that when Mr. Cook was running the restaurant at the corner of Bridge and Falmouth streets, he ran up a bill of about $200. He said that Cook told him that he had lost between $1500 and $1700 in the restaurant during the short time he had been there.

Thomas A. McCann, who keeps a provision store in Gorham street, said that Cook owed him $138.48, $108.48 being due for meats and groceries, while

It's the Sure Dandruff Cure

Men and women, be sensible; what is the use of wasting time and money trying to drive dandruff and dandruff germs from the scalp when Carter & Sherburne guarantee Parisian Sage to completely rid your scalp of dandruff in two weeks, or money back.

URNS AND VASES FOR DECORATION DAY

85c to $10

A GOOD ASSORTMENT

Ervin E. Smith Co.

47-49 Market St.

The remaining $30 was due on a note on which he had paid Mr. Cook.

Andrew E. Barrett, who entered a complaint, claimed that Mr. Cook owed him about $100, but in order to be liberal and give the respondent the benefit of every doubt he would make his bill $80.

Commissioner Boulger said that the reason why he voted to restate Mr. Cook in the department was on the condition that he would pay the bills he owed. Commissioner Hanson said that he should never have voted for the patrolman's reinstatement but for the fact that he was given to understand that the man intended paying his bills.

At the conclusion of the hearing the matter was taken under consideration.

Continued

WAS THROWN INTO CONSTERNATION LAST NIGHT

LONDON, May 6.—The kingdom was thrown into consternation last night by the sudden and totally unexpected announcement that King Edward was suffering from bronchitis in a farm which caused some anxiety to his physicians, two of whom slept in Buckingham palace last night in order to be on hand in case of need. The first intimation that anything was amiss was the failure of the king to appear at the evening. It has been the king's invariable rule to be present on the queen's arrival from any part of his journey, and his absence last evening was made the subject of general comment immediately it was noted.

The queen hurried to the palace and soon afterwards the public learned by an official announcement that the king had been ill for two days. The fact that his illness had been thus concealed from public notice increased the alarm when once it became generally known. The king suffered from a similar attack at Biarritz, owing to the inclement weather and cold wind. But it was supposed that he had completely recovered, especially as he attended the opera at Covent Garden within three hours of his arrival in London from Biarritz last Wednesday.

On Thursday the king had a busy day. He gave an audience to Field Marshal Lord Kitchener, and Premier Asquith, and visited the Royal academy. On Friday also he gave several audiences and entertained Mr. and Mrs. Herbert J. Gladstone, at a farewell luncheon on their departure for South Africa, and visited the theatre in the evening.

This social activity tended to reassure the public mind, but it was noticed that while his majesty was viewing the pictures at the Royal academy, he looked pale and fatigued and lacked his customary zest and brightness, and the members of his entourage feared that this might betoken a return of the throat and chest trouble. The king spent the week-end at Sandringham with the object of combating the threatened attack and returned apparently better, but the sudden changes in the weather this week were very trying to his majesty and finally compelled him to keep indoors. He still attended to state business, however, and granted audiences, including among others on Thursday an audience to Whiteley Reid, the American ambassador and Lord Roberts. On Wednesday he entertained Grand Duke Michael at luncheon. In fact it was only yesterday that his physicians were able to induce the king with great reluctance to keep to his bed room and take a complete rest.

The bulletin issued at 7:30 o'clock last evening showed that the eminent specialist, Dr. Richard Douglas Powell had been called in. He, with the king's physicians, Sir Francis Lakin, and Sir James Reid, signed the bulletin, which read:

"The king is suffering from an attack of bronchitis and has been confined to his room for two days. His majesty's condition causes some anxiety."

The king is in good spirits despite his illness, and in addition to long visits from members of the royal family, he received in audience yesterday morning, Lord Jellicote, the newly appointed commander-in-chief of New

CHILDREN DROWNED

Lives Sacrificed in the Canals of Lowell

Harry W. J. Howe of the board of charities has addressed a communication to Mayor Meehan, calling attention to the many drownings in Lowell canals, and asking that something be done to avoid such accidents. The letter is as follows:

May 5, 1910.

Hon. John F. Meehan,

Mayor of Lowell:

Dear Sir: The appalling loss of life in our improperly protected waterways continues. It is impossible to ascertain the comparative number of drowning accidents in these canals since their construction, but averaging the loss of life in these canals for the past few years, it is not an exaggeration to place the figure upwards of 1000.

A thousand human lives—mostly little children—blotted out, which in almost every instance could have been averted had the canals which flow through our city been properly fenced.

We take up our papers constantly and read "Lost life in the canal." The unfortunate occurrence took place in this or that section of the city. We read the above headlines with as little concern as we read the news of a fire, as we do in noting the advancing prices of commodities, acquiescing to the things which so regularly occur because we have become accustomed to them, and with no apparent effort to remedy unsatisfactory conditions.

The children of our city are permitted to trespass upon the banks of our canals which are unfenced; they enter too near the edge and succumb to a watery grave. There are other places where a fence on some of our main thoroughfares is but an apology. I will mention but one, and this is adjacent to the Pawtucket bridge on School street where three narrow rafts have for years constituted a fence, protecting the passersby from accidentally falling into the surging waters below.

I have personally driven many children from this particular spot when passing, whom I have found leaning through the rails, attracted by the fascination of the water as it passes from the river in such volume through the gates and arches under the street and into the canal, or reaching down in an effort to pluck some flowers growing from the crevices between the stone embankment.

There are over 60 children residing in Pawtucketville alone attending the Bartlett school besides scores of others obliged to pass this dangerous spot several times daily, and parents sending their children across the Pawtucket bridge are constantly kept in a state of anxiety because of this open death-trap.

No further argument, I am sure, is necessary to convince the mayor of the city of Lowell of the importance of some action in this matter, when the lives of scores of children of the city are being not only continually jeopardized, but swallowed up, blotted out and sacrificed, homes are brought to grief simply because some one responsible has not taken interest and seen to it that the banks of our waterways were properly fenced.

I have upon several occasions, called this important matter to the attention of former members of the city government, but have found an attitude of political indifference and don't care policy manifest.

I am sending this open letter, hoping that an aroused public sentiment may be awakened, and that you, as the official representative, may be instrumental in bringing about a proper remedy, which will protect many lives in the future from an untimely death.

Very respectfully,

Harry W. J. Howe.

Delegates to Musicians' Convention

Stephen F. Monahan, the well known clarinetist of the Lowell Cadet band, leaves tomorrow for Cincinnati, Ohio, where he will attend as a delegate from the local musicians union, the 15th annual national convention of musicians. He will be accompanied by Mr. Charles A. Delahoude as second delegate, and they will join the other New England delegates at Boston and proceed to the scene of the convention in a special Pullman car.

In electing Mr. Monahan to represent them, the musicians union made a fine selection. Mr. Monahan is a valued employee of the Lowell Gas Light company and was a candidate for representative in the 17th district last fall. He is an able speaker and is well versed in parliamentary lore, and can be depended upon to give a good account of himself in the convention.

GIFT OF WATCH

A number of the friends of Mr. John P. Hall, the well known member of the Lowell Cadet band who has recently engaged in business on his own account in Lakewood avenue, assembled at his establishment last evening and presented him with a beautiful gold watch with their best wishes for his future success. The presentation was made by Mr. Joseph S. Furlong, while Mr. Hall, who was completely surprised, responded gracefully.

GIRL KIDNAPPED

Three Persons Are Under Arrest

PROVIDENCE, R. I., May 6.—Mrs. Jessie Sawyer, 42, Mrs. Edith E. Robinson, 21, daughter of Mrs. Sawyer, and Napoleon St. Ayott, 28, all of Worcester, were locked up at police headquarters here last night, charged with kidnapping Helen, the seven year old daughter of John Jackless of 155 Charles street. The prisoners were located in Worcester Wednesday, the women having the child in their charge at the time. The party was brought here last night by Inspector W. E. McGinn of police headquarters. Up to a week ago Mrs. Sawyer was housekeeper for Jackless. Before leaving she requested the father to let her take Helen to Worcester with her. The father said he repeatedly refused, but the women and Ayott claim he granted permission last Saturday. The law covering kidnapping is a new one and conviction carries a severe penalty, the minimum sentence being five years in prison, while the guilty parties may be given a life sentence.

MET WITH THE NEW MEMBER IN ATTENDANCE

The board of charities met last night and passed upon a list of routine bills. No reference, however, was made to the $4000 bill sent in by the Massachusetts Home for Feeble Minded Children for which a special appropriation has been asked. The board also made an announcement of this unyielding attitude was made at the conclusion of an insurgent conference last night, by Senator Cummings of Iowa. It was uttered in the presence of several of his progressive associates.

THE "INSURGENTS"

WILL NOT CHANGE POSITION ON RAILROAD BILL

WASHINGTON, May 6.—Insurgent senators say they do not intend to be swayed from their course on the railroad bill, no matter what tactics are pursued by the conservative republicans. Announcement of this unyielding attitude was made at the conclusion of an insurgent conference last night, by Senator Cummings of Iowa. It was uttered in the presence of several of his progressive associates.

For three days the insurgents have been in session for a thorough consideration of the political and legislative situation, the conference continuing throughout the daylight hours when the senate has not been meeting.

THE STRIKE SITUATION

The Crisis May be Reached in Providence Today

PROVIDENCE, R. I., May 6.—The crisis in the strike situation in this city where 1600 members of the building laborers' union are out is expected today for at an early hour the committee of six representatives of all the crafts affiliated with the American Federation of Labor in which was last night vested the power to either call out 8000 union employees in a general sympathy strike or to settle the strike of the building laborers started out to confer with all the contractors with whom the striking foreigners are now at odds. Included in the committee who will today decide whether the sympathetic strike will be called is Felice D'Alessandro, the organizer of the building laborers' union.

For all of the fact that 36 of their number have been arrested during the last 48 hours for rioting and have been heavily fined the Italian strikers assembled the same as usual today and started their rounds of the buildings where the laborers are supposed to be at work. As has been customary the last two days' trouble was reported during the early hours but the authorities fearing that further attacks would be made upon the laborers by the strikers later in the day had assembled at the various police stations every available special officer while the regular policemen are in many cases guarding the laborers working on buildings or in ditches.

CHARLIE WHITE May Referee the Big Fight

SAN FRANCISCO, May 6.—San Francisco is still buzzing with rumors about the referee for the big fight. Outsiders seem to be pretty well agreed that the third man in the ring will not be a Californian and they are looking to the east for available candidates for the job of presiding over the destinies of the Jeffries-Johnson encounter.

Among the easterners given prominent consideration is Charlie White of New York, and the fact that his name was not mentioned at Wednesday's conference is declared to be significant and has given rise to the suspicion that he is being groomed as a dark horse by both factions.

No other pronouncement regarding the referee matter has come from either camp since the meeting, but it is reported that Johnson is holding out for the men he has named and thinks Jeffries will agree to one of them. Jeffries does not appear to be concerning himself over the vexed problem and has passed it up to Berger. Johnson continues to sidestep his gymnasium on the beach and is devoting himself to walking and to spins in his automobile. There is one active man in his camp however, Joe Thomas, the California middleweight, who is training hard for his fight with Bill Papke here next week.

JEFFRIES LOOKS GOOD

BEN LOMOND, Cal., May 6.—The ease with which Jim Jeffries toyed and trilled with Joe Chynoweth in their first bout yesterday has made a remarkable impression on the latter and he is still singing the praises of the big man with whom he fought a twenty round draw in San Francisco 13 years ago. "His return to form," said Joe, "is nothing short of marvelous. Jeffries' footwork, his wonderful speed and his idea of distance is perfect. I will stake my judgment that Jeffries could be in shape for his fight with Johnson inside of a week. Few people realize the splendid condition he is in at the present time."

Bill Papke here chimed in and made Joe's song of praise a duet.

"Jeff is the king of boxers," he said. "I have been in training here and consider my wind good, yet I came out of my round with Jeff blowing as if I had not trained a minute. He is so fast that he is bewildering."

Papke searched the landscape for a metaphor. "A big man beside a sand heap—that is the way I would compare him to any man I have ever seen in action."

JAS. B. HAMMOND

Gives $1,000,000 to Factory Employees

NEW YORK, May 6.—James B. Hammond, the millionaire typewriter inventor, gave $1,000,000 to the employees of his factory one day, and now he is sorry. He wants his money back. The employees don't want to give it up, which is not overstrange. To settle the question Mr. Hammond has filed suit in the supreme court, and the case will come for trial within the next two weeks. The suit promises to be a unique one in court circles. At the trial will be told how Mr. Hammond, desiring to reward faithful old employees for building up the typewriter business, turned over to five of them as trustees 520 shares of the capital stock of the Hammond Typewriter company. Mr. Hammond alleges his intention was to retain control of the stock until his death, when the trustees were to apportion it to those employees who had served five years or more. This plan, Mr. Hammond says, was not carried out, but instead of waiting until his death the trustees assumed control of the business and sought to put him aside. Mr. Hammond has named as defendants John W. Bancroft, secretary of the company and superintendent of the factory, and four other executive employees. All five trustees have been associated with the founder of the typewriter company since its inception.

(JAMES B. HAMMOND)

LEFT $6,000,000 ESTATE

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., May 6.—The will of Eli M. Stewart, an eccentric bachelor, who died recently, was opened yesterday.

The document bequeaths $50,000 each to the Home for Aged Women of Minneapolis, to the Home for the Little Sisters of the Poor, Minneapolis, and for a memorial library at Corrina, Minn.

The rest of the estate, which is estimated at $6,000,000, is divided among relatives and friends living in Maine, Massachusetts and San Francisco.

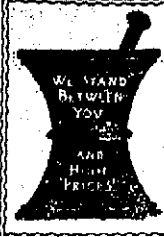

BROTHERHOOD OF ST. ANDREW WORCESTER, May 6.—Following holy communion in the four Episcopal churches in this city, addresses of welcome were read to the delegates of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew at the opening session of the 22nd annual New England assembly of the order at St. Matthew's church today.

Bishop A. H. Vinton of Springfield, Episcopal bishop of western Massachusetts and Rev. Henry Hague, rector of St. Matthew's church were the speakers.

A business meeting was then held after which there was a conference on junior brotherhood.

The assembly held other sessions in the afternoon and will meet again tomorrow and Sunday.

THE GRADY CASE HALLEY'S COMET

Closing Argument to be Made Today

BELFAST, Me., May 6.—The closing argument for the state and the charge to the jury by Associate Justice Penbody were all that remained to complete the case at the opening today of the fifth day of the trial of Ira Grady for the alleged murder of Mrs. Hattie French Thomas. These were expected to occupy the greater part of the forenoon but it was certain that the fate of the accused Unity blacksmith would be placed in the hands of the jury before noon.

HOUSE PURCHASED BY THE PASTOR OF ST. PETER'S CHURCH FOR PARISH PURPOSES
Rev. Dr. Kelehor, pastor of St. Peter's church, today purchased the house adjoining the parochial residence on the south side. Undertaker O'Donnell owned the property and intended to build upon it, had been able to secure additional land. It is not yet certain what the land will be used for although a convent may eventually be erected upon it. The lot contains 6200 square feet. The land has been deeded to the archbishop of Boston, same as the other property of the Catholic church within the diocese.

HOW IT HAPPENS
We had some demand for a special chocolate mixture selling at 29c. As others are doing, we bought goods of inferior quality, but we found them up in pounds. Examining these carefully we decided in every case they were nothing more or less than 20c candy with two or three "show" pieces of a better grade. We then turned to a maker of high grade goods of whom we were buying a lot of goods. They made a price on a 40c chocolate mixture if we could use 150 pounds a week. We accepted their offer and now use 200 pounds a week. Our margin is small, but our large sales and satisfied customers are a sufficient recompense. Take a pound home for Sunday. Five pound boxes $1.15. Howard, the drugist, 197 Central street.

OnlyFOR SPOT CASH*I Buy Out Brockton's Highest Priced Tailor

JOHN T. MURPHY a little over three months ago opened one of the handsomest tailor shops in Brockton at 174 MAIN STREET. Catering to high class trade, his elaborately fitted store contained only the finest foreign and domestic woolsens. His stock was noted for its extreme taste and conservatism, every yard of which reflects credit on his judgment. But increase of living in a town like Brockton made it impossible for him to do business with $30, $35 and $40 suits and this is the reason he takes a loss of $5000 on his complete stock, and Mitchell's customers get the benefit. I have made this purchase at a time when I am already overstocked with woolsens and it is my intention not to carry over a yard of stock. These goods are in my open doorway today that you may be able to judge and verify all that I have said for them. See them and handle them in the open air without solicitation and when you make a selection, call one of my cutters and be measured. The price for suit to order will be $12, with a $5 Pant Free.

THE BIG FIGHTThe Governor Will Not Interfere
With It

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 6.—In response to scores of letters received at the governor's office since the death of Tommy Mulcahey, after his fight with Owen Moran in San Francisco last Friday night, urging Gov. Gillett to stop the Jeffries-Johnson fight on July 4, E. Forest Bitchell, executive secretary to the governor, sent out answers yesterday, saying that the governor was powerless to interfere.

Alameda county, and, if this is a prize fight, and not a boxing contest, he has the right to put a stop to it. In all probability, however, the local authorities will be seriously handicapped until such time as the law is amended by the state legislature so that the distinction is clearly shown between a prize fight and a so-called boxing contest.

AT JEFFRIES' CAMP

RICH LOMOND, Cal., May 6.—Joe Choynski had his first tryout with James J. Jeffries yesterday; and, at the close of the three round bout he said that while he was in excellent shape himself, he was a mere baby in Jeffries' hands.

Jeffries gave Choynski, who has assumed charge of the boxing end of the training camp, every chance to make a good showing in the opening exercises, and while Joe displayed much of his old-time cleverness, Jeffries was much faster and showed progress. Only a handful of Jeffries' trainers and four newspapermen witnessed the bout yesterday afternoon. No visitors were permitted in the inclosure, for both Choynski and Papke were to be taken on for the first time. Jeffries has always been averse to the prying eyes of strangers on such occasions.

Papke donned the gloves first, Jeffries being as gentle with the middleweight as possible. In the second round he gave Papke a rather stiff right over the eye. This severely shook the boy from Kewanee, Ill., and raised a big lump.

"Better not use that on me again," Papke whispered as they fiddled, and thereafter Jeffries used his left entirely. After the set-to with Jeffries, Papke said:

"I wish I had boxed with Jeffries all the time. Not once did he hit me hard intentionally, and I can learn a lot from him. I am pretty strong myself, but I was a mere baby in his hands."

Then came the bout with Choynski. The two faced each other for the first time since the 20-round draw in San Francisco, in 1907. Like Papke, Choynski looked like a pigmy alongside the former champion. Choynski evidently is in better shape than any of the other boxers in Jeffries' camp. He displayed much of his old-time agility and prowess and came out of the contest without distress. They went at it with a will, Jeffries favoring Choynski throughout. He was even more gentle with him than he was with Papke.

Choynski declared that after a few more days of sparring he would show to much better advantage. In his work with Choynski, Jeffries delighted his trainers by displaying a lot of the old-time ginger. He romped around the ring like a boy who loved the game. After the boxing he went through a couple of handball games at topspeed and indulged in rope skipping, bag punching and shadow boxing.

Papke will leave for training quarters near San Francisco on Sunday. He would have liked to have completed his training for Joe Thomas here, but said Promoter Coffroth insisted on his being nearer the scene of his coming bout.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., May 6.—Jack Johnson is training in leisure. Since he has been in San Francisco he has divided his time between spells of business and pleasure, mostly pleasure. He objects to the mention of any sort of work and objects to any disturbance of his tranquil existence. His gymnasium is ready for him, but he passes it by without even peeping in, finding more benefit in the sun-flooded, wind-swept beach.

All that he cares for by way of diversion from his simple life is his automobile. When he is not sleeping or walking he is at the steering wheel of his touring car.

His big racing car arrived Wednesday and sent a thrill through the apprehensive managers of the big fight.

Maunger George Little said yesterday that Monday had been chosen for beginning the conditioning season. Johnson will be put on a routine schedule and from then until the day of the fight he will be carefully watched and handled by his trainers.

JOHN D. AITKENHad a Wonderful Escape From Death

ATLANTA, Ga., May 6.—John D. Aitken during the automobile race meet here had a wonderful escape on the back stretch of the Atlanta speedway yesterday when his National-10, making 70 miles an hour, dashed into the inside fence and over the embankment. The front of the car was smashed but Aitken and his mechanic, Wilson, escaped with scratches.

The accident happened in the 49th mile of the race of the day, the 200 mile stock chassis, 201 to 400 cubic inches, when Aitken was about two miles in the lead of his nearest competitor and giving promise of lowering the track record for the distance. The race was won by Harroun in a Marmon car, in 3 hours, 2 minutes, 31.25 seconds.

Lewis Strang who was forty miles behind Harroun at the finish of the race received second money, $300. Harroun got the $5000 Atlanta speedway trophy and $500.

ANNUAL MEETINGPRESIDENT FOR MERRIMACK RIVER SAVINGS BANK

The annual meeting of the trustees of the Merrimack River Savings bank was held yesterday morning at the bank. The position of executive president was created and N. G. Lamson was chosen to the position. Mr. Lamson has been treasurer of the bank for many years. Heretofore there have been honorary presidents, but never an active president. The late Charles E. Adams was an honorary president of the institution.

Franklin E. Johnson, for many years teller of the bank, was chosen to the place of treasurer, made vacant by the promotion of Mr. Lamson. Perkins, William H. Fuller and N. G. Lamson.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

Mrs. Lou Stuart Wadsworth was the principal speaker Thursday morning at the memorial service held by the Grand Temple of Pythian Sisters in the Ford building, Boston. The service was according to the ritual of the order and Mrs. George W. Penniman, wife of the retiring grand chancellor of the Knights of Pythias, sang.

Following the memorial service the convention went into business session, and Mrs. Margaret Bill of Whitman was elected a trustee. Grand Chief Mrs. Jenny W. Doherty presided at the business session, which considered routine matters until noon. The afternoon session began at 2 o'clock and included the presentation of jewels to the retiring officers of last year and the installation of the new officials.

Mrs. Emma L. I. Jacobs of Brighton yesterday afternoon was elected grand chief of the Grand Temple.

The feature of the convention of the grand lodge of the Knights of Pythias in Ford hall during the afternoon was the victory of George S. Harrington of Taunton, who was elected grand outer guard in the only contest of the convention. George E. Cleaves of Malden was elected grand chancellor.

The grand lodge refused to separate the order and its insurance department. A committee of five was appointed to consider the project of erecting a Pythian temple in Boston.

The officers elected by the Pythian Sisters, other than grand chief, Mrs. Jacobs, were: Grand senior, Mrs. Mary A. LeCain, Boston; grand junior, Mrs. Elva L. Wolworth, Whitman; grand manager, Mrs. May Hall, Somerville; grand keeper of records, Mrs. Annie J. Harvey, Taunton; grand mistress of finance, Mrs. A. Cora Stiles, Lowell; grand protector, Mrs. Anna Hubbard, Lowell; grand guard, Mrs. Lucy Day, Lynn.

SENT OUT OF TOWN

Englishman is Alleged to be a Swindler

BOSTON, May 6.—Charles Harcourt, an Englishman, whose picture is in the rogues' gallery in New York, was sent out of town by Deputy Supt. Watts yesterday as a swindler whose presence in this city was not desirable. He was arrested by Sergeant Murphy and Special Officer Mitchell of station 4.

It is stated by the police that a business man, whose name is withheld, met Harcourt in New York a week ago. They became acquainted, and after a while Harcourt is alleged to have made a proposition to him by which he declared the race tracks in New York could be beaten by means of wire tapping.

The Boston man apparently fell to the deal, and when he came back to Boston he told a friend of the affair. The friend said it was a bunco game, and he said that he had better have the police on hand when the deal to beat the race tracks was consummated. The Boston man met Harcourt in a hotel in the downtown district and the two officers were on hand. They arrested Harcourt and he was locked up in station 4 for the night. Yesterday morning he was taken to police headquarters.

Harcourt was indignant at his arrest. He declared that he led an honest life and denied that he had over-

been arrested before. But Edward Sherlock, who is in charge of the rogues' gallery, looked through his pictures and soon found one which caused Harcourt to lapse into silence.

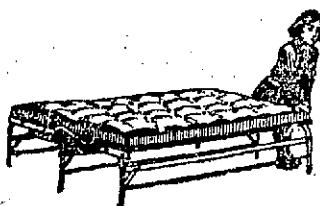

Deputy Watts then spoke a few plain words to Harcourt. He told him that Boston was no place for swindlers. As the police had no strong case against the man Deputy Watts decided to get rid of him by giving him a chance to leave town.

Harcourt did as the deputy suggested and left for New York by the first train.

A LIVELY BLAZE

Fire in Ingham Block in Church Street

A lively blaze broke out in the office of the William A. Ingham Co. at 44 Church street this morning and but for the prompt arrival of the fire department and the work of the members the fire would have proved to be a very disastrous one, for the flames had made considerable headway before being discovered.

It was about 5:30 o'clock when a passerby noticed the fire in the office and rushing to the old Boston & Maine depot pulled in an alarm from box 53. When the department arrived on the scene the interior of the office was ablaze and the fire had made its way to the room above.

Chief Hosmer is of the opinion that the fire started in a rat's nest which was in the partition and after burning across the floor went up the partition and then to the floor above.

Fred C. Church had the insurance on the building.

SHOTS FIRED

At Chas. J. Glidden and His Party

EAST HADDAM, Conn., May 6.—Upon landing here early today from an aeronautical journey for the purpose of making astronomical observations, particularly of Halley's comet, the occupants of the balloon Massachusetts stated that they were fired upon by some unknown person about three miles north of Manchester just before sunrise. The person used a rifle and while the bullet did not strike the balloon or its passengers it whistled uncomfortably close to their ears.

Prof. David Todd of the Amherst college observatory, who with Mrs. Todd and Charles J. Glidden, comprised the party, reported that his observations of Halley's comet, as well as the planet Venus, the moon and the sun were very successful and that he had gathered much information.

The balloon which arose from Pittsfield, Mass., at 2:15 this morning, landed at 6:10 in a Russian settlement five miles from Long Island sound and seven miles from Colchester, an airless distance of eighty miles. The time of the voyage was four hours, 10 minutes and the highest elevation reached was seven thousand feet. After landing, the aeronauts loaded their balloon into the only means of transportation available, a rickety Russian cart, and rode seven miles to Colchester, where they boarded a train for Springfield.

Prof. Todd was too fatigued to speak of his observations but said he would have some very interesting information to divulge when he reached Springfield.

THE HEINZE CASE

NEW YORK, May 6.—John P. Fensler, the expert accountant, was again on the witness stand today when the United States circuit court the trial of F. Augustus Heinze was resumed. Yesterday Fensler described methods by which United Copper company dividends had been paid, largely, he claimed, by means of loans taken out to be repaid when the "undivided" turned back their dividend money to the Heinze coterie. The witness today described the manner in which, as alleged, the company has financed itself for the payment of the dividends.

On Jan. 26, 1907, he said, when the United Copper company had a quarterly dividend falling due that company had a balance of less than $80,000. Here Max Schultze of Otto Heinze & Co. stepped in and borrowed $500,000 from the Mercantile National bank, adding to this a check of $120,000 from A. P. Heinze, making a total of $720,000 available for dividend payments.

Then began a system of exchange of checks through the subsidiary concerns of the United Copper company.

These travels of the $720,000, Mr. Fensler traced until the sum was brought home to Max H. Schultze's account in the Mercantile National bank. This method, he testified, resulted in giving the subsidiaries banking credits and enabled the United Copper company to pay $1,025,000 in dividends. Of the dividend payments but $155,000 went to the holders of United Copper outside of the Heinze family. The Heinzes and their dummy holders, clerks in the employ of the Heinzes, according to Fensler, on receiving the dividend checks endorsed them back to Schultze, who deposited them in the Mercantile National bank to his account. Then Schultze discharged the $600,000 loan.

LATEST
COL. ROOSEVELTHas Been Given Degree of Doctor of Philosophy

CHRISTIANIA, May 6.—King Fredrick's University conferred upon Theodore Roosevelt today the degree of doctor of philosophy. It was the third time in the history of a century that the degree had been given a foreigner. The exercises occurred in the amphitheatre of the university. King Hankton entered with Mr. Roosevelt at his right and a notable assembly including the premier and other members of the cabinet, the Nobel prize committee, the diplomatic corps, the faculty of the university and many persons distinguished in civil life.

That it was scarcely kind to drag him down among the mortals. He likened Col. Roosevelt to a rushing human engine, difficult to follow, and making it difficult amid the clouds of smoke to discern precisely the manner of man he was. Some saw a winged angel and others a modern devil with claws. In sketching the colonel's career, he found "The Winning of the West," his most instructive work. He agreed with others that Mr. Roosevelt was a man who had learned to use the capacities and powers which in most men lie dormant. He had converted his capacities into energies.

In reply, Mr. Roosevelt said that it did not make such difference what capacities a man had. It was important, rather, what he did with them. The thing was to get the job done.

Stock Market Gossip

The market was very quiet today, due no doubt to the reported serious illness of King Edward of England. While this may have been responsible in a way for the dullness, still the market's early week sessions had not given any promise of the shade of inactivity breaking in the latter week, and not much head was given to the reports from England. The London market offers somewhat through the illness of the king and the series of this part in the early hours showed several declines. While our own market was not profitable as far as sales recorded to the noon hour showed, still it managed to keep moving and unless the market moves in sympathy with its sister part in the late hours, nothing detrimental to the present market should appear.

A good bank statement may be expected tomorrow, according to despatches received this morning and the foundation of the report was laid on the continued high rates of money, combined with the failure to export any gold. The only thing which could alter the present condition of the statement between today and tomorrow would be a severe shift in the terms of loans and deposits. The bonds negotiated through the foreign markets on Wednesday did much in benefiting the condition of the market and the influencing effect which they had is being felt and should be the means of bringing some life in the sessions of next week. The contemplated issue of short term bonds to the amount of $40,000,000 by the Baltimore & Ohio road will also assist the market once it is consummated.

BUSINESS CONDITIONS

NEW YORK, May 6.—Despatches to R. G. Dun & Co. indicate that unfavorable weather still adversely affects business in some sections although the volume of trade on the whole is well sustained. Low temperatures retard retail sales at Boston and marked conservatism is apparent in wholesale lines. Dry goods trade shows a falling off from the March exhibit while demand for cotton goods at first hand continues moderate.

Bank exchanges this week at all leading cities in the United States are $3,432,004,535, a gain of 11.4 per cent over a year ago.

CLOSED STEADY AND QUIET THIS AFTERNOON

Decline Carried Some Stocks Two Points Below Yesterday's Price—Prices Rallied Some During the Late Hours

NEW YORK, May 6.—The alarm in the London stock market through the condition of the king of England was reflected in wide declines in opening prices here. Losses reached as much as a point in practically all of the English issues. Sales of 6500 shares of U. S. Steel were made at 81 1/2 and 82 1/2, compared with yesterday's closing price of 82 1/2 and 4000 shares of U. P. at 180 1/2 and 180 compared with 181 1/2 last night. Rock Island lost 1 1/2, Reading and Canadian Pacific 1 1/2, and St. Paul 1 1/2. Movements of support made themselves felt promptly and caused fractional rallies after the opening.

The rally brought the list close to yesterday's final prices at which level the selling was resumed but the market did not yield materially and rallied again. B. & O. rose 1 on active dealings and Mo. Pac. Pittsburg C. & St. Louis & Kans. City Southern pf. also gained 1.

Buying which checked the break in prices caused by the king of England's illness was not pursued. News was awaited of the outcome. Meantime selling of the copper stocks caused prices to decline. Amalgamated Copper lost 1 5/8. At noon the tone was steady and dealings were very light. Bonds were irregular.

The tone of the market grew quiet heavy again, the demand for small amounts of stock offered. In the selling after midday the railroad stocks were the most affected, Union Pacific selling 2 points below yesterday's close. London began selling again in this market, and prices ran off rapidly. U. P. Reading and Canadian Pacific lost three points, Rock Island 2 1/2, U. S. Steel 2 3/8, Southern Pacific 2 1/4, U. S. Steel 2 and the list generally 1 to 1 1/2.

The market closed steady and quiet. The decline carried Northern Pacific, Northwestern and Amn. Smelting about 2 below yesterday. A subsequent moving movement by shorts rallied prices a point or more for some of the most active stocks.

Boston Copper Market

BOSTON, May 6.—Although there was a generally lower tone to local copper stocks at the opening today (Friday) they were selling fractionally in sympathy with the decline in New York and London, at noon stocks were fairly steady.

The advance of Giroux to 7 1/2-2 1/4 was the feature of the early trading.

STORY OF DEVASTATION

SAN JUAN, Del Sur, Nicaragua, May 6.—Refugees arriving at San Jose bring further news of the devastation wrought by the series of earth shocks in the province of Cartago, Costa Rica, during Wednesday night. The capitol, Cartago, is said by the fleeing ones to have been practically destroyed but the estimates of the dead and injured are conflicting. It is agreed that the first report of 500 fatalities was conservative.

The finest structures of the town are in ruins. Among the number was the Palace of Justice, erected by Andrew Carnegie's gift of $100,000. It is believed that Dr. Becanegra, the Guatemalan magistrate to the Central American arbitration court, was killed. His wife and child are said to have perished.

According to reports received here from San Jose the refugees say that communication between Cartago and outside points has been interrupted and much damage has been done along the railroad line leading to Port Limon. The shocks threw the 10,000 inhabitants into a panic. The authorities, however, kept their heads and, martial law being declared, promptly began the work of rescue. Some 400 bodies have been taken from the ruins and the injured who escaped with their lives will add several hundred to the total casualties.

CRANE MEETS PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON, May 6.—Senators Elkins and Crane had an early but brief conference with the president this morning as to the railroad bill in the senate and arranged to call upon him again tomorrow when he will see other republican leaders of the senate on the same subject. They told the president with emphasis that the republican combination which has been formed in the senate is sufficiently strong to put through the bill as it is finally acceded to by the president and his advisers.

Soon after the two senators reached the capitol they informed their associates that they had 55 votes, eight more than is needed to defeat every long and short hand amendment that may be offered. This number includes many democratic senators.

Judge Hardy concluded his charge to the jury in the case of Howard vs. the Boston & Northern this forenoon about 12 o'clock, and the case of Berdos vs. Tremont & Suffolk went to trial. In this case an action of tort, growing out of an accident at the mills, Trull & Wier, the well known street railroad corporation lawyers, appear for the plaintiff, while Frank E. Dunbar appears for the defense.

THREE LIVES LOST

CHATHAM, N. B., May 6.—Three lives are believed to have been lost when a two-masted schooner, supposed to be the John A. Gray of Tigonish, P. E. I., went ashore at Tabushintac on the gulf of St. Lawrence during a snow storm yesterday morning. The Gray was in command of Captain Frank Gallant of Tigonish. The schooner's plight was discovered by some Tabushintac residents yesterday forenoon. Two men immediately launched a small boat and rowed to within fifty yards of the schooner but on account of the tremendous sea that was running they could get no nearer. Upon returning to shore the two boatsmen reported seeing the three men lashed to the schooner's rigging apparently dead. At times as the schooner was tossed about the men in the rigging were swept by the seas, and there seemed to be no doubt that all were dead. Later in the day a boat was washed ashore but there was no name or mark on it by which the schooner could be identified.

Tabushintac is a fishing village in the upper part of Northumberland county about 40 miles from the nearest railroad line.

PANIC IN CARTAGO

Large Part of City Destroyed by Earthquake

SAN JUAN SUR DEL, Nicaragua, wife and child of Dr. Bocanegra, the May 6.—A large part of Cartago, Costa Rica, was destroyed Wednesday night by a powerful seismic movement. Details are very meagre, for the telegraph wires have been leveled between San Jose and Cartago. The operation of the buildings being damaged, but no deaths are reported in that city. Some it is known that at least 100 persons are dead and many hundreds injured. Scores of buildings were thrown down, among them the Palace of Justice, erected by Andrew Carnegie. The state that there is much suffering and destruction at Cartago, consequent upon the disaster. Cartago, capital of Cartago province, lies at the foot of Irazu volcano, about 14 miles from San Jose. It has

It has suffered frequently from earthquakes, and was partially or in greater part destroyed in 1723, 1803, 1825, 1841, 1851 and 1884. On April 12 last a series of earthquakes, varying in intensity swept over Costa Rica, doing considerable material damage, but practically without loss of life. San Jose suffered most severely with the destruction of Fort Limon felt the force of the disturbances.

LARCENY CASES

Occupied Judge Hadley's Time Today

The stuffy little room that is substituting for a real court room while the real court room is being renovated, reached the limit of stuffiness this morning, when it was crowded to the doors with a large gathering in the corridors.

Drama Parent was particularly unfortunate for she was hauled in for drunkenness twice within 72 hours and she was sent to jail for three months. Frank O'Brien, a parole man from the state farm, was given a second term.

Cornelius Kellher was fined $15 for evading a board bill due one John Riley. It seems that Kellher was brought in before and was placed on probation so that he might have an opportunity to make good to Riley. He slipped up and was taken in on a capias and fined.

Case Continued
William F. Higgins was again continued, the case being put off until tomorrow and the charge will read larceny instead of breaking and entering. Higgins was rooming at the home of one Mary Smith of Central street and it was alleged that he purchased a watch from an insurance company, paying $1 down. He sold the watch to a Smith woman for $10. Later he was forced to vacate his lodgings, it is alleged, but retaining his key went back in the absence of the Smith woman and took away not only the watch but had sold her but another two rings. He pleaded not guilty.

McKenna vs. Kane
When the case of Charles J. McKenna and Patrick J. Kane for breaking and entering and larceny from the barber shop of Anthony Hoinan, two razors and two clippers, was called it was found that McKenna was on the verge of nervous collapse and his appearance was positively distressing to those who saw him. He wanted the case to proceed, however, stating that he was nervous as the result of drink, but that he was all right mentally, but the court decided that he was not in proper condition to conduct a defense and ordered his case continued until next Monday. The case against Kane was heard and probable cause being found he was held in $500 for the grand jury.

The case of Dr. George Demopoulos for practicing without being registered was discontinued as the doctor has since become registered in compliance with the law.

Bought Barber Shop
Most of the time of the court was taken up this morning by Frank Ladd, the well known legislative agent, and James E. O'Donnell, the equally well known attorney, who appeared for Yadan Mardigian, a barber, who until recently conducted a shop in property owned by Mr. Ladd in Paige st. Mr. Ladd was the principal witness and he gave his testimony in characteristically breezy manner, occasionally referring to Ladd as "Jim." While Lawyer O'Donnell's testimony interested came back with "Frank," the court allowing the familiarities.

It seems that the defendant bought out a barber shop in Mr. Ladd's building formerly owned by a cousin of his and the mortgage was "stock and fixtures." The purchaser took that to mean everything but the walls. It came to pass that Mr. Ladd was about to make improvements on the building and ordered the tenant out. The latter became somewhat vexed and in moving out started to take the "stock and fixtures." There was one thing that was portable. When he started to take a screen door and some screens and when he took an axe and started to remove a boiler such as is used by barbers for getting hot water, Mr. Ladd protested on the ground that those things were put in by him and should not be removed, but the defendant removed them nevertheless. Lawyer O'Donnell stoutly maintained that the defendant thought that he had bought everything in sight from his cousin, who sold out to him and when asked where the cousin was he sadly replied, "Gone to the old country." Mr. Ladd then volunteered this information:

"You honor, I think the truth of this matter is that this man's cousin 'skinned' him and then cleared for Constantinople. I told him that the things were mine and with regard to the screen door and the window screens he brought them back when I objected but later in my absence he took them away again." The defendant admitted that he was trying to rip out the sink when he was stopped by Mr. Ladd, whereupon the court remarked: "You didn't take the walls of the building, but most everything else."

Lawyer O'Donnell argued strongly in favor of the fact that the bill of sale said "stock and fixtures" and that the defendant believed that it included everything and had no criminal intent. The court decided not that the defendant was guilty outright, but that "there was a certain measure of criminal responsibility" and continued the case one week to allow the defendant to make a satisfactory arrangement to the owner of the property.

Larceny Charge
"Are you ready for trial?" asked Judge Henry of Frank E. Jellison, charged with larceny of a number of articles from a club house in Billerica street owned by William E. Rice. "Sure," responded Jellison, in a loud voice.

"What do you mean by 'sure'?" demanded the court, "do you mean that you are?" "Yes," said Jellison, and the case went on. Mr. Rice and his son testified that several articles had been taken from the club house adjoining his property, the club house being the one building that escaped the recent fire at the Billerica household. There was no trace of the articles since those disappeared and of all the witnesses but two could connect Jellison with the theft and they saw him with a level and a cannon in his hand in the vicinity of the club house. Before they met him they noticed that a rear window was boarded up, afterward they noticed that the boards had been removed from the window. Jellison said that he was fishing in the vicinity of the Riggs estate and went over to look at the ruins of the recent fire. While there he saw a level and a cannon in the ruins of the fire and picked them up and looked at them after which he laid them in the road nearby and went away without taking them with him. Mr. Rice recalled, stated that the articles mentioned by the defendant were never in the ruins, but were in the club house, the level being in a drawer. Furthermore, they claimed that if the defendant had laid them in the road he would have found them by this time. Jellison was placed in charge of the probation officer.

BODY OF MAN

Was Identified by His Brother

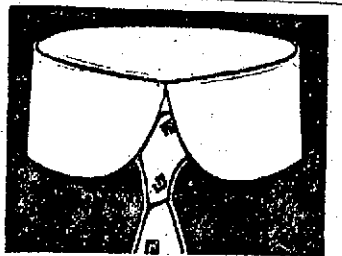

NEW YORK, May 6.—Hugh K. Toler, a broker, yesterday identified at the morgue the body of a man found Wednesday night in the East river as that of his brother, Henry Pennington Toler. The latter was an inmate of the Manhattan state hospital for the insane on Blackwell's island and disappeared Feb. 1, it being thought then that he jumped into the river.

Henry P. Toler was a wealthy broker, who several years ago gave up his Wall street connections and became a devotee of faith healing. His mind gave way and he was committed to the Blackwell's island institution.

When the body was found, a letter, dated Boston, July, 1909, was discovered in the pocket of the man's trousers. It was signed Adam H. Dickey, secretary to Mrs. Eddy, and read as follows:

"Dear Mr. Toler—Your letter to Mrs. Eddy has been received by me. Let me assure you, in our leader's loving behalf, there is nothing treasured up against you by reason of anything you have ever done or said.

"You do not know me personally, but my heart goes out to you in your present condition, and I will surely do all in my power to help you regain your health and strength. It is now your place to do everything well instead of worrying about the past. Remember that evil is not power and you are already free from any supposed power it may claim to have over you, because it is powerless—nothing."

The following statement was given out last night by Alfred Farlow, secretary of the Christian Science publication committee:

"Mr. Toler has been mentally afflicted for a number of years. His trouble seems to date from the time when he was wrestling to work out his scheme to recover that portion of New York city which was formerly called New Harlem. He claimed to be one of the heirs of that property. I have been told that he spent a fortune in this scheme and that the matter weighed heavily upon him."

"I had a long talk with Mr. Toler about two years ago and I found that he had entirely departed from the teachings of Christian Science and was in great confusion, but I was not able to reason with him nor convince him of the error of his hallucinations."

BLOOD POISONING

CAUSED THE DEATH OF ENGINEER NEEDHAM

BOSTON, May 6.—Blood poisoning, which developed from a slight cut on the hand received at his fire station, caused the death of Engineer Charles T. Needham of engine 16, Temple street, Dorchester Lower Mills, who had been a member of the fire department for nearly 40 years, at the City hospital at 12.30 yesterday afternoon.

The engineer was setting a light of glass in a door when he cut his hand. He had the wound dressed and thought nothing more of the incident until his arm commenced to swell. He entered the City hospital and heroic efforts were made to save his life.

Randall and Miss White arrived in an automobile, accompanied by another young woman and two young men.

ECZEMA—A GERM DISEASE—CAN NOW BE CURED.

The medical profession is all agreed that ECZEMA is a germ disease, but the thing that has baffled them is to find some remedy that will get to the germs and destroy them.

Zemo, the clear, external treatment has solved this difficulty by drawing the germs to the surface of the skin and destroying the germ life that causes the diseases. The whole method of treatment and cure by ZEMO is explained in an interesting book on the subject issued by the makers of ZEMO. It tells how to cure yourself at home of Eczema, Blackheads, Pimples, Dandruff, and all diseases of the skin and scalp. Call at A. W. Dows & Co.'s drug store for Booklet and learn more about this clean, simple remedy that is now recognized the standard treatment for all diseases of the skin and scalp.

WHIST PARTY

UNDER THE AUSPICES OF COURT ST. PAUL

A whist party and concert was held at St. Louis hall last night under the auspices of Court St. Paul, C. O. F. The attendance was very large and the affair proved to be a social as well as a financial success.

There were two prize contests conducted, one of which was won by Mrs. Mary Hebert, while the other was won by Mrs. J. E. Rochette.

Alfred Gervais was general director of the pleasant affair. Eugene Soudard, Rodolphe Boudreau, Noe Leon Payette, Edmond Soudard, J. E. Macdonald and Leo Laiselle formed a committee who had a strenuous time keeping the scores for the whist.

The musical program of the evening was a delightful one, and included orchestra selection, songs by Mrs. Bertha Dion, and comic chansons by George Labranche, Arcelle Brunelle and Alfred Guerin. Misses Della Alhard and Ida Lagasse accompanied at the piano.

ACCIDENTS IN PICTURE THEATRES.

In New York last week there was a serious accident in one of the picture theatres in which several people were injured. Since the introduction of the new regulations for the management of picture theatres in this state, there have been few accidents. The state police show great vigilance in looking after the mechanical appliances used and in guarding against accidents. The regulations now in force seem to be very effective for that purpose.

STATES CAN PROTECT THEMSELVES AGAINST TRUSTS.

Two important decisions were handed down by the supreme court this week dealing with the matter of state rights and affirming in each case the sovereign right of the state to regulate commerce within its boundaries. Other states, notably Texas and Kansas, have passed rigid laws against the operation of trusts, and after all this is the most effective method of restraining combinations in restraint of trade.

Heretofore, the whole country, or at least a large portion of it, has looked to Washington for redress which more directly lies in the hands of state authorities. The state has absolute power to rid itself of the operation of trusts. All that is needed is to find the evidence, and where the trusts are really operative the finding of evidence should be an easy matter.

KING EDWARD AND POLITICS.

It is very seldom that King Edward sends out a personal note to the public. In this respect he is probably the most silent monarch on earth. His majesty, however, has recently caused a public announcement to be made that he does not want his name to be mixed up in political controversies. This is probably a result of the speculation as to what he will do in reference to Premier Asquith's request that the king should create enough liberal peers to carry the resolution annulling the veto power of the house of lords on measures passed by the commons. Should the king refuse to do this then Premier Asquith will appeal to the country, and if a verdict be returned in his favor, the lords will probably sign their own death warrant.

It is hoped the present alarming illness of the king will not have serious results.

THE BOSTON DEADLOCK.

Judging from the fact that the civil service commission has not confirmed any of Mayor Fitzgerald's appointments, it appears that the arrangement which gives the commission the power to hold up any or all of his appointments will not work, at least while the commission is constituted as at present. The appointments by Mayor Fitzgerald thus far, with one or two exceptions, have commanded very general approval and commendation, the civil service commission alone withholding its sanction. Thus we see a deadlock in operation to obstruct the transaction of public business in the city of Boston and to baffle the one official who has to bear all the responsibility. The arrangement is wrong, and unless the commission gives evidence of fair-mindedness towards the mayor of Boston, it must be changed in the interests of the people of Boston. It is wrong to hold the mayor responsible without giving him the power necessary to set things right.

THE SCHOOL FRATERNITIES.

The board of education at Bridgeport, Conn., has decided to abolish all the school fraternities. That is a step in the right direction. The school fraternities as conducted in high schools, serve only to demoralize the schools, to create class distinctions, to injure discipline and retard the progress of the members. In this respect what is true of a fraternity in Bridgeport is equally true of such fraternities in other cities.

So far as we have been able to judge, the fraternities unless directed by the teachers are detrimental rather than otherwise. A good debating society that would teach the members parliamentary procedure and enable them to express themselves clearly in debate, is very useful to any young man. The secret fraternity as conducted in most of the schools, however, does not answer this purpose. It would be well to have the debating society under the supervision of the teachers, take the place of the secret fraternities that have recently become so numerous and have almost without exception proved not only worthless but injurious to the members and to the schools in which they exist.

COUNTRY SCHOOLS VS. CITY SCHOOLS.

Editor Sam:

Will you please explain why it is as you can find to be the case, that children in country schools learn faster and make more progress than those who attend our best city schools? It has often seemed strange to me. My children go to one of the public schools of Lowell; my neighbor's children attend the schools of Dracut and are getting far ahead of mine in all the important branches, reading, writing, arithmetic, grammar and language. I can't understand it, can you explain it and oblige.

Yours truly,
Citizen.

The information set forth in this communication, although rather strange, is not new. Children in the country schools, as a rule, do make more rapid progress than those who attend the city schools. We are asked to state why.

We believe there are two reasons. First, because the curriculum in the town schools is not loaded with facts. The time of the children is not wasted on matters of little or no importance. Second, the pupils in the country school receive more individual attention from the teacher than in a city school where the instruction is imparted to pupils in the mass and where in consequence children often get confused ideas of the instruction given. These errors are corrected only by personal interrogation which is commonly used in the country school and but seldom, so far as each pupil is concerned, in the city school.

Th' drops stand thick on bud an' rose
An' th' slate burnt shingles and

Th' rooster drops his tail an' runs

Th' thunder roars like far-off guns.
An' it's fresh an' green down th' long

An' it's drip, drip, drip from th' ridge

It's swish, swish, swish in the ellum

An' it's splash, splash, splash down

Th' cows low soft in th' milkin' shed.
An' th' plow horse steams where a

Spreads out its leaves above his head.
To keep th' rain drops off'n him.
An' ol' Doc Griggs goes tearin' past,

A fuzzy little bantam rooster has kidnapped the brood of a Plymouth Rock hen on Georgia Hill's farm at Ledgewood, N. J. The bantam took it into his head that he could take care of a brood of chicks as well as any hen in the yard, so he led, or drove the Plymouth Rocks to another place and took charge of them.

The mother chuckled excitedly for awhile and ran around after her stolen brood, but the pugnacious attitude of the foster-father and the reluctance of the little ones to abandon him blocked her efforts. She took to disconsolate chucking and scratching in a corner of the yard, while the victorious thief of a family got busy taking care of the chicks.

He found it hard to encompass the whole troupe at night when it came time to shelter them, but by stretching his legs and wings he just managed it. Now the bantam is utterly disdained by the other roosters. Even the hens show their contempt by pecking at him whenever he ventures within reach.

Mrs. Bert Kirk of East Palestine, Ohio, remained awake forty-five days until April 25, when she fell into a sleep from which she cannot be aroused. She had suffered for three months with an attack of the grip.

Hovering between life and death at the County hospital at Los Angeles is T. Hinas, a Mexican boy, 9 years of age, who died "not windy but too well" on pollywogs and anguillaworms. He was found in convulsions sometime after partaking of his peculiar meal, in the dry bed of the Los Angeles river, not far from his parents' home.

Miss Rhoda Taylor, of Lewiston, Pa., believed by all her friends to be a spinster, died several months ago. The administrator advertised to sell the farm, an old homestead, with stock and implements. On the day of the sale the auctioneer mounted the block and announced that the sale had been indefinitely postponed. It has just leaked out that on the morning of the sale, Miss Taylor's will was found. In it she bequeathed all her property to her husband. Attached to the document was a marriage certificate showing that she had been married to Samuel Gilliland, a well known farmer of the valley, more than five years prior to her death.

HAVERHILL COS.

Granted Right to Transport Liquors

HAVERHILL, May 6.—The municipal council last night ended the wrangle that has been going on for two weeks over the applications of five local express companies for the right to transport intoxicating liquors into this city by granting permits to three companies, the American Express company, Marston's express and Carter Russell company.

Mayor Moulton and Alderman Harris voted for all five permits; Alderman Desmond voted for the three that were granted and Kilian voted against all. Messrs. Moulton, Harris and Desmond took the stand that by the statutes they were obliged to grant one or more permits, while Alderman Kilian and Bean argued that the people had voted no license and therefore should be given a dry city.

Besides acting on the express problem, the council re-elected Herbert F.

Taylor to a term of six years on the license commission. Alderman Bean voted for Frank E. Giles, but the remaining four members of the board perfected the election. Mr. Taylor was a member of the board against whom Rev. Frederick B. Greul preferred charges last fall.

How to Cure Pimples

It is truly remarkable how Cadum, the new skin remedy, causes pimples to disappear. The very worst cases are frequently cured in a week, and often in even less time. Cadum causes pimples to dry up and fall off, leaving the skin as soft and smooth as a baby's. Pimples are a disease of the skin, and are not caused by bad blood, as many people suppose. Cadum cures these annoying and disfiguring facial blemishes because it can be applied directly to dry up and soothe the trouble, and its soothing, antiseptic and healing powers stop the itching at once. Cadum is just as efficacious in other skin troubles, such as blackheads, blotches, rash, eruptions, acne, eczema, etc. 10c and 25c; all druggists.

Where the Big Tennis Stars Will Play During the Season

By TOMMY CLARK.

THE lawn tennis season of 1910 has actually forged ahead in the zone of championship contests. The opening of the actual playing occurred earlier this year in most parts of the country than for many years past. Of course as far as the championship events are concerned the interscholastic tournaments were first scheduled, and several of them have already occurred. The matches at the universities throughout the country are always the first titular racket contests of each season.

The first really big tournament of national importance is the middle Atlantic states championship at the Bachelors' club in Washington. This series will be notable because of the announced intention of W. A. Larned, the five time national champion, to be on hand to play. If he is in any way form he should easily win the tourney.

Two features loom up large in the annual list of championships and open tournaments for the season issued recently. For the first time in the history of the game the all corners' national championship tournament on the casino courts at Newport, R. I., will begin on Monday instead of Tuesday, the designated date being Aug. 15. The meeting is to be the climax of the lawn tennis year, as is made evident by placing the clay court championship tournament of the United States, over which so much controversy has been waged, on Aug. 1 on the courts of the Omaha (Neb.) Field club.

The latter date is a change from the original intention, as the first week of September was asked by the western players. From the dates it is evident that the executive committee intends to allow nothing to overshadow Newport's time honored session on the courts. The women's national tournament, as usual, holds the courts of the Philadelphia Cricket club at Wissahickon heights the week of June 20.

As it stands the list of 119 tournaments is most representative and is larger than in any previous year.

The list of important tournaments follows:

May 21—Longwood Cricket club, Boston, New England intercollegiate championship.

May 23—Bachelors' Lawn Tennis club, Washington, middle Atlantic states championship.

May 25—New York Lawn Tennis club, New York city, Manhattan doubles, open, singles.

May 25 to 30—Brae Burn Country club, West Newton, Mass., Massachusetts state championship, doubles.

May 26—Merion Cricket club, Philadelphia, women's championship of Pennsylvania and the eastern states.

June 6—Merion Cricket club, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania state championship for men.

June 11—Longwood Cricket club, Boston, Massachusetts state championship, singles.

June 14—Trenton Country club, Trenton, N. J., central New Jersey championship.

June 18—West Side Tennis club, New York city, metropolitan championship.

June 20—Philadelphia Cricket club, Wissahickon heights, Philadelphia national championship for women's singles, doubles and mixed doubles.

June 27—Orange Lawn Tennis club, Orange, N. J., middle states championship.

July 9—Illinois state championship at the Aztec Tennis club, Chicago.

July 18—Northwestern championship at Lake Minnetonka, Minn.

July 18—Longwood Cricket club, Boston, western doubles championship and nineteenth annual Longwood singles.

July 23—Owensville club, Chicago, western championship doubles, western singles for men and women.

July 27—Crescent Athletic club, New York state championship, singles and doubles.

Aug. 1—Omaha Field club, Omaha, Neb., clay court championship of the United States.

Aug. 2—Owensville club, Chicago, preliminary national doubles.

Aug. 15—Newport casino, Newport, R. I., United States National Lawn Tennis association's championships in singles, doubles and interscholastic singles.

Aug. 22—Niagara-Lawn Tennis association, Niagara-on-Lake, Canada, international open tournament.

Sept. 7—E. Merion Cricket club, Philadelphia, intercollegiate championship.

Sept. 12—Morristown Field club, Morristown, N. J., New Jersey state championship.

Sept. 12—Bachelors' Lawn Tennis club, Washington, District of Columbia championship.

Sept. 23—Longwood Cricket club, Boston, women's singles, doubles and mixed doubles.

Feb. 22, 1911—Seventh Regiment Tennis club, New York city, indoor championship for men.

March 11—Seventh Regiment Tennis club, New York city, indoor championship for women.

Davis Cup Plans.

England and America are already moving toward the deciding of the preliminary matches between the British Isles lawn tennis team and the Americans for the Davis international challenge cup, either at Wimbledon, London or in New Zealand.

The Australasian club recently to the English association with a view to arranging the competitions, probably for the courts at Christchurch, N. Z. Secretary Newburn of the British association says that before replying to the Australasians he had offered the Americans through Dr. James Dwight, president of the United States association, the choice of playing either at Wimbledon or in New Zealand. The English association stands ready to guarantee to the association of this country the same amount of expense money, about $2,000, that the Americans guaranteed to the English last season for the matches which were decided upon the courts of the Germantown Cricket club, Philadelphia. It is likely that this country will accept the proposition.

It is intimated that in any event no British team will visit this country for the international lawn tennis cup this season. Last year the Britons narrowly averted a split in their own association because of sending a team to this country. The situation was so fraught with tense feeling that two special meetings were held upon the subject, and only the diplomacy of the leaders saved the English team from withdrawing altogether.

From a reliable source it was learned that William A. Larned, the national champion, and the ex-champion, Beale C. Wright, would be the leaders of the American team that would invade England. In any case, according to the rules, the men need not be named before August and probably would not sail for London until after the national championship tournament at Newport had been decided.

Australasian Team Coming.

The Australasian Lawn Tennis association will send an invading team to America the coming summer in hope of capturing the national championship and other titles. It is announced that this team will consist of the four greatest players in Australasia—Norman E. Brookes of Victoria, Anthony F. Wilding of New Zealand, A. Walter Dunlop of Victoria and Dr. Sharp of New South Wales. The team probably will sail for America the latter part of May and will be accompanied by a team of six golfers comprising the best golf talent in the island continent.

Both teams will make complete tours of the United States and will compete in all of the important tournaments.

The visit of the Australasian players will mark the first appearance in the United States of players from the Pacific continent. Chief interest, of course, will attach to the appearance of the great Brookes, who for the last three years has been regarded as the greatest exponent of lawn tennis in the world. Wilding, his doubles partner, however, is almost as well known as Brookes and was responsible more than the latter for the victories of Australia over the two teams from America which invaded the British colony in 1908 and 1909 in quest of the Davis cup.

The other two members of the Australasian team, Dunlop and Dr. Sharp, are not so well known in this country, although Fred E. Alexander, holder with racket of the American doubles championship, regards the former as the greatest doubles player he ever has seen.

The actual plans of the Australasian team have not been made known, but it is regarded as a certainty that the quartet will appear in the western championships at Chicago this season.

Ryan to Help Train Nelson.

Evidently Oscar Battling Nelson, the former lightweight champion, intends to make as much of a fuss over himself in his coming battle with Ag. Wolgast as Jim Jeffries is now doing for his mixup with Jack Johnson. Although the battle is a long way off, the Dane has already made arrangements with Tommy Ryan to help him out in the training and handling of the big go.

"Ryan knows more about fighting than any man that ever lived," said Nelson recently. "He made Jim Jeffries, Kid McCoy and a host of other pugilists. I am too old a bird to be taught many new tricks, and it would be the height of foolishness for me to attempt to change my style, but Ryan can adapt himself to the circumstances, and when he has studied me—and that will only take him one day—he can teach me to vary my work and my fighting so as to make both far more effective than they have ever been."

"Ryan has more knowledge of the ring than all the other fighters in the world put together. I don't care how much a man knows, Ryan can teach him more. He is absolute master of every detail, and his high order of intelligence and his consummate cunning enable him to make a fighter out of any reasonable lumber. His advice alone in a corner would be worth all I am paying him. Believe me, if he would take Johnson in hand Jeffries' task of regaining the championship for the white race would be 100 per cent harder. I think the deal of signing him will make me a favorite in the betting over Wolgast—a very unusual thing as far as the opinion of the public is concerned."

"DOC" GESSLER, WASHINGTON'S STAR RIGHT FIELDER.

As has been the case many times before where a change of scene has made a good ball player out of an indifferent one, so has it been with Doc Gessler, guardian of the right garden for Washington. Listless playing marked Gessler's work for the Boston Americans last season, but now, with a seemingly weaker club, his playing surpasses any he did while with the Red Sox for the last couple of years. His fielding is perfect and his hitting timely and heavy.

Is "the Play" the Thing?

Southerner, Northerner, Frenchman and Manager's Representative Debate in Foyer and at the Lambs—Mabel Taliaferro's New Play—Nazimova's New Theater.

By FRANK H. BROOKS.

SCENE, foyer: people present, southern colonel, northern editor, Frenchman, manager's man. Time, after last curtain of "The Spendthrift" (by the author of "A Fool There Was"), in which Edmund Bressa played the role of a husband to the wife portrayed by Miss Thais Magrane, whose extravagance had ruined the husband financially and whose infidelity had made him mentally distracted, after all of which he forgave her and took her back.

Southern Colonel:—What an ending of a play! Where I live it could not have happened. The husband would have killed the man whom he brought to his wife's room and who confessed his wrong. Why don't playwrights stick to things as they occur?

Northern Editor:—When the husband found that he could not control his wife's extravagance and that she was dragging him to financial ruin, why didn't he divorce her? That's what a man in similar circumstances does in New England, no matter how much he loves his wife. Where's the moral in this play? If the playwright's idea is to set a gift, this ending is a warrant for any woman who has the disposition to go wrong.

Frenchman:—Have you seen the play of Laurence Irving, "The Three Daughters of Monsieur Dupont"? That is the way among the bourgeois. The question of love does not occur in the making of the match. It is a commercial transaction—a marriage of convenience. The girl Julie is simply bartered off for the benefit of two families. After the marriage the husband, embittered because he doesn't get as much money with the girl as the bargain called for, quarrels with the wife. A regular rough and tumble fight is pulled off between them in which the garments of the wife are rudely disarranged. Then the two families get together, and husband and wife are reconciled. That is the way it comes out in the play.

Southern Colonel:—No gentleman would engage in a scrimmage such as you describe with his wife. If that's permissible in a play I say d—n the play. What's a play for? In comic opera it is different. But a play is supposed to be a mirror of everyday life.

Northern Editor:—Our novels of the day end the same way. And I say hang them!

Frenchman:—Ah, but in France, where the marriage is for convenience, and such things do occur there, everything is possible.

Manager's Man (butting in):—Well, we are playing for money. If the play brings in the ducks, what's the odds how it ends?

Discussion is transferred to the Lambs club, and a bunch of playwrights listen and laugh.

A MAKEUP HIT.

Playgoers with a past will remember the Lone Fisherman in "Evangeline." Never spoke he a word, but he got more hands than any one in the cast. There are several plays in which some one has only an enter and exit part, but they are mere cogs in the works and pass without notice. Silence alone is without consequence. Makeup and action are telling points. If the Seldom has there been seen on any stage in the parts referred to one who made such a favorable impression as Miss Louise Wolfe, who takes the character of the maid, Justine, in Laurence Irving's production of Brieux's "The Three Daughters of Monsieur Dupont," at the Comedy theater in New York. The few words spoken by the maid are almost inaudible in the back rows. And what she says scarcely makes a complete sentence.

The makeup would attract no attention in the street, but seen on the stage and taken in connection with the sullen action of the character it stands out as conspicuously as anything done by any of the other actors, who are admirably well balanced for the part which their portrayals. If the most frayed theatrical expression may be permitted "It is worth the price of admission" to see Miss Louise Wolfe in her striking makeup in one of the most interesting plays now on the boards.

STAGE CALL FOR CHILDREN.

According to two playwrights whose productions are now running in New York, if a wife can bear children (or a child) the course of her domestic life will run on as placidly as the brook that murmurs under the leafy boughs of June. He would be an unmitigated scoundrel who would doubt the blessings that follow childhood in a house. But it is something new for a playwright to drag in the question as it is dragged in and in the way in which the drag is done in the two plays in question. The matter is not hinted at in any delicate fashion, but is bluntly put. In one case a young man who is engaged to be married is asked by his guardian if he has asked the young woman if she would object to bearing a child. The playwright thinks he has taken the curse from the rather singular question when he puts into the mouth of the young man the words, "I do not think it would be proper to ask my fiancée such a question."

In the other play the awful rumpus between husband and wife, which ends in a fight literally all over the stage, grows out of the longing of the wife to be a mother. Thank heaven there are such wives, but how often have you seen this sort of thing brought out in a play?

AN INCIDENT AFTER THE PLAY.

It was the night after the production of Laurence Irving's play at the Comedy theater in New York. In one party waiting for the chauffeur was the attractive figure of Maxine Elliott. In another party stood the splendidly gowned Miss Nazimova. In the doorway lingered the tall form of Dan Frohman. Several well known authors stood near. Miss Elliott's escort endeavored to get her through the crush to her car. The name did the work of Mme. Nazimova. A big car stopped at the outer edge of the sidewalk. Somebody in the crowd said, "Stand back!" and then a pretty young woman, modestly attired, on the arm of a young man, had the right of way. The pair entered the big limousine and was hurried away. One of the attractively gowned women in the crowd was heard to say, "Well, did you ever!"

Then another one, not a woman, said, "Great change in that young man. Not long ago he was sleeping on a park bench when he was routed out by a policeman."

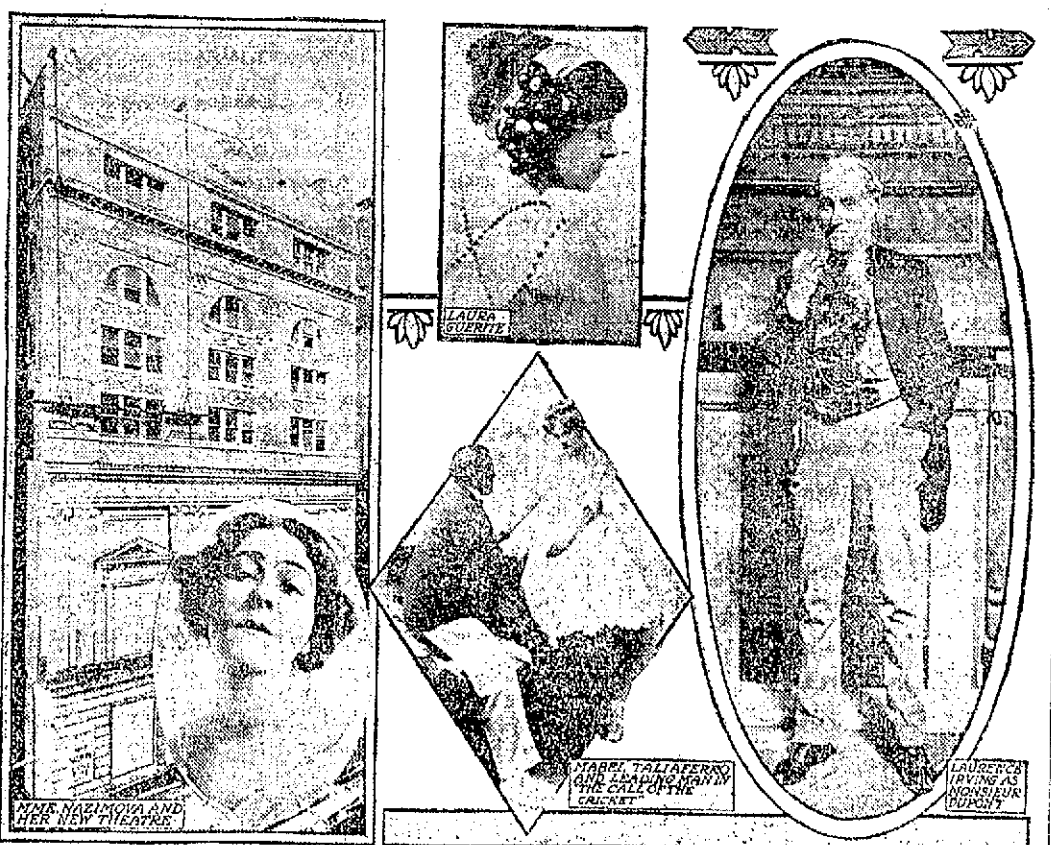

The young man referred to was Eugene Walter, now a successful playwright. The pretty young woman on his arm was his wife, Charlotte Walker, who has just closed her engagement in her husband's play, "Just a Wife." The twain had seats in the back rows of the Comedy. The others mentioned had boxes. But in the street the playwright and his pretty little wife came first. By the way, you have heard before this under Miss Walker will in the future be under the direct management of her husband instead of that of Belasco. Walter believes that he will be able to manage as well as to write. It is a theory of some play people that when

Miss Mabel Taliaferro, Nazimova, Laurence Irving and Laura Guerite

Miss Mabel Taliaferro (Mrs. Frederic Thompson) has a new part in the pretty and old fashioned play "The Call of the Cricket." The play is the creation of Edward Peple. It is having a successful season at the Belasco theater in New York city. In this play Miss Taliaferro impersonates a spirited Kentucky beauty who falls in love with a New York millionaire. The story is one that enters vitally into daily life. The production is artistically staged by Mr. Thompson. The leading man in the three act production is Everett Butterfield, who takes the part of Norman Marsh. Miss Taliaferro's part is Rosalie, the cricket. She has never before attempted such a part, and in it she shows that she can do something besides portraying emotion parts which are so commonplace and simple.

Mme. Nazimova did the best she could with an impossible play at Nazimova's Thirty-ninth Street theater. New York (It is hoped that the Messrs. Shubert will put the condenser on the title), which she christened April 18 in spite of weepy skies. The play was Ibsen's "Little Eyolf." Its first production in this country was by a company of Scandinavian amateurs in Chicago in 1895. It was a typical first night audience that greeted Mme.

Nazimova and a really good support. A typical first night audience in New York means all the critics, as many professionals as are not engaged elsewhere, authors and such society people as are on good terms with the management of the house. These audiences are usually brilliant in the way of attire. Such a turnout in a new and pretty playhouse made them desirable. The picture of the new theater is from a photograph taken while the building was receiving its finishing touches.

The picture of Mr. Laurence Irving shows him in the character of Monsieur Dupont in Brieux's modern play (translation), "The Three Daughters of Monsieur Dupont," recently produced at the Comedy theater, New York, in which Mr. Irving's wife, Mabel Hackney, is leading woman. Mr. and Mrs. Irving will spend a part of the summer at the home of M. Brieux in France and will there arrange for the translation and production of other Brieux plays. They will return to the United States in the opening of the autumn season and bring out at the Comedy

"Got Busy With Emily" is the rattling title of a new French farce that is on the eve of being brought out at the Broadway theater under the direction of A. H. Woods. The star who will twinkle it into existence is Miss Laura Guerite, who has fetching beauty and stage attraction. "Got Busy With Emily" is booked for an indefinite run.

a star leaves the Belasco armament it shines no more. Walter does not think so. Well, wait.

ABOUT MAUDE ADAMS.

Cynical critics assert that Maude Adams has so could not get where she is in her profession. The same thing is true of many others. Nevertheless she is there. Aside from her ability it must be admitted that few American actresses have her strong personality, this in spite of the fact that no actress poses less for notice. One day she was at a hotel in the interior. There was dispute among the bell boys as to which should answer her call. The head clerk said to the proprietor, "I will willingly take the place of any bellboy to look after the needs of Miss Adams." At the same time the clerk, who has seen many famous people, added: "No one has ever come to this house who was so reserved as Miss Adams. She is seldom seen in the corridors and has never troubled anybody here."

The real popularity of actors or actresses is measured by their standing with the employees of the theater. Wherever Miss Adams plays she is known to the helpers as the "little lady." Scrubwomen almost fight for the privilege of caring for her dressing room. The property man is alert to decorate it, the electrician is eager to see that the lights are all right, and the carpenter gives close attention to everything that he thinks will add to the comfort of the "little lady." Not long ago when Miss Adams was in Cincinnati she met the big German who looks after the properties. For some time he was so important in his bearing that the manager asked him what was the matter, and he replied, "I guess it is because Miss Adams shook hands with me the day she arrived at the theater."

STAGE AND FOYER WHISPERS.

"Beethoven" had its first production in this country at the New theater in New York, Monday, April 11, and closed the season at that house. It was given last winter in Paris and was considered one of the most artistic offerings in the French capital. While in the main it is a biography, it has considerable dramatic action.

POISON CASES

Occur in a Most Serious Form in Match Factories

WASHINGTON, May 6.—Phosphorus poisoning in the most serious form occurs in this country in match factories, according to a report by the bureau of labor of the department of commerce and labor, the conclusion being based upon a report made by Dr. John B. Andrews, secretary of the American Association for Labor Legislation of his investigation of the subject.

The manufacture of matches where white phosphorus is used as in all American factories, says the report, exposes all employees who come in contact with the phosphorus and most frequently attacks the jawbones and not infrequently necessitates the removal of an entire jaw by surgical operation. The danger cannot be eliminated, according to the report, but can be lessened by perfect ventilation. The report says that the United States is the only commercial country of importance which has not taken any steps to prevent the unrestricted use of white phosphorus in match manufacture.

THE RUSSELL CASE

Motion to Give an Early Hearing Was Denied

BOSTON, May 6.—The motion of petition of Daniel Blake Russell of North Dakota, for a speedy hearing of the appeal of the claimant from the decision of Judge Lawton of the Minnesota probate court, will not be heard by Judge Sheldon at the present sitting of the supreme court, which will come to a close tonight.

A hearing on Mr. Nelson's motion had been postponed before because of the illness of Leslie A. Simpson, counsel for the petitioner, and was called up for the third time at yesterday's adjournment. The absence of Mr. Simpson being noted, his Boston associate in the case, Nelson L. Sheldon, informed the court that Mr. Simpson was still sick, and that, although he hoped, he would be able to come to the office next week, he certainly would not be well enough to do any business for some time.

To a question from the court as to his attitude toward the motion, Mr. Sheldon said that he stood ready to oppose it, whereupon the judge announced that as the present sitting would practically end with today's proceedings, any further presentation of the matter by the contending counsel must be made de novo before the supreme court sitting in Suffolk county. This carries the nearest time possible for the hearing forward to the June term, and seems to preclude any trial of the main case—if the court should grant one—before the October term.

The persons present who are directly interested in the Russell case were the petitioner, who claims to be Daniel Blake Russell, of Dakota; William C. Russell and Ferdinand B. Almy, respondents; Messrs. Nason, Eugene C. Upton and Sheldon. As a spectator there were H. R. Stanley, partner of William Odlin, the Boston lawyer of the man from Fresno, Calif., who says he is the long lost brother.

Dakota Dan came early and took a seat well in the rear of the courtroom until the time for the hearing on the motion arrived, when he moved up to a position inside the bar with the others. It so happened that his seat was beside Mr. Almy and alignment with the Mr. Russell of Melrose, but the latter studiously avoided any recognition, or even looking at the man who claims to be his brother.

The newspaper announcements of the hearing sufficed to bring in some 40 or 50 men and women from Melrose and elsewhere who are friends of the one they always call "Dan," and the moment the court proceedings were over they crowded around him to obtain a grasp of the hand and give their assurance of loyalty to his cause. While this demonstration was going on William C. Russell passed through the crowd on his way out of the courtroom but steadily maintained his stoical indifference without the slightest manifestation of interest or feeling.

JACKIE A SUICIDE

NEW YORK, May 6.—Richard E. Hawkins, a jackie on the battleship Nebraska, shot himself dead yesterday at Orange, N. J., on the doorstep of the girl he loved. He was found grasping in one hand the revolver and in the other a photograph of Lillian Koenig, a girl of 20, who had refused to marry him.

On the back of the card he had written:

"I leave you forever, darling, and go where pain and sorrow are not heard of. May God be with you for life and may He forgive me the sin I have done. Goodbye, my darling Lillian. I am dead."

Hawkins had wooed Miss Koenig for six months, had repeatedly asked her to marry him and she, steadily refused.
